Cupid's Advice:

Marriage isn't to be taken lightly, so you want to make sure you're really ready to make the commitment. Cupid has some advice:

1. You make long-term plans together: If you and your significant other have discussed long-term subjects like how many children you want to have, and your plans are similar, then that is a good sign that this person may be a good life partner for you.

2. Your friends and family like your partner: It is always beneficial if your friends and family think highly of your partner. Your friends and family are the people who know you best and if they think that this person is right for you, then they probably are. Although, don't get too hung up if one of your friends or family members does not particularly like your future spouse- some people just don't get along. If you love your partner and trust them, you don't need every single person's approval.

3. You can't imagine your life without them: Yes, you should be able to conduct your life independently if anything were to happen with your partner in the future, but it's not a bad thing if you truly wish to spend the rest of your life with a certain someone. It is a marvelous thing if someone has made such a positive impact on your life that you don't even want to think about life without them. Overall, when you are ready to marry your partner, your heart will know.
