too much arguing and not any infidelity.

In celebrity news, Cardi B and Offset may be having second thoughts about their split. How do you know when your relationship is truly over?

Cupid's Advice:

It can be hard to determine when a relationship has officially run its course, and even harder to let go when you two share a long past or children. If you are looking for ways to determine if your relationship is truly over, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You're not yourself: It can be difficult to determine just how much a failing relationship is affecting your life. If you find yourself getting tired or irritated in situations that have nothing to do with your current relationship, the emotions can still be coming from this source of stress. Take a moment to assess your current state of mind and see if relationship drama is carrying into other areas of your life.

2. You've split many times before: Sometimes you truly need to break-up with someone to understand just how much they mean to you. In some cases, a temporary break can lead to a more solid relationship in the future. However, if you have split multiple times with your current partner, or have started taking breaks more frequently, it may be a sign that your relationship is coming to an end.

3. You've spoken with professionals: Many people turn to relationship counselors when they are experiencing trouble with their partner to find new ways to problem-solve. If these new communication methods or techniques aren't helping to repair your relationship, it might be time to consider breaking up. Relationship counselors will also sometimes recommend splitting from your partner if they feel your relationship is irreparable.
