When it comes to love you have to give it your all even if it's the end! Cupid has 3 last-ditch efforts that could save your relationship:

1. Take the b-word off the table: You don't want a possible break-up to be hanging over your heads. So, take it off the table, because in order to make the relationship work, you must create a safe space. This means no ultimatums and no threats of any kind. This also includes planning, thinking about breaking up or pursuing other relationship as if you're going to break up. This is serious, as using the b-word creates uncertainty and pressure in a relationship. You have to completely remove breaking up from the table.

2. Opportunity to evolve: In order for a relationship to heal, vulnerability has to be reintroduced to the relationship. This means giving your partner another chance to evolve and to change in order to be a better partner. This gives them and you another chance to respond differently to your needs and to look at love differently.

3. Work on yourself: The most important relationship you can ever be in and improve upon is the one you have with yourself. By fixing yourself, you change the way you see and react to others – your partner included. This may mean they will change the way they respond to you. To save your relationship, work on yourself!

Cupid's Advice:

It can be hard to ignore gossip and rumors when you are in a relationship. It's annoying because you don't know where it came from or why anybody is saying anything to begin with. Cupid has some ways on how to keep break-up rumors from affecting your relationship:

1. Don't feed into it: The best thing you can do is to not feed into the rumors. Giving attention to this hurtful gossip will make things worst by allowing the gossip to grow and potentially spiral out of control. When someone asks if you heard it? Say yes and keep it moving. Eventually your silence will show the person who started the nasty rumor that you could care less and the rumors will stop. Silence is stronger than any other answer, remember that.

Cupid's Advice:

When you break up or go through a divorce, fighting can be inevitable. Although fighting is never good, it is much better to argue in private rather than cause a show for people to watch. Cupid has some advice on ways to keep your custody battle out of the limelight:

1. Agree on privacy: If you can't agree on anything else, try to agree on keeping things between the two of you. When going through a sensitive time, keeping things private allow you and your ex to face the issues at hand without interference. Not only that, as heated as arguments get, people won't see how "heated" you can really get. We all do things out of anger so why advertise it just to regret it later.

2. Keep it short and sweet: Think about it. When someone asks about your current situation with your ex and you calmly say you aren't seeing eye to eye, they won't know what to say. Usually people rant and rave and tell people details and sometimes, that's just what people are looking for. While I'm sure you have one or two people you can trust to keep quiet, going into details with other's is an invitation to have your business spread.

3. Keep Calm: Sometimes you just want to break your ex's windows or bleach their clothes. Well, don't. Keeping calm during this time will just let people assume everything is fine, which isn't a bad thing. Reframe from doing anything that will cause attention because it will do just that, not cause any attention. Attention will bring more confusion and during a sensitive time like this, you don't need that. As upset as you are, you don't want people or your children to see it. Children repeat everything and all you need is for them to repeat something.
