This celebrity wedding was unique and personalized. What are some ways to personalize your nuptials?

Cupid's Advice:

The Siriano-Walsh wedding had tons of style and incorporated so many personal touches. Take a page out of this celebrity couple's book, and personalize your nuptials:

1. Venue: If you're looking to personalize your wedding, start at square one—with the venue. Where you chose to have your wedding can say a lot about you and your betrothed. If you're traditional or religious, you may choose to get married in a place of worship. If you're both outdoorsy, have your ceremony on a beach or in a field. If you're adventurous, plan a destination wedding. Let the setting of your ceremony be the backdrop for who you two are as a couple.

2. Food: Personalizing your food is a basic, but important part of your wedding. If you grew up in a family that is connected to their culture, let it shine through in the cuisine. Whether it's traditional Indian, Chinese, or Italian, your heritage is a big part of who you are, and the food was no doubt a big part of your life growing up. If you want to personalize your food in a more small scale way, consider picking out a custom cake topper.

3. The wedding favor: Aside from photos, the wedding favor may be the longest lasting piece of your wedding. Choose something that will stand the test of time and that reflects your personality. It could be as simple as flower seeds for guests to plant and grow, or a monogrammed bottle opener for guests to use in the future.
