In celebrity break-up news, it's officially over between Julianne Hough and Brooks Laich. How do you know when your relationship is irreparable?

Cupid's Advice:

Trying to salvage a relationship can be tricky, so it's important to know when to call it quits. If you're looking for signs that your relationship is irreparable, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You've already tried everything: If you're trying to decide if your relationship is able to be fixed, it's important to assess what you've already tried. If you and your partner have tried to fix things for quite a long time, or even tried therapy, and you find yourself exhausted because things still aren't working, it may be time to call it quits.

2. Your relationship has become harmful to one or both of you: Another sign that may help you know that your relationship is irreparable is if you find the relationship to be doing more harm than good to one or both of you. Once your relationship makes you and your partner unhappy often or has caused damage or harm to you, that is definitely a major sign that it may not be salvageable anymore.

3. You no longer trust each other: Another sign of an unfixable relationship is a lack of trust. Continuing in a relationship without trusting your partner will only cause more problems down the road, so if you have tried everything to rebuild trust, and you still can't rely on each other, your relationship may not be repairable at that point.

In celebrity break-up news, Jessie J is seemingly speaking out about her unhealthy relationship with Channing Tatum. What are some tell-tale signs that you're in an unhealthy relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

1. There's no compromise: One of the most important aspects of a relationship is the willingness to compromise. It is likely that you and your partner will not agree on everything, but when both people are willing to compromise in different ways, it allows for healthy communication and an overall healthy relationship. However, if your partner is not compromising in any way and you are constantly forced to follow their decisions, you are in an unhealthy relationship.

2. Other areas of your life are impacted: Unhealthy relationships can cause a great deal of stress and frustration when you are around your partner, but these feelings can also spread into other areas of your life. If you feel yourself getting frustrated with your other friends or work environment but are unsure why, it may be stemming from stress that started in your relationship.

3. You feel worse about yourself: The person you are in a relationship with should never leave you questioning your own worth or how much they care about you. While nearly every relationship goes through a rough patch, there should never be a time where your partner makes you feel like less of a person. This willingness to put you down shows a lack of overall respect and is likely a sign of unhealthy love.

After a break-up, it's easy to get wrapped up in the drama of an intense split, but sometimes, taking the high road will make things a lot easier. If you're looking for ways to keep your split civil and peaceful, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Make a conscious choice: If you want your break-up to remain civil and peaceful, the first thing to do is make a conscious choice to do so. Make the decision to be peaceful and stick to it. This intentional effort will make it easier to stay peaceful as you deal with the aftermath of a split.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Ups: Lenny Kravitz Blew It During First Meeting with Ex Lisa Bonet

2. Stay off social media: One of the worst things you can do after a break-up is bring it to social media. Posting about your ex or your break-up only adds more chaos and drama to the situation. By Nicole Maher

According to EOnline.com, Kravitz outlines how when first meeting Bonet, he "kind of blew it" by complimenting her hair. went on to get married and have a daughter before announcing their celebrity break-up in 1993.

In celebrity break-up news, not all love stories have a perfect beginning, middle, and end. What do you do if you make a bad impression on your crush the first time you meet them?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes when we get nervous or are trying to impress someone we end up saying the wrong thing. While this may not lead to the best first impression, it doesn't mean that we completely blew our shot. If you are looking for some ways to make up for a bad first impression, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Acknowledge and apologize: Oftentimes the easiest way to move past an awkward encounter is to simply acknowledge it happened and apologize for it. This will ensure your crush that you also thought the first impression wasn't the best so they are not left wondering if that's how you normally act. Once the air is cleared, focus on impressing them next time!

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Up: Prince William Dumped Then-Girlfriend Kate Middleton Over the Phone

2. Don't dwell on it: While the fact that you made a bad first impression on your crush may still be on the forefront of your mind, it is important not to dwell on this encounter. If you spend too much time focusing on what you did wrong, it can make it more difficult to show your crush your real personality moving forward. Once you've acknowledged it, just let it go!

3. Nail the second impression: First impressions are not last impressions. Once the air is cleared from an awkward first encounter and you have stopped dwelling on what you originally said, take every opportunity moving forward to make a better impression. Over time, your crush will forget how bad your first impression may have been and only think of the ways you have impressed them since.

Cupid's Advice:

It can be hard to determine when a relationship has officially run its course, and even harder to let go when you two share a long past or children. If you are looking for ways to determine if your relationship is truly over, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You're not yourself: It can be difficult to determine just how much a failing relationship is affecting your life. If you find yourself getting tired or irritated in situations that have nothing to do with your current relationship, the emotions can still be coming from this source of stress. Take a moment to access your current state of mind and see if relationship drama is carrying into other areas of your life.

2. You've split many times before: Sometimes you truly need to break-up with someone to understand just how much they mean to you. recommend splitting from your partner if they feel your relationship is irreparable.

Cupid's Advice:

Ending a relationship is never fun, but sometimes it is the only way to move forward with your own life. If you are looking for some ways to break the news to your soon-to-be ex partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. In person: The most respectful way to end a relationship with someone else is to have a conversation in person. Whether it is a newly formed relationship that you don't see working long term, or a relationship that has lasted years, the other person still deserves to be present for the conversation. This will allow the two of you to discuss the break-up without too much getting lost in the translation of technology.

2. Video chat: If distance is a factor in the relationship, or you truly cannot bring yourself to meet with your soon-to-be ex in person, video chats are a good alternative. This will allow you to break to news while still being able to see their face and register their emotions. While this option isn't as good as physically meeting up with someone, it is more respectful than a phone call or text.

Related Link: Celebrity News: Valerie Bertinelli Pays Tribute to Late Ex-Husband Eddie Van Halen

3. Over the phone: As a last resort, break-ups can be done over the phone. If this is the route you chose to take when ending things with your partner, be sure to pick a time that allows for both of you to have a full conversation rather than calling while one of you is at work. While phone calls are far from the best option in terms of ending a relationship, they are still more respectful than sending a text or not telling your partner at all.

Cupid's Advice

Relationships can be very demanding and overwhelming sometimes. If you're feeling trapped or suffocated in a relationship and you're wondering what to do, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Be honest: If you're having concerns about being suffocated in a relationship, the first thing to do is to be honest with your partner about it. Your partner may be able to change their behavior and cater to your needs so that the relationship is more suitable for what you want.

2. Set boundaries: If your partner is on board to make a change in your relationship, it's important to set boundaries. Tell them exactly what behaviors are okay and which ones aren't. If your partner is able to make these changes effectively, it may show that there is hope for your relationship to be less suffocating.

3. Cut it loose: If you're able to work on a relationship with your partner, it can help with feeling less suffocated, but if you are feeling trapped in your relationship, that may mean something is seriously wrong. If you're not completely happy and for some reason feel like you can't get out of your relationship, then it is important that you cut it loose. Once you become a parent, having to put your children's needs in front of your own is a must. If you're looking for ways to do that while maintaining a healthy relationship, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Set up a plan: In order to keep your relationship strong while trying to parent, it's important that you are always communicating. Having open and honest lines of communication with each other will allow you to work as a team. Set up a plan to establish what is happening for the weeks or months ahead. By doing this you'll be able to see what kinds of scheduling conflicts or personal events are taking place and who needs to cover what. Organization is key! Not only will this eliminate stress, but you will feel more connected to your family unit.

Cupid's Advice:

Acknowledging that your relationship is over can be difficult, but moving on to something healthier and happier is worth it.

Cupid has some advice for you on when to know when its really over:

1. Your mental health is suffering: If you aren't feeling like yourself anymore, and the relationship is the root cause, it's time to move on. Letting your mental health suffer for the sake of another person isn't healthy or positive. Love the life you live, with confidence and strength!

2. The spark is gone: When your relationship feels more like a friendship, then maybe it's become just that. Relationships evolve over time, sometimes deepening that initial romantic connection and other times shifting into a platonic partnership of comfortability. Recognize this shift and have an honest conversation with your partner. It's not fair to either of you, staying in a romantic relationship that you aren't 100% invested in.

In celebrity break-up news, another 'BiP' couple has called it quits. What are some ways to announce your split to family and friends?

Cupid's Advice:

Announcing a break-up can be hard. There's never a right time or place to tell someone that you are done with your relationship. This is not something you can get perfectly right. Cupid has some advice on how to tell your family and friends that you are no longer dating your partner:

1. Break the news when you're ready: Just because you guys broke up two days ago does not mean that you have to tell the world that you guys are no longer together. Give yourself some time to come to terms with it and then tell your family and friends.

2. Tell them in person in an intimate setting: Talking to someone face-to-face can show you the emotions that they feel by the reaction that they give you. It's easier to open up about pressing topics and issues when you're in front of someone. Try rehearsing what you're going to say before you say it. Talking to someone about your break-up can also bring you comfort if you are sad. This will help release some of the pain that she might be feeling at this time.

3. Ask for some space: You'll need some time to process all of this. Having people tell you what you should and shouldn't do is not going to make the situation better. Tell them the truth about how you feel, but ask for your privacy at this time. When you're ready to have an in depth conversation about with the situation, let them know.

We'll see." He even went on to say that Teresa needs to find another man since she is "high maintenance."

In celebrity break-up news, things aren't looking promising for Teresa and Joe Giudice. What are some ways to decide whether to call it quits on your marriage?

Cupid's Advice:

Celebrity breakups aren't much different than ours. Even though there's fame and money, it doesn't change a lot about the dynamic when it comes to relationships. If you're on the rocks with your partner, and you don't know whether or not you should end the marriage, don't worry! Cupid has some love advice on when it might be a good idea to reevaluate your relationship:

1. No communication: The most important aspect of a relationship is the ability of both parties to be able to communicate with one another. If conversing openly and honestly with your partner has deteriorated, this might be a sign that the marriage needs to be reassessed. This is only if attempts to strengthen the communication has failed before.

2. Lack of respect: Joe dissing his wife Teresa by saying she needs to find another man that can handle her and her "high maintenance" tendencies is a very disrespectful thing to say about your partner. If you're in a marriage that shows levels of disrespect toward one another, your relationship has some layers of toxicity. Sit down and discuss why you're both saying such hateful things about one another, and if you cannot reach common ground, it might be a good idea to start packing your bags.

3. Low affection: This is something that can sometimes be harder to catch if both you and your partner have gotten into a routine that makes this behavior normal. If your marriage has faded into nothing, but low levels of attraction or intimacy, this may indicate a bigger issue. Try to figure out if this problem is fixable, and if it isn't, neither one of you deserves to be in a marriage that doesn't show the other the affection they need.

Cupid’s Advice:

Kylie Jenner and Travis Scott have called quits on their celebrity relationship. Jenner and Scott may get back together, but for now, they’ve decided it’s best for both of them to be apart. Cupid has some factors to consider before taking a break:

1. What you want: Consider what you actually want from the break. If you just want to hook up with new people perhaps you should actually break up with your partner. If you need time to rethink or rebalance then communicate with your partner that a break would be the best solution.

2. What the break means: We've all seen Friends and no one wants to be the Ross of the breakup. Clearly communicate with your partner exactly what the break will entail. Establish if you're comfortable with each other sleeping with other people. Basically, don't do what Ross did to Rachel.

3. How long it will be: How long you need for the break may change as time goes on. However, you and your partner should agree on the approximate length of the break. If it exceeds six months you should consider ending the relationship.

Cupid's Advice:

Break-ups can be hard, especially when it involves Hollywood couples in the spotlight. Luckily, Cupid is here to give you relationship advice on how to know if your partner is respectful, so you can avoid having relationship problems like Katie Holmes and Jamie Foxx:

1. Makes room for 'quality time': Everyone has busy lives and a multitude of responsibilities to deal with on a daily basis. However, if you and your partner can prioritize your relationship and make time for each other, that shows you two truly respect the relationship. You can tell your partner really makes an effort to spend quality time with you when they stick to important plans and don't constantly try to reschedule, or when they make an effort to show up on time for special events.

2. Appreciates your differences: Each and every one of us are different: we all have different personalities, pet peeves, needs, desires, etc. While it is unlikely that you and your partner are going to agree on everything or have the same exact perspective, it is important that you and your partner embrace the differences between each other. If your partner really respects you they will try to understand your way of thinking, if not completely agree with it... they may even learn something new if they are willing to appreciate the differences between you two, rather than discourage them.

3. Supports your goals: Your partner should be your #1 supporter, and if they are not, maybe they are not the best person for you to share your life and dreams with. Having a support system and someone who believes in you is essential in any relationship. If your partner doesn't rain on your parade and does nothing but shower you in love and support, then they are probably a keeper.
