Cupid's Advice:

As exciting as weddings are, they are super stressful. Big or small, weddings are not only expensive, but time consuming. Cupid has some advice on how to make planning a wedding less stressful:

1. Set a date: You don't have to set the date the day you get engaged but discussing when you would like to get married helps. If you and your now fiancé want to wait a year or two,

it helps you to build a time frame of when to things get done. Knowing the time of year and what year you would like to say “I do,” will also help you with figuring out venues, receptions, as well as other arrangements.

2. Start early: Do yourself a favor and start early! While you don't have to start as soon as you get engaged, determining the time of year you would like to have your special day helps. You can start inquiring about different venues or even consult a wedding planner. Either way, make it easier for yourself and start early! Availability and estimates are important so you can piece things together and essentially be able to enjoy your special day the way you want.

3. Have fun: Remember, although you are planning your special day, enjoy yourself while doing it. Make a day where friends come over and help you plan. You don't have to do it alone. Besides, you can't possibly forget to plan the bachelor/bachelorette party! Take a day and check out venues with friends. Having friends and family around while you plan will for the most part keep the stress level down.

This celebrity break-up left us with mixed feelings. How do you know when it's time to break up with your partner?

Cupid's Advice:

There are clearly not any tell-tale signs that it is time to break-up with your partner. Jax thought it was the best idea at the time but then he realized he was wrong. Yet, there is not a right or wrong answer to anything. You can only do what feels right in your heart in the moment. But, there are some specific indications that the relationship you are in may not be the best for you right now:

1. You find yourself wanting to do other things than spend time with your partner: If you would seriously rather lay in your bed and watch Netflix alone than go out with your boo, then that may be a problem. It is understandable to want your alone time sometimes, but it should not feel like a chore to go spend time with the one you love.

2. You bicker about everything: It is okay to not agree with your partner all the time, but if it has come to a point where bickering is draining both you and your partner, you need to have a talk. Are you bickering about small things all the time because there is something big that is bothering you both deep down? Be open and honest with each other and try to get your relationship happiness back before it is too late.

3. You constantly think about what else is out there: Is there someone out there who likes painting as much as I do? Do all partners snore so loud? Your loved one's traits should be endearing to you. It definitely may be time for a break-up if you constantly fantasize about if other people may be a better fit for you. Remember that everything is what you make of it. If you find yourself feeling this way but you do want to make it work, you can! You two just have to try together to get back on the right track. But if you find yourself feeling like this and it makes you realize that you really do not see a future with this person, then end it and be confident that your true love is out there and you will find them soon.
