Celebrity baby or not, getting ready for a bundle of joy takes work. What are three ways you and your partner can prepare for the arrival of your little one?

Cupid's Advice:

The latest celebrity baby news has us all excited, but preparing for your newborn will take some work. Here are three ways to prepare for the arrival of your little one:

1. Talk to other moms: There are many things about childbirth and infant care that only a veteran mom would know, so make sure you ask a friend or family member what to expect and how to prepare. They'll have recommendations for everything from what kind of crib to buy to what kind of bottles work best and can share tips on how to keep your marriage strong post-baby.

2. Prepare the nursery: Make sure that you are ready to bring your new baby into your home. Have the crib, changing table, and glider set-up before your little one arrives. Buy some clothes too – but not too many since you never know how big or small your bundle of joy will be! Once they're born, you probably won't have time to do these things.

3. Pick a doctor: The best time to start looking for a pediatrician is when you're still pregnant. You want to give yourself plenty of time to find someone who fits with your family and also accepts your insurance. Make sure they have a similar stance on vaccinations and medications too. Ask for suggestions from your OB/GYN or your nearby friends and family. This way, you'll be ready when that first cough comes up!

Naya Rivera Secretly Marries Ryan Dorsey on Original Wedding Date to Big Sean

By Shannon Seibert

Not a new boyfriend, but a new husband, Naya Rivera sure has moved quickly! Since her split from rapper Big Sean, just three months ago, Naya Rivera was just spotted last week vacationing in Mexico with Ryan Dorsey. Little did we know that the trip was not just a vacation. The couple tied the knot July 19th, the same date set for her a Big Sean's wedding! Incidentally, the 19th is also Dorsey's birthday, only adding to the joy of the date. Rivera had kept much under wraps about her relationship, and now marriage, to Dorsey. According to UsMagazine.com, the beautiful bride also invested in the same hair stylist as Kim Kardashian, undoubtedly she looked her best for her special day.

How do you decide the day on which to tie the knot?

Cupid's Advice:

Selecting a wedding date may not seem like a huge deal, but it's actually a defining process. There are so many factors to consider into picking your special day, it can actually be a little stressful. Relax and take a deep breath before taking these three major factors into consideration for choosing your newest anniversary date:

1. Time of year: Weather, holidays, and work schedules are all things to consider when planning a wedding. June may be too hot, December too chilly, too close to Christmas, or even too hot depending on your side of the globe. Nevertheless, you want to pick your perfect day based on your preferences. If you're in a time crunch, then you'll have to make some quick decisions. Weekend or weekday? All day or partial day? So many decisions that are all yours to make, so choose wisely.

2. Personal significance: Every couple has certain dates that mean more to them than others. If your dating-anniversary is coming up, that may be a cool idea for a wedding date. However, some couples like to spread out their meaningful dates throughout the year, so picking a wedding date that isn't too similar to other important occasions may seem more appealing. Talk to your partner about his preferences and select a date that will forever leave a mark on your hearts.

3. Location: Single handedly one of the most important points of the wedding is the venue. If you're planning to be wed on a beach, you don't want snow falling around you, just as you wouldn't want to have an outside wedding and then a torrential downpour make an appearance. Be sure to strategize your location based on your needs as a bride, and always be prepared for any type of weather or surprise that may come your way.

How do you know that your new relationship isn't just a rebound?

Cupid's Advice:

It can be hard to get over heartbreak and truly open your heart up to another partner. When you do find another relationship, how can you know that you've truly moved on and haven't just started dating this person as a rebound? Cupid has some advice for you.

1. Date them because you like them, not because you want to date. This is a common problem when you start to date again. You need to ask yourself if you truly like this person or if you just like having them around as a partner to fill the hole your last partner left. If you can't honestly answer that question correctly, maybe you shouldn't keep the relationship going.

2. Ask yourself if you could be happy without them. As important as it is to be happy with your new partner, you need to ask yourself if you could be happy as a single person. If not, maybe you need to learn how to be away from a relationship before taking your new one too far.

3. Think about why you're dating them. This might seem like the obvious way to go, but sometimes the answer to this question isn't very clear. Are you really dating them just to show off how much you've moved on? Or to get back at your ex? These are reasons showing that you clearly haven't moved on, and if your answer to that important 'why' question isn't "because I really like my partner," then yes, this is a rebound relationship.

'Glee' Star Naya Rivera Says She and Fiance Are 'On the Same Page' About Wedding Plans

By April Littleton

Wedding plans for Glee star Naya Rivera and Big Sean seem to be going very smoothly. "At the end of the day, he knows 'happy wife, happy life!'" Rivera told People. "So, he's kind of like, 'Whatever you want, babe!'"

What are some ways to compromise with your partner about wedding plans?

Cupid's Advice:

Your big day is slowly approaching, but there are still so many details left untouched. You and your significant other can't seem to agree on much these days and it's not from lack of trying. Don't worry, Cupid is here to help:

1. Share ideas: Let your significant other what you have in mind for your wedding and vice versa. Once all ideas are out on the table, try to find a way to combine the two to make something new and unique. If mixing plans isn't what you're looking for, maybe the two of you can think about what you're willing to give up. For example, your partner might want fresh flowers, while you could settle for artificial.

2. What's important: When you and your partner end up in an argument about the details of the wedding, think about what's really important. At the end of the day, the marriage you have with your significant other is what counts not the wedding. Yes, you still want to be able to look back and have fond memories of your reception and ceremony, but do you really think 10 years from now you'll still be upset over what flavor your wedding cake was?

3. Keep an open mind: You might not be a fan of your honey's ideas for the reception and ceremony, but keep in mind that it's their wedding too. When your family and friends come to your wedding, they should be able to recognize the elements you incorporated and what your partner chose as well.

How can you tell if you're with a jealous partner?

Cupid's Advice:

- 1. Test him: Try being friendly with the waiter, wearing a revealing dress in public or admitting your crush on George Clooney. If these actions bother him, then he is the jealous type.
- 2. Proximity: Next time you talk to a guy, try seeing if your partner gets closer to you or is more touchy. His apparent need to hold your hand or put his hand on your waist should clue you in to his jealousy.
- 3. Ask your friends: Many times your friends can see things that you can't. Chances are that they have been able to pick up on his jealousy-prone behavior if it's there.
