Cupid's Advice:

It can be hard to ignore gossip and rumors when you are in a relationship. It's annoying because you don't know where it came from or why anybody is saying anything to begin with. Cupid has some ways on how to keep break-up rumors from affecting your relationship:

1. Don't feed into it: The best thing you can do is to not feed into the rumors. Giving attention to this hurtful gossip will make things worst by allowing the gossip to grow and potentially spiral out of control. When someone asks if you heard it? Say yes and keep it moving. Eventually your silence will show the person who started the nasty rumor that you could care less and the rumors will stop. Silence is stronger than any other answer, remember that.

2. Actions speak louder than words: Remember, actions speak louder than words. Show your haters that you and your partner are still going strong and you are un-bothered. Not only will this shut down the person who started the rumor, it will shut down and questions or thoughts anyone else has about your relationship. To avoid ridiculous questions, this is the easiest way to keep the rumors away.

3. Talk about it: Make sure you and your partner are on the same page when it comes to these rumors. Talk it out in private about what you both know. From there, together, you should make the decision on how you are going to respond, if at all. Your relationship is bigger than a silly rumor so give each other the respect and time to figure out what your next move will be.

1. Those who have known you for the longest: There's definitely merit to trusting advice from those in your life who know you the best. If someone you don't know is pretending to have in depth insight into your relationship, it's probably red flag. Take whatever those types of people say with a grain of salt.

2. Certified/trained professionals: Some people dedicate their lives to helping people and giving advice.
