

Tai Lopez: Author and Entrepreneur

Dating with Dignity Telesummit: The Three Musts To Attract an Above Average Man

Tai is an aspiring renaissance man. He is the author of a few books on unrelated subjects, a member of MENSA: the high IQ society, a self made millionaire in his 20's, a Certified Financial Planner, CHFC, CLU, and most importantly a student of life with a ton of books (5000 plus at the last count). Founder of one of the largest online dating networks with over 30-40 sites with millions of online daters

He wishes no one ever had seen when he was on Bravo's "The Millionaire Matchmaker" – unfortunately his episode is the highest rated yet.

Tai is part of the list of college dropouts (but managed to earn 10 or so credits). He has been an entrepreneur for 18 years and has started 12 multi million dollar companies that are all still running successfully.

Tai is addicted to traveling (51 countries on 6 continents so far) seeking the advice of the world's top minds. He credits 90% of his success to five mentors (three millionaires and two billionaires) who pointed the way.

In his spare time he likes salsa dancing, Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu, and playing classical piano. He lives in the Hollywood Hills and occasionally throws big house parties for friends and the random acquaintances they bring along.

Tai broke his ankle recently playing basketball. So now he likes to show off his 2 high school state championship basketball trophies and reminisce.