

Jane Lynch Admires Wife's Bikini Bod

  Glee star Jane Lynch showed her appreciation for her wife Lara Embry at an Entertainment Weekly, according to People. The actress, who embodies outspoken Sue Sylvester on Fox's hit show, admitted that she loves seeing Lara Embry in a bikini. But, Gleeks won't be catching Jane Lynch in a midriff baring swimming suit anytime soon. "She wears bikinis – not me," said Lynch. That said, hot-tubbing is one of the couple's favorite pastimes. "We like to drink coffee, do a lot of talking and go hot-tubbing. Hot tub time is great," insists Lynch. Should you publicly appreciate your partner's body?

Cupid's Advice:

Everyone wants to feel wanted and attractive. Cupid has some appropriate ways to show appreciation for your partner's best physical assets:

- 1. Show off: When you and your partner get dressed up to go someplace nice, it's always good to compliment your partner within ear shot of others.
- 2. A Kodak moment: You can show your appreciation for your partner's physique with friends and family by showing pictures of you and your partner together. Say things like, "Doesn't she look great in that one?"
- 3. A group compliment: If you compliment how your partner looks in a group of friends, it may result in multiple compliments when your friends agree. Voicing your opinions to others will make your mate feel special.