

Lori Loughlin

Lori Loughlin was probably the aunt of your dreams if you grew up watching Full House. Best known for her role as Aunt Becky, she was the love interest of Uncle Jesse (John Stamos) and a fictional co-host on a morning TV show. Loughlin's career isn't just related to Full House, though. She has been in many movies and featured on dozens of TV shows, creating an extensive celebrity profile. She was a regular on Hudson Street, 90210, and was even featured on an episode of Seinfeld. In 2006, Loughlin won a PRISM award for Summerland for the best role in a drama series storyline.

Loughlin has recently reprised her role as Aunt Becky and appeared occasionally on Netflix's Fuller House series. Recently, John Stamos even referred to her as the one that got away! Have mercy! The chemistry between Stamos and her is still there, but just on screen. Loughlin is happily married to Mossimo Giannulli. The celebrity couple has been married since 1997, and have two daughters. Previously, Loughlin was married to Michael R. Burns, a wealthy banker. Money didn't buy her heart though, as that relationship only lasted for 7 years.