Cupid's Advice:

Dating isn't easy, this is especially true when heartbreak is involved. Everyone deals with break-ups differently, but sometimes it's tricky to put yourself out there after ending a relationship. For those questioning their next steps, let Cupid help you figure out if you should start dating again:

1. Bitterness is gone: You're ready to date again when you're no longer listening to sad love songs and getting hit with flashbacks. Having memories of your ex is fine, but if they're plagued with strong emotions you're simply not over them yet. You don't need to carry those sentiments into another relationship, so wait until your bitterness has passed before pursuing anything new.

2. You want to have fun: Sure, you can have a grieving period over your broken relationship, but staying home and being miserable gets old quick. If you're open to adding spontaneity and excitement into your life, then a new relationship might be just what you need. People who know how to have fun have better luck attracting partners with positive energy. It's also okay to just go with the flow and date someone for enjoyment.

3. Feel available: Before you attempt to date again, you have to ask yourself if you're ready to open yourself emotionally. Will you be able to have deep conversations or share your fears with a potential partner? Not having the ability to open up or trust are qualities that will surely hurt your future relationships. Aside from sharing your feelings, you need to make sure you'll be able to dedicate time to dating. You can't form a meaningful bond if you're only committed to yourself.
