Cupid's Advice:

Like this celebrity couple, sometimes breaks are necessary. People change and it's important to realize who we are before we can go back. But does that mean you should go back? Is lost love always lost? How do you decide what's best? Read our relationship advice below:

1. Know what you want: Monogamous, long-term relationships are not for everyone. There's no right or wrong to what makes you happy, but you need to know what does. If you're ok with an on-again off-again relationship, stay the course. If each break-up tears you down a little more, it's time to reevaluate. You deserve what makes you happy, but it starts by knowing what that is.

2. Know why it ended: Some relationships end for good reasons. While the end is painful and often leaves you wanting to go back, take a moment and reflect on what caused the end. Is it worth going back to that?

3. Who do you want to be? What does the future version of yourself have to do with your current relationship status? Everything. Imagine who it is that you want to be. Does your partner support that? Does the relationship hold you back from that vision? The only way to become the person you envision is to start acting like you're that person now. If someone distracts you from that vision, realize it's not what you need and move on.
