Cupid's Advice:

Calling off an engagement is rough. Nevertheless, it is better to realize now that it's not working out rather than later after you're married. Here are some reasons why you would possibly call off your engagement:

1. You argue all the time and cannot come to an agreement:

Relationships have to consist of good communication between partners. If you argue all the time, that is something you can work through. Now, if you argue all the time and just don't resolve anything, then there is a problem. If this is the case, your issues will likely build up and continue to cause havoc in your relationship.

2. There is no trust: There are times in a relationship where there may be a lack of trust, and many times couples work through it. However, when at the point where you're engaged, trust should be something that is prominently there. There is no reason why you should not trust the person you are going to marry.

3. There are things you cannot get past: If you're marriage is going to work, you need to have moved on from past mistakes your partner has made. Sometimes we remain in relationships without forgiving our partner for a past discretion. When engaged, the slate should be wiped clean in a way. You are about to start a new chapter in your lives, and if you still have past demons knocking on your door, you may already be a step toward divorce without even being married yet.
