Cupid’s Advice:

This potential new celebrity couple hit the town for a movie date night over the weekend, but the relationship is likely still casual. Cupid has some advice on when it’s time to move your casual relationship to something more serious:

1. You’ve had enough time to get to know each other: It may seem obvious, but you don’t want to get too serious about someone until you truly know them. The “getting to know you” process can take a long time, sometimes even years, but the initial phase of it should be complete before you invest too much in the relationship. Make sure you spend quality time with your potential partner and share the things that are important to you.

2. You’ve gotten over any past relationship hang-ups: It’s important that you're fully over your ex before you move on to something serious with someone else. It's okay to casually date if you're still getting over someone (sometimes it even helps you move on), but don't get too close to someone before you're sure he/she isn't a rebound.

3. You've decided it's worth it: Don't just get serious about someone because you want to be in a relationship and it's convenient. Make sure that the person you're considering getting close with has long-term potential. Otherwise, it's simply not worth it!
