Cupid's Advice:

Determining a fair custody agreement after a split can be a long and difficult process. Here are some ways to come to a fair custody agreement with your ex:

1. Splitting custody every other week: In this scenario, each parent would get custody of their child for one full week. This way, both parents have the same amount of days to spend with their child each month.

2. Splitting custody every other week with a midweek visit: Splitting custody can be tough on a child, especially when they have a full week away from one of their parents. In this scenario, each parent would get custody of their child for one full week with a midweek visit at the other parent's house.

3. Splitting custody every other week with a midweek overnight: Similar to a midweek visit, this type of custody agreement allows the child to spend an overnight at the other parents house. This type of scenario works well if the parents still live fairly close to one another and the child isn't very young.
