

Bonnie Griffin

Summer 2019

Editorial Intern

Bonnie Griffin is a graduate student at Southern New Hampshire University where she is a student in their new online MFA Creative Writing program. Her main areas of study are in writing in the romance genre and teaching writing online. After working as a freelance writer for other authors and publishers, she published her first paranormal romance novel in 2017 as B.M. Griffin, and has since published four books in total with many more already in the works. Bonnie hopes to turn her love for writing into a career by teaching others in the profession she is so passionate about, while also continuing to write books that she is proud to put her name on. Bonnie lives in Richlands, North Carolina with her husband Jason, their two daughters, and two dogs she considers her third and fourth child.

Bonnie's favorite celebrity couple is Kristen Bell and Dax Shepard. She's been a fan of Shepard's since he starred in the NBC comedy, Parenthood. Bonnie loves to see the couple laughing and having a great time together; they seem to truly enjoy being together. The video of Kristen meeting a sloth sealed the deal for her when it came to them becoming her favorite celebrity couple.
