Cupid's Advice:

Even the strongest of Hollywood relationships can end messily. Some will last and some will barely survive. Not all relationships are going to have a perfect ending, and that is okay. Luckily, Cupid has some relationship advice on how to know when you are ready to file for divorce:

1. You have outside interests: The maintenance of any marriage can definitely be made more difficult if you or your partner have different interests. Either both of your interests no longer line up, or your interests lie outside of the best interest of your marriage. You or your partner may want to explore something new outside of your marriage, whether it be sexually, physically, mentally, etc. Having interests outside of your marriage can include wanting to travel the world, wanting to pursue your own career goals, and much more. If this is the case, then divorce should be an option that you two explore together.

2. You fight with your partner: Of course, no relationships has only ups. You and your partner are going to experience downs and some relationship problems along the way. It is impossible to agree on every single thing that comes your way. Occasional disagreements are healthy, but when you and your partner are fighting more than you are having a good time with each other then it is probably best to end your marriage for the sake of wellbeing and happiness.

3. You aren't intimate: Intimacy with your partner can be physical, emotional, or mental. If you feel your intimacy with your partner has declined at all in any context, then perhaps your marriage is not as strong as it used to be. A loss of intimacy can include no longer sleeping in the same bed as your partner, no longer having sex with your partner, not having as many conversations with your partner as you used to, and much more.
