

Royal Celebrity Couple: Prince Harry & Meghan Markle Settle in Los Angeles

 By Ellie Rice

In the latest celebrity news, Prince Harry and Meghan Markle have decided to settle down in Los Angeles. According to UsMagazine.com, the news came swiftly after it was revealed that Markle's voice would be featured in Disney's latest documentary, Elephant. The move from Canada to California will definitely make Markle's Hollywood return much easier!

This celebrity couple has relocated, and it seems Meghan Markle will be heading back to her show business roots. What are some ways having an active career can keep your relationship healthy?

Cupid's Advice:

Many couples find that work is a great way to forge a closer bond with each other. If you're curious how an active career can help your relationship, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Increased financial stability: Having two sources of income can ease financial stress in your relationship. If you are both supporting the relationship in a monetary sense, it will allow for less of a strain to be felt. If you are both making money then you can share responsibilities when it comes to bills and fun!

Related Link: Royal Celebrity Couple News: Prince Harry & Meghan Markle Experience 'Different World' in Canada

2. A point of conversation: An easy starter to any dinner time chat with your partner is work. Telling each other about your days at the office surrounded by your crazy coworkers can be an exciting part of any couple's nightly routine. It's also a total stress reliever. Being able to openly share with your significant other about what has been going on at work can help you to be more open in your relationship, while taking care of your own mental health.

Related Link: Royal Celebrity Parents: Meghan Markle & Prince Harry Are 'Enjoying Each Day' with Baby Archie

3. A sense of accomplishment: Feeling proud of what you are completing at work will allow you to bring that confidence home with you. Being able to express your pride to your partner is something that will feel like a wonderful accomplishment. Allow your partner to do the same and show them how supportive you are of their goals. This will bring the two of you infinitely closer.

How does having an active career affect your relationship? Start a conversation in the comments below!