Cupid's Advice:

It can be difficult to determine the best pace for advancing a relationship. While it may be enticing to move quickly, there are also some benefits to taking things slow in your dating life. If you are looking for reasons to slow down the dating process, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Developing a foundation: It is important to have a strong foundation in a relationship, whether it is with a friend or a person you would like to date. It often takes more than a couple of weeks for this type of foundation to form. By taking things slow, you are allowing yourself to develop more trust with this person, which will benefit you in the long run.

2. Assessing compatibility: People often determine early on if they are interested in dating a person, but probably do not have a firm grasp on how compatible they would be as a couple. By taking things slow, you'll get a better sense of what you two have in common and if your lifestyles align in a way that would allow a healthy relationship.

3. Setting your own pace: At the end of the day, it is the decision of you and your potential partner about when to start dating. While you may feel pressured to speed up the process by people external to your relationship, many people also feel pressured to slow down the process. As long as the two of you are communicating openly about the pace at which you are moving, you are on the right track.
