In celebrity baby news, Gigi Hadid and boyfriend Zayn Malik are keeping the spark in their relationship alive before welcoming their first child. What are some ways to keep the passion in your relationship even when you become parents?

Cupid's Advice:

Having a child is one of the most monumental steps in a relationship. While there is so much excitement around starting a family with the person you love, there can also be some questions as to how that will affect your relationship. If you are looking for some ways to keep the romance alive as you welcome your first child, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Embrace family activities: It can be exciting to schedule specific activities to do as a family, but it can also be enjoyable to make everyday tasks into a family activity. Taking trips to the grocery store, walking around the neighborhood, or even settling down in front of a movie can lead to some of the most memorable moments with your new family. The more time you spend as a full unit, the deeper your bond will be with both your partner and your child.

2. Be a proud parent: Your partner chose to start a family with you because they felt you would be an amazing parent. By sharing in their excitement about starting a family of your own, you are showing them how proud you are to be a new parent. This can be an entirely new quality that they find attractive, and can add a new dimension to your existing relationship.

3. Keep date night on the calendar: While you will likely feel the urge to spend every moment with your new child, it is equally as essential to schedule some alone time. It is important to make sure you are not accidentally neglecting your relationship as a couple because your focus has shifted onto your child. Having a designated date night every week or so, as well as a trusted babysitter, are great ways to continue to nourish your relationship.
