

Kristen Bell and Dax Shepard Make Out on the Red Carpet

Kristen Bell and Dax Shepard have been engaged for nineteen months and still couldn't be more in love, according to UsMagazine.com. The pair showed their amour for each other on the red carpet of the Do Something Awards on Sunday in Hollywood by making out for the cameras. Bell says she loves Shepard because, "He constantly keeps me laughing: when I'm sad, mad, frustrated, annoyed. Regardless of what it is he can lighten the mood. He'll do anything that the mood requires. I can't get frustrated and that is a very powerful weapon. Comedy is a very powerful weapon. He's so funny that it's overwhelming."

What are some ways to show you love your partner in public?

Cupid's Advice:

Packing on the PDA isn't for everyone. Here are some other ways to show your love in public:

1. Touch: You can tell by the way two people touch each other as to whether they're in love. Hold hands or walk arm-in-arm.
2. Take photos: When you're out for a stroll or at a party, take turns snapping cute shots of each other, and take a few pictures of you together. Not only will this show people you value this moment with your partner, but later on you can share them online to further display your love for one another.
3. Peck on the cheek: If the thought of a make out sesh like Dax and Kristen's makes your skin crawl, simply give your beau a little kiss on the cheek to let the room know that this is your man and you are completely in love with him.

How do you and your beau show your love in public place? Share your thoughts in a comment below.