Being a woman can be tough. If you're climbing the corporate ladder, then your days are spent at the office, always trying to stay one step ahead. Or if you're a mom, you're dealing with busy days and late nights. And what about the women who juggle a career while raising their kids? All that work makes you tired and irritable – and leaves you no time for your relationship.

Luckily, celebrity women have found the secret to staying fashionable in the midst of their frazzled lives. Hollywood has been filled with ladies perking up their outfits with Isabelle Grace Jewelry. Women like Roselyn Sanchez, Ali Landry, Lindsay Price and Alyson Hannigan have been spotted sporting their handcrafted personalized jewelry, proving how easy it is to add something special to your everyday look.

Isabelle Grace's personalized line allows you to keep a chic look when you accessorize while displaying that you're a proud girlfriend, wife or mom: their necklaces and bracelets come with charms that can be engraved with your partner or children's birthstones, names and birthdates.

Lucky for you, Isabelle Grace Jewelry is giving away a Little Love Necklace to one CupidsPulse.com reader! You can personalize it with up to three characters, making it a romantic addition to your next night out on the town.
