By Andrea Surujnauth

According to People, former pro tennis player Kim Clijsters and husband Brian Lynch are expecting their second child together. The couple already have a 5-year-old daughter named Jada Ellie. Clijsters took to Twitter to announce the new: “Hi everyone, we have some exciting news to tell you ... Jada is going to be a big sister!” After Clijsters competed in the U.S. Open in August, she retired at the age of 29 to focus on her family. She also shared her news on her website stating, “And here we are: halfway into September, Jada will have a brother or sister. We are of course delighted. I’m doing fine, even though I tire more easily right now.”

How do you prepare for your second child versus your first?

Cupid's Advice:

You already had your first child. The second should be a breeze, right? Think again. You may not be as prepared for your second child as you think. Cupid is here to help though!

1. Go through old stuff: Figure out which of your first child's clothes and bottles can be reused for the second child. Certain things can be used again, especially if they are not gender-specific items such as green and yellow clothing and denim.

2. Budget: Establish a budget that will accommodate your growing family's needs. Don't forget to consider expenses for your first child. Although a new baby is expensive, you do not want to neglect your first baby.

3. Prepare your first child: Make sure your first child is looking forward to the new baby. You do not want any jealousy issues to arise, so instill the feeling of excitement and new-found responsibility in your first child.
