By Jessica Conigliaro

Fergie, soon-to-be mother, and husband Josh Duhamel are preparing for the newest addition to their family. People reports Fergie saying, "He's been amazing," she told reporters. "He's so nice and wonderful, and he sings and talks to my belly all of the time," she explains. "He's very complimentary. I'm very lucky that he is really good to me."

How do you know if your partner would make a good parent?

Cupid's Advice:

You and your partner have been together for a while now. You both are tossing around the idea of starting a family together. Before doing anything drastic however, you want to make sure your love will make a good father. Cupid's here to help you figure that out:

1. He takes care of you: Whenever you're sick, your partner always stops by with soup to make sure you are okay. He helps you get better and doesn't ever worry about catching your germs—he's more concerned about you than his own health. If he is this nurturing with you, he is sure to be a good father. When his children will need him most, you know for a fact that your love will happily take care of them.

2. Good with other kids: Your friends had a baby last year and your spouse loves spending time with the little one. He offers to babysit and enjoys playing and laughing with their child. This should be a very clear indication that your partner will make a great father. He is showing enthusiasm towards children and is probably stirring up excitement of becoming a father of his own some day.

3. Patience: Your love wants to leave the house by a certain time, but you are taking forever to get ready. Instead of getting mad and frustrated at you, he is understanding and lets you get ready in peace. By doing so, your man is showing you how patient he can be—which will definitely be good when you have kids together.
