

Celebrity Couple: Johnny Depp and Amber Heard Go Public with Their Romance at Rolling Stones Concert

y Meghan Fitzgerald

This past Saturday at the Echoplex in Los Angeles, Amber Heard and Johnny Depp stepped out from the shadows with their low-key romance at a surprise Rolling Stones concert. UsMagazine.com reported that the actor, 49, and his Rum Diary costar, 27, were photographed holding hands in the crowd of the concert. According to Hollywood Life, the couple has kept their relationship on the down low, reported to have started dating shortly after Depp and ex, Vanessa Paradis ended last June.

How do you keep your relationship away from prying eyes?

Cupid's Advice:

It is not necessary for the rest of the world to be in your business. Cupid has some advice:

1. Communication: When you are in a relationship, you need to talk with your partner of who you want to talk to, what you want to talk about, and the secrecy of your relationship. If you want eyes all over your relationship, talk about your relationship to everyone. If you don't want you or your mate to talk about your business, make sure you talk about it.

2. Discreteness: It is easy to keep your relationship away from others if you keep your partnership on the down low. Like Johnny Depp and all of his relationships, keep your business to yourself only. No one else needs to know about your fights, relationship status, or love. You and your mate are the only ones who need to worry and talk about your relationship.

3. Happiness: If you want to keep people away from your relationship, act happy as anything. Even if you and your beau are not exactly happy, play it off as you are. People are more likely to pry into your relationship if they know that you and your partner are having problems. So put on a smile and it will ward off any unwanted eyes.

Have you kept your relationship away from prying eyes? Explain your experience below.