What are some ways to announce your relationship to family and friends?

Cupid's Advice:

Announcing that you are involved with another person is an inevitable part of being in a relationship but it can also be nerve-racking. Cupid has some advice for how to make it easier:

Don't over think it: It's important that you let your friends and family know that you are dating someone but try to keep things in perspective. Keep it calm and casual. You're announcing your relationship, not your engagement.

Do it together: It might be less intimidating if your partner is with you when you make the announcement.

It's your relationship: Of course, you want the people in your life to approve of your new partner. At the end of the day, though, you are the one in the relationship. As long as your relationship is healthy and loving, it doesn't really matter what anyone else thinks.
