How do you keep unneeded pressure out of your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

There's no question all relationships need work, but they should also be fun and not that hard. When you want to make someone happy, especially your partner, it can be easy to get lost in unnecessary drama or let yourself freak out about something more than what you should. Cupid has some advice on how to keep unneeded pressure out of your relationship:

1. Don't focus too much on trying to please them: It's true every couple has to each put in time and energy to make a relationship work, but that doesn't mean you have to devote all your time and energy to them. Focus less on trying to please them, because it will just force situations and that can make your significant other feel uncomfortable or it can come off as desperate. Just relax and focus on being yourself around them, after all they already fell for the 'real' you.

2. Don't Hold onto resentment: If you're mad or have issues, don't keep them bottled up inside, because if you do it will just continue to build and build until you explode. Talk out your problems right away so you can avoid having a big fight. If you're not fine, don't say you are, the only way for your honey to help you out or for you to work out your problems is by letting them know you have an issue.

3. Don't put them on a pedestal: It can be hard to live up to people's expectations enough as it is, and you especially don't need it from your lover. We shouldn't have to change to please our sweethearts, nor should you think your other half is perfect or can do no wrong because the truth is no one is. Don't put too much pressure on the person you are with, it will only make things harder for the both of you.
