

Sean Lowe

You've seen him on your television screen and gossip magazine covers, and you've probably wished for a guy like him to walk into your life. He's hunky Bachelor Sean Lowe from season 17 of the popular ABC reality TV show. Born on November 16, 1983, the 31-year-old was an insurance salesman from Dallas, Texas before his small screen debut. He was first introduced to the public on The Bachelorette season 8 with Emily Maynard. He was sent home after making it to the top three, and producers quickly scooped him up for the The Bachelor season 17.

His second chance at reality TV proved successful: He proposed to Catherine Giudici on the season finale. Because Sean Lowe was a born-again virgin due to his strong Christian values, the two announced that they would wait to consummate their relationship and love until they got hitched. The happy celebrity couple got married during an ABC special on January 26, 2014. Today, Lowe is the president of The Factory Girl, a furniture and fashion store in Dallas that he founded with two of his siblings.