

Relationship Advice Video: I Have a Successful Career But Am Struggling to Find Love

A video call interface showing two participants. On the left is Suzanne Oshima, a woman with long dark hair, wearing a black and white patterned top. On the right is Des O'Connor, a man with a goatee wearing a light blue shirt and headphones. The background behind Suzanne features logos for 'Single in Stilettos' and 'dream Bachelor & Bachelorette'. Below the video feeds are two pink nameplates with white text and a small logo.

Suzanne Oshima
Founder of Single in Stilettos
Matchmaker & Dating Coach at Dream Bachelor & Bachelorette

Des O'Connor
Relationship Expert & Success Mentor

In this week's Single in Stilettos relationship advice video, founder and matchmaker Suzanne Oshima talks to dating expert Des O'Connor, who shares his best love advice for someone who has a successful career but is struggling to find The One.

Dating Expert Shares Best Love Advice

Despite what you may think, you can climb the corporate ladder and have a fulfilled romantic relationship and love life. O'Connor reveals five tips to remember:

Related Link: Single in Stilettos Show: Love Advice for Winning Him Over

- 1. What you focus on is what you become: If you're only concerned about your job, it'll take over your personal life too. Turn some of your attention to dating instead.
- 2. You need to strike a balance.
- 3. Men need to feel needed.

4. Stop saying, “I don’t need a man!”: If you keep sending that idea out into the universe, guess what? You won’t find a guy to invite into your life!

Related Link: Des O’Connor Reveals Why You Keep Attracting the Wrong Men

5. Men aren’t intimidated by strong, independent women: If you keep running into this issue, you’re attracting the wrong type of men.

For more relationship advice videos and additional information about Single in Stilettos shows, click here.

For more videos from CupidsPulse.com, check out our YouTube channel.