Below are a few ways that you can document your pre-parenthood experience, even if you and your significant other aren't a celebrity couple:

1. Scrapbook: It may be "old fashioned," but having something tangible for your child to look at as they grow up can be very special. Document your time with your significant other through photos to put in a scrapbook. Take pictures of trips that you took together while pregnant, take photos of the first crib, etc.

Not every star is in a hurry to have celebrity babies! What are some reasons to wait to have children?

Cupid’s Advice:

Some people are really in a rush to have kids after they get married, and the more power to them! We aren’t all in that frame of mind, though, and there are plenty of reasons to hold off on having kids at first. Cupid has some insight:

1. Financial security: Before bringing a child into the world, you want to make sure you can provide for him or her. If you’re not where you want to be financially yet, then take some time to build up a foundation. Once you feel secure, consider adding to your family.

2. Solid relationship foundation: Sure, your relationship is secure enough to get married, but as the say, the first year of marriage can be tough. The last thing you want to happen is incessant fighting around your new baby.

child, it's a definite lifestyle change. Where most people find it worth it, that doesn't mean you have to feel bad about waiting to start a family for a little while. Take some time to travel and enjoy your relationship, and have kids when you're ready.

Latest celebrity news shows that Chris Brown clearly values his role as a father. What are some ways to know your partner will do the same?

Cupid's Advice:

Although this celebrity news article shows Chris Brown as a great dad, he hasn't built the best reputation for himself in the past. Even if you've been with someone for a long time, it can be hard to tell how they'll act once you bring a child into the picture. Cupid has some tips:

1. They know what you need: Do you need to be left alone? Do you need comfort? If your partner is able to sense your mood and what you need, chances are they'll be a good parent. If they can tell what you need, they'll be able to tell what your child needs.

Cupid's Advice:

Giving birth to a baby is a wonderful part of life that is shared by famous couples and regular couples alike. But there are responsibilities attached to parenthood as well. Here is Cupid's love advice for how to make sure you're being a supportive partner after the birth of your baby:

1. Make sure baby responsibilities are equally shared: One of the best ways to be a supportive partner after the birth of your baby is to make sure you're doing your part in the child rearing process. That means getting up in the middle of the night to calm down your crying baby and changing diapers an equal amount of times as your partner. Although you may not have birthed the baby yourself, your partner will appreciate you putting in the same amount of work that she does.

2. Keep the arguments to a minimum: To create an aura of peace and tranquility for your partner and the baby after her due date, make sure that you're not starting silly arguments over nothing. As told in People, the Gossip Girl actress has heard her celebrity love, Reynolds, teaching their daughter to say 'Da-da.' Wanting to make sure 'Ma-ma' is the first word, she joked, "The word 'Da-da' is banned in our house."

It seems that even Hollywood couples squabble about their kids! What are some ways to compromise with your partner when it comes to parenting?

Cupid's Advice:

It isn't only Hollywood couples who get in tiffs about parenting styles, almost all parents are known to do things a little bit differently than their partners. To make sure you two are on the same page when it comes to raising your little ones, here is Cupid's relationship advice about making compromises:

1. Create a list: If your partner does something in his parenting style that you don't agree with or you find ineffective, sit down with him or her and compile a list of these actions. They can do the same thing, and if you both list a similar action, it can be something you both can work on eliminating.

2. Don't make someone be the bad guy: It is very common in a couple that one will be the 'nice' parent, who lets their kids eat ice cream before dinner, while the other one is labeled the 'mean' parent, who enforces the rules and puts the kids in timeout. Rather than creating this tension, make sure to share the responsibility of who has to discipline the kids.

3. Let the little things go: You will drive yourself crazy trying to control every aspect of you and your partner's parenting style. The little things, like you saying bedtime is 8:00pm while your partner says 8:30, shouldn't cause you to stress.

Cupid’s Advice:

There are so many big decisions that come up after you get pregnant, but picking out a name for your little bundle of joy is perhaps the one with the longest impact. Your name says so much about you, and parents should put careful thought into it before settling on one. Cupid has some tips on how to make the best baby name choice:

1. Ignore the trends: Everything goes out of style eventually. Right now, it’s a fad among celebrity couples to use really unique names for their kids – think Apple Martin or North West. Instead of thinking way outside the box, consider looking into the past. Check out the social security website of popular baby names that goes back over 100 years. There are many names in the list that, although they aren’t common right now, are beautiful and timeless.

2. Honor someone: It can be a great idea to name your baby after someone you love. Not only is it a wonderful gift to give that person, but it provides a legacy your child will appreciate when they grow up. It's always special to pick a name of a family member or friend. If you can't find one that you like, then consider the name of your favorite book character or a historical figure you admire.

3. Try it out: Before you and your partner decide on a name, think about how your child will grow up with it. Ask yourselves these questions: Does it sound good with their last name? What will their nickname be? Is this a name that will be relatively easy for your kid to learn to spell? These questions should help you narrow down your list.
