Celebrity Couple: Anna Paquin and Stephen Moyer Show Off Twin Son and Daughter During Family Outing

By Meghan Fitzgerald

Over this past weekend, the beautiful and blonde Anna Paquin stepped out with her and husbands' precious twins. According to UsMagazine.com, Paquin was seen cradling one of her six-month year old babies while shopping at a toy story in Venice, California. Her other child was nestling into a stroller. The Examiner reports that celebrity couple, Paquin and Stephen Moyer have kept the name of their children secret since their birth. However, the True Blood costars are ecstatic about their precious babies!

What are some reasons for keeping the name of your baby a secret?

Cupid's Advice:

Not only is having a baby stressful but naming your child is stressful too! Who would think that naming your baby would be so challenging? Well it is ladies and gentlemen. You and your partner have to decide what your child will be named for the rest of their lives. C'mon, that is a lot put on your shoulders. You also have the option of keeping your babies name a secret. Cupid has some advice on that:

1. All names have baggage: Say you want to name your daughter Jill and tell your mother, your mother than continues to tell you a horrific story of someone she knows named Jill. This continues on and on with all of your friends and family. Everyone you know has an absurd story of the name you wish to name your child. This being said, it is a great idea to keep your babies name a secret. You won't have to hear all the terrifying stories and have to constantly think of new names. If you and your mate love a name, keep it tucked close.

2. Secrets are exciting: Who doesn't enjoy a secret every once in a while? Especially a secret so large! This secret will give you and your beau more bonding, you will be the only ones who know your child's name. It may sound cheesy however, you two will connect more. Also, your family and friends will be more surprised when they eventually find out the name of your baby. A plus for all!

3. Change of mind: Mentioned before, it is hard to decide on a name for your child. With this in mind, you and your partner may change your child's name. It will be frustrating to you both by telling all your friends and family of the new name for your baby. Typically, you want to avoid this in general. It is human to change your mind, so don't worry about that. To make things easier, keep your babies name a secret.

What are some ways to honor your child?

Cupid's Advice:

Honoring your child is a important part of their childhood, and a necessary part of your responsibilities as a parent. It is essential that your child is honored, whether it be once a month, once every two weeks, or twice a week. It is pertinent that you honor your child! Cupid has some advice on how to do this:

1. Undivided attention: Put down your cell phone, turn it off, and put it away. Ignore your email, phone calls, and what not. It does not have to be for an entire day, but your child deserves some undivided attention. Depending on their age, play blocks with them, read them a book, ask them how their day was, tell them a story, be with them and them only. Your child will be ecstatic that you spent time with them and didn't do anything else. It shows them how much you love them, which is more than important.

2. Reward: Rewarding your child is not only exciting to them but exciting to you. If your child is receiving a reward, they did something special or grand. Your child will know that you are acknowledging their hard work. They will also be casually conditioned to receive praise when they do something good. This will make your child act better! Who doesn't want that?! The one thing here is to limit the amount of reward given. It is not a reward if you give out all the time.

3. Express love: Love makes the world go round, especially with children. Children want to feel comfortable and safe, mostly with their family and people closest around. Telling your child how much you love them, and how great they are is a treat for them. Kids love to be loved, it as simple as that. So you and your partner better be shedding out some love if you aren't already!

Connie Britton: "Being a Single Mom Is Challenging"

By Andrea Surujnauth

Connie Britton recently chatted with More about the challenges of being a single mother. The Nashville star shared, “Being a single mom is challenging, but never in a million years would that have stopped me. You get an idea in your head and you’re going to do it.” She adopted her son, 2-year-old Yoby, from Ethiopia. She also talks about her busy lifestyle, which includes working and taking care of a toddler. “The schedule is insane to the point where I lose a lot of sleep at night worrying about how little time I have to sleep and mostly what little time I have to be with my son,” she said. But Britton doesn’t let lack her lack of sleep get her down. “People can tell you how hard marriage is or how hard it is to birth a baby, but we do these things. We want the journey of that.”

How can busy working moms still make time for themselves?

Cupid’s Advice:

It’s not easy to head off to work each morning and still keep the house clean, the refrigerator stocked and the dogs groomed. And with kids around, it’s even more difficult to get everything done. Still, it’s important to for busy moms to take some time for themselves. Here are a few ways that they can fit everything in during a hectic day.

1. Be organized: Set a strict schedule of your daily activities. This way, you can see what needs to be done and when you are free. During that unreserved time (or while the baby is napping), maybe you can take a bath or catch up on some reading, which can both be very difficult to do as a single mom.

2. Have quality mommy time: The key word here is “quality.” Being a working mom, you may not be able to spend hours and hours with your kids, but make the most of the time you do have. Save any extra work or personal items for after your children are asleep.

3. Plan fun activities: Keeping your little ones busy with out-of-house activities may give you some time to finish up that project from work or even have some alone time. Enroll your kids in some type of extracurricular activity that teaches them something new in a healthy and safe environment. Some examples include dance class, karate class, after-school clubs or art camp.

How do you know when you're ready to have kids with your partner?

Cupid's Advice:

Having a child with your partner is a life-changing event. Even though this journey is exciting, it may not be the right choice for you. Determining whether or not you and your significant other should have a baby is challenging. Here are three important things to consider:

1. Love: Love changes a lot about a person. It can also change what a person may do in their lives. If you are in a serious relationship and know that you're both ready to settle down, having a child may be a good next step to take. If your mate wants to have a kid, but you're still unsure, talk about it and give it some time. Making the decision to have a baby requires deep conversations and honesty.

2. Fertility: Fertility is obviously very important to have a child. To alleviate some potential stress, check your fertility status. To save yourself from lots of tears and trouble, both you and your partner should go to the doctor. It's a smart safety precaution to take that will make your lives much easier!

3. Financial: As a serious couple questioning whether or not to have a baby, you should know each other's financial situations. Babies are costly: diapers, formula, hospital bills, baby showers, clothes and more. If you can't afford to have a child, develop a budget and open a savings account specifically for your child.

How do you prepare for your second child versus your first?

Cupid’s Advice:

You already had your first child. The second should be a breeze, right? Think again. You may not be as prepared for your second child as you think. Cupid is here to help though!

1. Go through old stuff: Figure out which of your first child's clothes and bottles can be reused for the second child. Certain things can be used again, especially if they are not gender-specific items such as green and yellow clothing and denim.

2. Budget: Establish a budget that will accommodate your growing family's needs. Don't forget to consider expenses for your first child. Although a new baby is expensive, you do not want to neglect your first baby.

3. Prepare your first child: Make sure your first child is looking forward to the new baby. You do not want any jealousy issues to arise, so instill the feeling of excitement and new-found responsibility in your first child.

How do you prepare for a baby boy versus a girl?

Cupid's Advice:

You just heard the news that you're having a baby girl—what do you do now? Finding out the gender of your baby certainly makes everything feel more real. There's not just a growing baby inside you anymore; there's a growing baby girl. Cupid offers some tips on how to prepare:

1. Pink vs. Blue: One of the most exciting parts of pregnancy is nesting, which occurs when the mother-to-be prepares for her baby. Painting the baby room is a major step. Once you find out it's a girl, get ready to buy a lot of pink paint, furniture, and toys!

2. Dress shopping: What mother doesn't enjoy dressing up her baby? If you're having a girl, start shopping for those little dresses—what you've been waiting to do forever. If it's a boy, how can you resist those tiny dress shirts and ties? Buying baby clothes will get you excited to meet your new baby.

3. Gender parties: Finding out the sex of your child is such an exciting and memorable moment. Why not share the occasion with family and friends? Let one of your friends learn the sex of the baby before you and your partner; have them buy a cake with either pink or blue frosting inside—depending on the baby's gender. At the party, the soon to be parents get to discover the sex of their child in front of all their loved ones after slicing the cake. You get to celebrate your baby before he/she even arrives!

about becoming a big brother or a big sister. Talk about playing and changing the new baby together. Make sure your first child feels involved and not left out. Show that you need your first-born to help you make them feel like an important part of the new baby's life. Make sure you show them love and appreciation for being the first born and now the older sibling.

2. Take classes: It is best to brush up on the labor and delivery procedures for the new bundle of joy. You may think that you remember everything but re-taking classes can be extremely beneficial the second time around.

What are some ways to prepare your relationship for a child?

Cupid’s Advice:

With a child coming into you and your beau’s life, you need to prepare your relationship. "A child changes everything" is more than accurate. Not only will your baby change the way you live however, it will change your relationship. Or at least try to. With having a child, you and your mate need to keep strong, especially strong together. Cupid has some advice:

1. Sleep deprivation: You and your partner will both realize what sleep deprivation really means when you have a child. Three-hour nights of sleep will be common to you two. With this being said, your need to prepare your relationship for possible fights over who gets up for the baby. You both will be completely exhausted however, one of you still need to get up. This ties in with score keeping also, no matter how many times you get up for your child-you're still the parent! And it is a parents job, so don't let it interfere with your relationship.

2. Score keeping: "I changed diapers twice today, now it's your turn." "I got up last night to rock the baby back to sleep, you do it tonight." Leave all of this entirely out of your relationship! Score keeping on what and what not you did with your child will end in chaos. It is both of your responsibilities to love your child more than anything on earth. Fighting does not tie in with love. You and your mate will drive one another crazy if you enforce a score keeping system in your life. Leave it out!

3. Sexual disconnect: Be prepared ladies and gentlemen for a strong disconnection from sex with your partner. With some, it may still be visible. However, with most couples, sexual disconnect is common. With the lack of sleep, excess of baby poop and puke, sex seems entirely unappealing. At the end of the day, you and your mate will be thinking of how your eyelids look, not how you look in the new La Perla lingerie you recently bought.

It is also a relationship-changing event; you and your partner will be starting a family together, so a lot of things will be different from here on out. Cupid gives you the heads up on what changes to expect in your relationship when expecting:

1. How you spend your time: It's safe to say your nights of partying and drinking at the bars have come to an end—for a while at least. Now, your big weekend plans will consist of naptime and diaper changes. It's a big adjustment in lifestyle, but a rewarding one at that. Your baby will bring so much happiness to your life; all you will want to do is spend time with your husband and new bundle of joy.

What are some ways to announce your pregnancy without words?

Cupid's Advice:

Announcing your pregnancy can be challenging; how to do it, who to tell, not forgetting to leave people out. To announce your pregnancy without words, you need to think creatively. Telling people about your pregnancy is one of the most memorable times of your life and doing it without words is harder. Cupid has some advice:

1. Baby bump: Many mothers have been told that they were pregnant before they even announced that they were expecting. This isn't always bad! If you're looking to announce your pregnancy without words, flaunt your baby bump! Wear tight clothes purposefully around your friends and family. You won't have to tell numerous people you and your mate are expecting because they'll ask you!

2. Facebook: There are many ways to announce your pregnancy on Facebook. Obviously, there is the typical status stating "We're pregnant!" or "The long wait is over, we're expecting!" Announcing your pregnancy without words is more innovative. Post a picture of your positive pregnancy test, post a picture of you and your beau with a can of Prego. One of you can hold a sign saying "We are..." and than the other holds the tomato sauce can. Quirky, fun, and easy to do!

3. Send out sonogram: This is an extremely quirky and light way to announce your pregnancy. You can either take a picture of the sonogram and post it online, or email it to your friends and family. Or, you can make copies of the sonogram and send it in the mail to your family and friends, inscribing on the back, "I think this explains enough." Everyone will love the creative idea and gesture of informing them about your baby on the way!

How do you announce your pregnancy to family and friends?

Cupid's Advice:

When new and exciting things happen in our lives, the first thing we want to do is share the news with those we care about. Announcing to friends and family that you are pregnant definitely falls into that category. Here are some tips on how to share the news with loved ones:

1. Tell the father first: Before telling your mom and sister the good news, make sure the father knows first. This way, he doesn't feel unimportant or left out. It will also be a lot easier—and memorable—to tell people together that you are expecting.

2. Say it with joy: When first finding out you are pregnant, fears and doubts may enter your mind; talk to your partner about your concerns before telling everyone else in your life. You should sound ecstatic about your pregnancy so others can be happy for you as well.

3. Don't spring it on them: The last thing you want to do is tell your family you are pregnant during the wrong time. Avoid sharing the news during an argument you are having with your parents. It is happy news and should be told during a peaceful dinner.
