After announcing their celebrity divorce earlier this year, the two exes, who share a daughter River, 6, and son Remington, 4, will share joint custody in Los Angeles, with Clarkson having primary custody.

In celebrity break-up news, split proceedings are still ongoing with Kelly Clarkson and her soon-to-be ex husband Brandon Blackstock. What are some ways to keep the divorce process from affecting your kids?

Cupid's Advice:

Going through the divorce process can be extremely stressful, and it can be even more difficult to navigate for the kids involved. If you're looking for some ways to keep the divorce process from affecting your kids, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Keep the legal talk to a minimum: When you're going through the legal process of a divorce, try not to let your kids hear too much about this. You will have to be honest about new living situations and rules, but they don't need to know all the details of the custody battle and legal ramifications. This will only add to their stress and sadness.

2. Stick to their routines: Another important factor in keeping your kids from being affected by the divorce process is to minimize disruptions to their routines as much as possible. You don't want them to feel like too much has changed, so try to maintain a sense of stability for them. This will keep them from feeling like their whole life has been uprooted because of the divorce.

3. Don't talk negatively about your ex: Even though it may be tempting, talking negatively about your ex in front of your children may only confuse them. You don't want your relationship issues with your ex to carry into their own relationship. Your children still deserve a good relationship with both of their parents, so try to refrain from blaming or bad mouthing your ex in front of them.

Cupid's Advice:

Although challenging, break-ups provide a great opportunity for learning lessons from a past relationship, as well as determining what you want out of future relationships. If you are looking for some ways to learn from a break-up, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Set priorities: Break-ups provide a great time to reestablish your priorities and expectations about what you want in a future relationship. While you likely had an idea of your priorities before you even started dating, going through an unsuccessful relationship can reveal what you truly need from a partner to make things work. Take this time to update your priorities so that you know what is a must-have the next time around.

2. Establish deal-breakers: Deciding on deal-breakers is just as important as setting priorities. A person can have all of the characteristics you favor, but if they have a major lifestyle habit that you disagree with, it can cause conflict in the future. Deal breakers also don't have to be "negative" attributes about the person, but can simply be factors like distance and the type of relationship you are both looking for.

3. Consider external factors: When we're in a relationship, we sometimes tend to put that aspect of your life above others. Break-ups are a great time to look at other aspects of your life and decide if you'd like to spend some time improving them as well. By working to better yourself professionally or mentally between partners, you will enter your next relationship with a more solid foundation and be ready to put in all the necessary effort.

Cupid's Advice

Getting over an ex and dealing with a break-up can be a difficult journey, but there are some tricks that can help you cope. If you're looking for ways to use social media to cope with a split, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Unfollow or block your ex: One of the best things you can do for yourself when coping with a split is unfollowing, muting, or blocking your ex on social media. Even if you ended on good terms, cutting off contact on social media will help you to start moving on instead of constantly focusing on what they are posting.

2. Post things for you: Using social media can be extremely empowering if you're using it for the right reasons. Only post things you want and use social media to empower yourself.

In the latest celebrity news, Olivia Wilde has removed her engagement ring after her celebrity break-up with fiancé Jason Sudeikis. According to UsMagazine.com, Wilde was first spotted without her ring while spending some time at a horse stable in Los Angeles, California. The couple began dating in November of 2011 and announced their engagement in January of 2013.

In celebrity break-up news, Olivia Wilde is no longer sporting the engagement ring she got from ex Jason Sudeikis. What are some physical ways you can cope with a break-up?

Cupid's Advice:

One of the hardest things to deal with in a break-up is letting go of some of the physical reminders of your relationship. If you are looking for some physical ways you can cope with a break-up, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Lose the jewelry: Whether it's an engagement ring or a necklace, taking off any jewelry that was given to you by your ex is a good first step in removing physical reminders of your break-up. This will also give others the clue that your relationship has ended without you necessarily needing to tell everyone verbally. After some time has passed, you can decide what to do with the jewelry long-term.

2. Clean your social media: In the modern age, nearly everyone in a relationship has shared some pictures with their partner on social media. Another physical way of coping with a break-up is to clear that person from your field. This can include archiving pictures of you two together, removing tags from past photos, and muting or unfollowing your ex's account.

3. Put away past gifts: While you may have a sentimental attachment to some of the gifts your ex has given you in the past, it is a good idea to remove these gifts from view. Just like with jewelry, placing the gifts you've received in a box and putting them away for a while can help take your mind off the break-up. Once your emotions have settled, then you can decide what to keep, return, and get rid of.

In celebrity news, Alex Trebek's wife is thankful for the support of the public after Trebek's passing from cancer. What are some ways to cope if your partner passes away?

Cupid's Advice:

No matter how much time you may have to prepare, losing the life your partner is heartbreaking. While the support and wishes of loved ones can help, there will still be strong feelings of loss. If you are looking for some ways to cope with a partner's passing, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Give yourself time: One of the easiest and most effective ways to cope with a loss is to give yourself time. While it sounds simple, many people try to force their way through the grief process so their life can return to some form of normalcy. However, this can cause issues to rise in the future, so giving yourself ample time following the loss of a partner is the best way to cope with their absence long-term.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Up: Lamar Odom & Fiancée Sabrina Parr Call it Quits

2. Consider your surroundings: It is important to take into account your surroundings following the loss of a partner. Decide whether going places you enjoyed together brings you peace or makes you upset. The same consideration should be thought about in terms of your partner's belongings. Consider whether being surrounded by items that remind you of them is beneficial or harmful in your personal healing process.

3. Tell their stories: Sometimes when we lose someone we love, we tend to stop talking about them. However, just because they are no longer physically does not mean that you have to completely remove them from your life. After enough time has passed, continue to share the memories you created with your past partner with others to help in remembering them.

In the latest celebrity news, Lamar Odom and Sabrina Parr have decided to call off their engagement. According to UsMagazine.com, Odom and Parr's celebrity break-up stems from personal issues that Odom needs to work through on his own. The couple was engaged in November of 2019, just three months after first being seen together in Atlanta, and had planned their wedding for November 2021.

According to Sabrina, this celebrity break-up is a result of Lamar Odom needing to work on himself. How do you know if you're in a good place mentally and emotionally for a relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes the state of a relationship is dependent on internal factors, such as mental and emotional readiness, rather than external factors. If you are wondering if you're mentally and emotionally ready for a relationship, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You have other outlets of happiness: Being in a relationship should be one of the highlights of your current life, but it should not be your only outlet of happiness. If the only thing that truly brings you joy is being around your partner, then you may not be mentally or emotionally ready for a relationship. Placing all of your happiness on one person can lead to unhealthy standards and more disappointments even if neither partner is in the wrong.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Up: Julianne Hough Files for Divorce from Brooks Laich 5 Months After Split

2. You're happy with the timing: When you are in a sound mental and emotional place, you are often happy with the progression of your life. If you are content with the rate at which your relationship is moving, as well as how it fits into your life overall, then you are ready to be in that relationship. However, if you feel that this relationship will cause you to miss out on different areas of your life, you may be in the spot to commit mentally.

3. You've processed past experiences: An obstacle that many people face in relationships is getting over negative past experiences caused by an ex. If you are entering a new relationship but are still holding onto issues caused by a past partner, you may not be emotionally ready. However, if you've processed and coped with these past issues, then you are likely in a good spot to go forward with a relationship.

In celebrity break-up news, it's over for Erika and Tom, who have been together for over two decades. How do you know when a long-term relationship has run its course?

Cupid's Advice:

Break-ups are never easy, no matter how long you and your partner have been together. However, spending years, or even decades, with another person can make the process of breaking up even more challenging. If you are looking for signs that your long-term relationship has run its course, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Holding on to happier times: Creating memories together can be one of the best parts of a relationship, but it can also cause people to remain in relationships that are reaching their end. If you find yourself holding on to memories that happened months or years ago, but have not made the same type of memories since, your relationship may have run its course. Breaking-up doesn't mean you have to forget all the great times in your relationship, it opens you up to new experiences.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Up: Julianne Hough Files for Divorce from Brooks Laich 5 Months After Split

2. You've grown in different directions: People are constantly growing and changing over the years. It's possible that you and your long-term partner have grown in different ways since the beginning of your relationship. While this is no one's fault, staying together despite your different paths in life may continue to cause conflicts that you're already facing.

Related Link: Celebrity News: Kristin Cavallari & Jay Cutler Reunite to Celebrate Halloween With Their Kids

3. Loss of feelings: No one wants to be told that their partner has lost feelings for them. Likewise, many people might not want to admit they've lost feelings for their partner. However, it's possible over the course of a long-term relationship for feelings to change, and holding on to past feelings of love that have disappeared will eventually lead to an unhealthy relationship.

Cupid's Advice:

Trying to salvage a relationship can be tricky, so it's important to know when to call it quits. If you're looking for signs that your relationship is irreparable, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You've already tried everything: If you're trying to decide if your relationship is able to be fixed, it's important to assess what you've already tried. If you and your partner have tried to fix things for quite a long time, or even tried therapy, and you find yourself exhausted because things still aren't working, it may be time to call it quits.

Related Link: Celebrity Divorce: Ant Anstead Says He Lost 23 Pounds Amid Divorce from Christina Anstead

2. Your relationship has become harmful to one or both of you: Another sign that may help you know that your relationship is irreparable is if you find the relationship to be doing more harm than good to one or both of you. Once your relationship makes you and your partner unhappy often or has caused damage or harm to you, that is definitely a major sign that it may not be salvageable anymore.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Ups: Lenny Kravitz Blew It During First Meeting with Ex Lisa Bonet

3. You no longer trust each other: Another sign of an unfixable relationship is a lack of trust. Continuing in a relationship without trusting your partner will only cause more problems down the road, so if you have tried everything to rebuild trust, and you still can't rely on each other, your relationship may not be repairable at that point.

If you are looking for some reasons to come together as a family for the holidays, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Create new memories: Holidays are the perfect occasion for creating memories with your children. It is important not to skip out on these types of memories just because you are no longer with your partner. Looking back, both you and your children will be happy you chose to spend these days together as a family despite any differences.

Cupid's Advice:

It can be difficult to navigate co-parenting with an ex, especially if you have differing opinions on many fronts. If you are looking for some ways to iron out parenting differences with your ex, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Establish predetermined rules: An easy way to prevent conflict or differences from arising in the future is to establish some predetermined rules. If you are against having your children featured on social media, or want a universal curfew for both of your houses, these are rules that can be established ahead of time. Be sure to keep these rules straightforward and collaborative to help eliminate as many parenting differences as possible.

Related Link: Celebrity Divorce: Ant Anstead Says He Lost 23 Pounds Amid Divorce From Christina Anstead

2. Ask for permission: There will always be gray-area when it comes to parenting, whether you and your partner are still together or not. A great way to avoid differences is to simply ask for permission when you are unsure if what you're about to do will upset the other parent. The other person involved will appreciate the open communication and hopefully do the same when faced with a situation they are unsure of.

3. Discuss differences privately: While it can be frustrating to navigate parenting differences, especially when they are repetitive issues, it's important to discuss these differences privately. In celebrity break-up news, Jessie J is seemingly speaking out about her unhealthy relationship with Channing Tatum. What are some tell-tale signs that you're in an unhealthy relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

1. There's no compromise: One of the most important aspects of a relationship is the willingness to compromise. It is likely that you and your partner will not agree on everything, but when both people are willing to compromise in different ways, it allows for healthy communication and an overall healthy relationship. However, if your partner is not compromising in any way and you are constantly forced to follow their decisions, you are in an unhealthy relationship.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Up: Christina Anstead Talks About Choosing Peace Over Drama After Split

2. Other areas of your life are impacted: Unhealthy relationships can cause a great deal of stress and frustration when you are around your partner, but these feelings can also spread into other areas of your life. If you feel yourself getting frustrated with your other friends or work environment but are unsure why, it may be stemming from stress that started in your relationship.

3. You feel worse about yourself: The person you are in a relationship with should never leave you questioning your own worth or how much they care about you. While nearly every relationship goes through a rough patch, there should never be a time where your partner makes you feel like less of a person. This willingness to put you down shows a lack of overall respect and is likely a sign of unhealthy love.

2. Don't dwell on it: While the fact that you made a bad first impression on your crush may still be on the forefront of your mind, it is important not to dwell on this encounter. If you spend too much time focusing on what you did wrong, it can make it more difficult to show your crush your real personality moving forward. Once you've acknowledged it, just let it go!

3. Nail the second impression: First impressions are not last impressions. Since making their divorce official, Cardi B has clarified the reason for ending their relationship involved too much arguing and not any infidelity.

In celebrity news, Cardi B and Offset may be having second thoughts about their split. How do you know when your relationship is truly over?

Cupid's Advice:

It can be hard to determine when a relationship has officially run its course, and even harder to let go when you two share a long past or children. If you are looking for ways to determine if your relationship is truly over, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You're not yourself: It can be difficult to determine just how much a failing relationship is affecting your life. If you find yourself getting tired or irritated in situations that have nothing to do with your current relationship, the emotions can still be coming from this source of stress. Take a moment to assess your current state of mind and see if relationship drama is carrying into other areas of your life.

2. You've split many times before: Sometimes you truly need to break-up with someone to understand just how much they mean to you. In some cases, a temporary break can lead to a more solid relationship in the future. However, if you have split multiple times with your current partner, or have started taking breaks more frequently, it may be a sign that your relationship is coming to an end.

3. You've spoken with professionals: Many people turn to relationship counselors when they are experiencing trouble with their partner to find new ways to problem-solve. If these new communication methods or techniques aren't helping to repair your relationship, it might be time to consider breaking up. Relationship counselors will also sometimes recommend splitting from your partner if they feel your relationship is irreparable.

Cupid's Advice:

Ending a relationship is never fun, but sometimes it is the only way to move forward with your own life. If you are looking for some ways to break the news to your soon-to-be ex partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. In person: The most respectful way to end a relationship with someone else is to have a conversation in person. Whether it is a newly formed relationship that you don't see working long term, or a relationship that has lasted years, the other person still deserves to be present for the conversation. This will allow the two of you to discuss the break-up without too much getting lost in the translation of technology.

2. Video chat: If distance is a factor in the relationship, or you truly cannot bring yourself to meet with your soon-to-be ex in person, video chats are a good alternative. This will allow you to break to news while still being able to see their face and register their emotions. While this option isn't as good as physically meeting up with someone, it is more respectful than a phone call or text.

3. Over the phone: As a last resort, break-ups can be done over the phone. If this is the route you chose to take when ending things with your partner, be sure to pick a time that allows for both of you to have a full conversation rather than calling while one of you is at work. While phone calls are far from the best option in terms of ending a relationship, they are still more respectful than sending a text or not telling your partner at all.

Among the many challenges people face following a break-up, rebuilding your life and finances are some of the most difficult. If you are looking for some ways to get back on the right track following a break-up, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Remove them from your feed: It's hard to get over someone if you are constantly aware of what they're doing or who they're with.
