If you are looking for some ways to know if your partner is being truthful, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. They communicate clearly: While constant communication is not needed to determine if someone is being truthful, clear communication is. If someone communicates openly with you about topics such as where they are going and how they are feeling, then there probably is no reason to worry about them lying. Red flags should only appear if the person is continuously giving vague answers or avoiding questions.

There is nothing wrong with wanting to keep some of the details about your relationship to yourself, whether it one that is relatively new or one you've been in for years. If you are looking for some reasons to keep details about your relationship to yourself, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Past traumas: If you've experienced some kind of public fallout from a break-up in the past, you may want to keep your future relationships more private. Quarantine has proved as a relationship test for even the strongest of couples. While you may love your partner endlessly, being confined to one home for months on end can test your relationship. If you are looking for some ways to cope with being quarantined with your partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Allow for some alone time: Just because you and your partner are in the same house does not mean you have to be together the entire time. As quarantine progresses, you may feel the need to have some time apart. Taking a few hours every day or so to relax or sit on your own can help prevent any frustrations or tensions you may be feeling with your partner. If possible, safely getting some alone time by going for a walk or drive is also a good option.

2. Have off-limit areas: Quarantine can make any living space feel claustrophobic after some time, so designating some areas that are reserved for each partner is a good idea to maintain the peace. If you are working from home, an office is a great space to reserve for yourself. In smaller living situations such as apartments, having a designated chair where your partner knows to give you space can also work.

3. Plan in-house events: Despite feeling confined to your partner because of quarantine, it is still important to nurture the relationship by scheduling things to do together. By doing at-home dates such as cooking together or watching a movie, it will show your partner that you still want to spend quality time with them. This miniature date can help relieve some tension and make your partner more willing to give you space when you need it.
