Cupid's Advice:

PDA is not for every couple. It can be really cute and it can be quite annoying. Cupid is here to help:

Things are progressing nicely," said the insider. Fingers crossed that this amazing musical duo takes their relationship to the next level soon!

This celebrity relationship has yet to be labeled. What are some things to consider before labeling your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

"DTR," also known as "defining the relationship," is an important step in any coupling. Whether you're trying to start something serious or just enjoy a fling, there has to be a conversation about what you both are to each other so you're both on the same page. Cupid is here to help you with labeling your relationship:

1. Determine wants: Before you decide to have this specific talk with your partner, you need to figure out what exactly you want out of this relationship. Do you want monogamy? Or do you want your relationship to be casual, with the ability to see other people? Figure out what you want before you go asking your partner to change the status of your relationship.

2. Compatibility: Of course wanting to be with someone isn't enough, you also need to make sure your partner is compatible to your lifestyle. Take into account whether you both have similar likes and dislikes, hobbies or upbringing. For a lasting relationship you need to find common elements that bond you together, if you can't find those, maybe you should just enjoy time with each other the way it currently is.

Related Link: Celebrity Couple Predictions: Drake, Eva Longoria and Lea Michele

3. Ask questions: And last but not least, you need to ask questions! Your partner should have equal input on how or what the relationship will be labeled. How else do you expect to find out whether or not a relationship is worth pursuing if you have no input from your partner? Depending on the questions you ask and the responses you get, you'll finally know for sure if you should pursue things further or run for the hills.

This celebrity news has us getting drawn into Kardashian drama again! What are some ways to keep your relationship issues private?

Cupid's Advice:

There's no doubt that though relationship drama between the Kardashians may be entertaining, it's not very pleasant when you experience it yourself! Plus, it gets even more taxing when those around you know your private business. Cupid has some tips to keep things between you and your partner:

1. Avoid social media: Social media is good for a lot of things, but keeping your private life private isn't always one of them. Avoid social media when you've just had a disagreement with your partner at all costs. You may be tempted to air your dirty laundry, but you'll almost always regret it in the end.

2. Keep details from your friends: Again, it may seem therapeutic to air your frustrations to those closest to you, but resist the temptation! Often times, word will get around. Other times, your friends will simply get the wrong impression of your relationship and think it's bad all the time if you complain too much and fail to tell them about all the good things to balance it out.

3. Come to an agreement with your partner: The fact is, just because you don't tell people about any relationship issues you may be having, that doesn't mean your partner won't. When you're both calm, have a conversation about some relationship ground rules. Come to an agreement that you will not speak to those around you about any relationship issue you're having, unless you agree on it.

1. Looking back: If you can reflect on your past relationship without breaking down, you're ready to move on. Cupid's Advice:

The number of people you know who ended up engaged because of a one night stand might be a very low number, but that doesn't mean a hook-up can't turn into a relationship! Here are some ways to turn your one night fling into an every night fling:

1. All about the follow up: Make sure you've got a name and a phone number, and once you, do don't be afraid to use it. Wait a day or two, then text or call your one-night-boo. Let her or he know you had a good time, and make plans to meet up again. If you don't contact your hook-up, there is no way a relationship will form between the two of you.

This celebrity news has us indulging in the reality TV drama. What are some ways to keep things that happened in your past relationship out of your new relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

No matter how long or short a past relationship lasted, pieces of what happened between you and your ex can bounce around in your mind for a long time after. Don't let side effects from your last relationship spoil something good you have going on now. Cupid has some dating advice:

1. Cut ties: If you haven't already, cleanse your life of your ex. Unfollow your ex on social media, block them if necessary, and delete the contact information in your phone. Communicating with your ex, or seeing posts, will keep re-opening your history. In order to keep your past relationship out of your new relationship, follow an "out of sight out of mind" based strategy.

2. No deja vu: Don't bring up the topic of your ex to your new significant other out of the blue. If you're visiting a place you used to go with your ex, try to keep that to yourself. If you're in a fight and your new significant other says or does something that your ex used to do, don't point it out. The moral of the story is, you're in a new relationship with an entirely new person. Your new boo shouldn't have to feel constantly compared to or reminded of the last person you dated.

Remaining competitors Chase, Robby, Jordan, and Luke will have to pull out all the stops in the upcoming hometown dates when JoJo will travel with them to meet their families.

In celebrity news, the hometown dates on The Bachelorette are almost upon us! What are some ways to prepare to meet your partner's family?

Cupid's Advice:

No matter who you are, meeting your partner's family is probably one of the most nerve wracking things you'll ever have to do. Even if you know that the family who raised the amazing person you're with must be the nicest people on the planet, being nervous comes naturally. First impressions are important, so it's best to prepare as much as you can before meeting your partner's family:

1. The family tree: Before meeting your partner's family, ask your partner some questions about them, especially if you're meeting extended family and not just Mom, Dad, and siblings. Hearing some names beforehand will help you to feel familiar upon arrival, and some background won't hurt either. Who is on what side of the family? What ages are your partners' siblings? Get some info.

2. Contribute: Most people consider showing up to a first meeting with the family empty handed a mistake. First impressions are important, and it's beneficial to be as polite as possible. Bring your significant other's family flowers or a dessert. What you bring does not have to be extremely personal or a gift wrapped present, just bringing something to show you made an effort can go a long way.

3. Take a deep breath: Above all, just be yourself. It is worth it to prepare, but there is only so much you can do. Put on some nice clothes, grab a small gift, review names of family members, and just breathe.
