

Fall Out Boy's Patrick Stump Is Married

By Nic Baird

Fall Out Boy's Patrick Stump married longtime girlfriend Elisa Yao on Saturday, according to People. Stump's media rep confirmed the news with a Twitter post congratulating "[Patrick] and [E]lisa on a beautiful and amazing wedding!" Love is in the air this fall, especially last weekend when quite a few famous twosomes tied the knot. Celebrity couples Anne Hathaway of The Dark Knight Rises and Adam Shulman, Kings of Leon's Jared Followill and girlfriend Martha Patterson, and actor Stanley Tucci and literary agent Felicity Blunt all exchanged vows the same weekend as Stump and Yao.

What are some ways to decide what time of year to get married?

Cupid's Advice:

Though Fall Out Boy Stump's choice of season for his ceremony seems absurdly appropriate, there are a lot more things to consider when scheduling your big day than wedding puns. The time of year affects your options, and you don't want to realize that in the middle of hellish planning:

1. Weather: Obviously it looked great in Friends when Monica and Chandler had their faux-winter union, but an outside wedding in snow seems unbearable. Besides the temperature, rainfall and wind can ruin a beautiful summer ceremony. If you want to escape into nature, just make sure you have a backup plan if an act of God should occur.

2. Guests: Before the invitations start rolling out, it's important to consult the key players in your wedding party, including the respective parents of the bride and groom. Make sure your special day accommodates your most important guests. Some invitees might have seasonal jobs that affect when they can make it.

3. Honeymoon: If you don't want to get trapped in a resort during rainy season, you should synergize your honeymoon with your wedding. You may have to give something up to have the wedding or honeymoon you always wanted, but a bit of research could avert a disappointing vacation.

Anne Hathaway Ties the Knot

with Adam Shulman

By Nicole

Anne Hathaway is now Mrs. Adam Shulman as the couple tied the knot on Saturday evening, according to People. Hathaway and Shulman have been together for the past four years and celebrated their nuptials at the Ventana Inn and Spa. The couple was engaged since last November and could not be happier. "He's all the things you want a partner to be. I so find joy in his presence," gushed the Princess Diaries star. The two work so well together because they enjoy living private, low-key lives. The two prefer a modest, normal lifestyle.

What are some ways to personalize your wedding?

Cupid's Advice:

Getting married? It can be overwhelming with all of the different aspects that need to be planned. Here are some ways on how to make sure your wedding is personalized:

1. You make the decisions: Sometimes it's difficult to remember that it's your big day; not your mother's, your sister's or your mother-in-law's. Instead of trying to make everyone else happy, at the end of the day it's all about you and your fiancé.

2. Share your story: It's your wedding, your relationship and your story. Don't be afraid to include some details celebrating your relationship with your partner that not everyone may understand. As long as you and your groom appreciate the detail, that's all that matters.

3. Stay on track: It's easy to get caught up in all of the different choices and latest trends. Try to stay on the track of what you originally had in mind rather than being swayed by the latest wedding trends and what your family wants included.

What are some ways to pull off a surprise wedding?

Cupid's Advice:

Instead of going for the common surprise party, you want to go for a surprise wedding! Here are some tips on how to pull it off:

1. Don't post it: If you want to keep the wedding a secret, don't post about it on the internet or else all of your facebook friends will see. Keep it quiet until you absolutely have to inform others or else you will ruin the surprise before it can even be planned completely.

2. Keep the list simple: You don't need to invite your cousin's friend's brother's uncle. Keep the list to your closest friends and family because the more people that know of the wedding, the less it will be a surprise in the long run.

3. Last minute: Nothing says surprise like a last minute phone call. You may want to avoid last minute invitations since that would make it inconvenient for some guests, but it's all about the surprise if you're going for that element.

What are some ways to help your coworker celebrate their recent wedding?

Cupid’s Advice:

A marriage is always a call for celebration and well wishes, even in the office! Cupid has some advice on how you can help celebrate a coworker’s recent wedding:

1. Plan a party: When your coworker comes back from his/her honeymoon, show them you care about their happiness by planning a party. It doesn't have to be big; a cake in the break room or decorations on their desk will show them how happy you are for them and that you want to help them celebrate this big change in their lives.

2. Help them out: If your coworker is a little shy, you can help them celebrate their wedding by offering to take over some of their work while they are away on their honeymoon. That way, they won't be spending the whole time worrying about their job and you can be a part of the reason they are happy and relaxed.

3. Get a gift: While your coworker is away for their honeymoon, get the whole office together to pitch in for a gift. Depending on the size of your office, you could get together a lot of money to get the new couple something really special. Your coworker will really appreciate the thought you all put in to helping them get ready for their new life.

How do you know if your marriage will last after multiple divorces?

Cupid's Advice:

There are many statistics out there that state your chances of divorcing a second time around can be up to 90 percent higher than if you were in your first marriage. However, some remarriages do last, regardless of previous failures. Here are a few clues in knowing the difference:

1. Heal from the old marriage: Holding on to anything negative or unfulfilled from your previous marriage will only set you up for failure in the future one. Find closure in all aspects, physically, financially, socially and emotionally. If that means you must cry a river of tears, get it over with, and then leave it in your past.

2. Evaluate yourself: In evaluating yourself, take time to see what you did wrong in your previous marriage and what expectations you had. Remember, your ex was not the only one at fault. By knowing the good and bad in yourself, you can prevent repeating history.

3. Be the real you: In the new marriage, it is most important to be completely honest with yourself and your spouse about who you really are. Honesty about everything will show that there are no unexpected surprises with you. Also, your marriage actually has a great chance at forming a strong bond, stronger than before.

What are the differences in you between your remarriage and previous marriage? Is the marriage bond stronger than before? Tell us how below.

What are some ways you can contribute to your partner's bachelor/bachelorette party?

Cupid's Advice:

A bachelor/bachelorette party can be one of the most memorable times that a bride/groom gets to spend with their friends before the big day. Without stepping on anyone's feet, you may be tempted to make the party even more special. Cupid has some advice on how to contribute to your partner's bachelor/bachelorette party:

1. Have a specially designed cake delivered: Have a tasty treat delivered to the party that has a special message design. Show you're thinking of your partner and your approaching big day.

2. Make sure champagne is waiting in their hotel room: Have chilled champagne delivered to your soon-to-be spouse's hotel room so that she/he and their friends can toast to your nuptials.

What are some ways to make a marriage proposal exciting?

Cupid’s Advice:

A marriage proposal is probably the most important you will ask (or be asked) in your relationship, so you want to make sure to do it right. Cupid has some advice on exciting and interesting ways to pop the question:

1. Wait for an unexpected moment: For those who love surprises, a proposal is much more romantic and exciting when it is a complete surprise. Plan yours for a time when your partner will not be expecting it, or somehow fit it in to your partner's daily schedule so they will be completely shocked

2. Plan an overly romantic night: For those who love the romance films, go overboard and then some with your proposal. Rent out a restaurant, invite your partner's family and friends to come, or any other extreme moment that they will never forget. Pick up some classic romance movies for inspiration.

3. Have a private getaway: For those who like their privacy, plan a romantic getaway to pop the question. Make sure the two of you are completely alone, and tell your partner all the things you are looking for in your future together before getting down on one knee. This will always be a special memory that only the two of you share.

Blake Lively and Ryan Reynolds Vowed to 'Make Each Other Laugh'

Reynolds "said he would treasure Blake; she said she would adore him." The romantic celebration was held at Boone Hall Plantation outside of Charleston, South Carolina, and featured everything from after-dinner s'mores to a paper lantern send off.

What are the advantages to writing your own vows?

Cupid's Advice

When planning a wedding, the decision to use prewritten vows or to write your own can make a big difference in the tone of your celebration. Cupid has some advice:

1. Personality: Writing your own vows will make what you are saying special and give your long wedding speeches a bit of personality. You can say whatever you want in them; add a touching personal story and individuality that will make your day even more special than it already is.

2. Set the tone: If you want to engage your audience at your wedding, then writing your own vows would be the best way to set whatever tone it is you choose. If you want to make people laugh, tell some funny stories about your partner, or if you want to make people cry, tell your innermost thoughts and feelings towards your partner. It's your decision!

3. Authenticity: If you and your partner decide to write your own vows, you and your audience will know how authentic the words each of you says are. Although you should already know how your partner feels before you get to the end of the isle, personally written vows will reconfirm everything you have been told as you hear the exact way that your partner is feeling about your marriage.

What are some very public ways to propose marriage?

Cupid's Advice:

Almost every man, at one point in his life, will have to answer that day old question – "How should I propose to the love of my life?" From the simple to the over-the-top plan, Cupid's Pulse has a few ideas for you to consider.

1. K.I.S.S.: When in doubt, Keep It Smart and Simple. While being proposed to can make a person feel like No. 1, not everyone enjoys being the center of attention. A good way to propose low key at home is to remove all her jewelry from her jewelry box and replace it with just the ring. Then, wait for her surprise reaction when she finds it as she is getting dressed.

2. Spell it out: Another great idea is to get the loved ones involved in helping you propose. Plan a party, inviting all your friends and family. Recruit some of the attendees to wear a T-shirt bearing one letter of the phrase, "Will you marry me?" Then, as soon as you two walk in, suggest a group photo and let the shirts speak for themselves.

3. Look up: For an outrageous idea, why not propose surrounded by thousands of your "closest friends" and your favorite team! Many sporting events allow bookings for your proposal to be shown on their scoreboard or big screen arena-boards. Just be sure to book it days or weeks in advance, depending on the popularity of the game. Another benefit is the booking fee usually goes towards the team's foundation.

What are some ways to keep your wedding a surprise?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes, couples want to keep their wedding a surprise. Cupid has some advice on how to do just that:

1. Don't wear an engagement ring out: If you don't want people know about your upcoming wedding, an engagement ring is the easiest tip. Keep yours hidden and don't wear it out around nosy friends.

2. Have a small ceremony: Obviously if your wedding is a secret, very few people will be invited. Keep the invite list small, by just including your family and closest friends in order to keep your plans from being told to everyone.

3. Have the ceremony somewhere unexpected: Getting married in your hometown will probably be an easy giveaway. Try to plan your wedding out of town to keep the rumors from spreading.

How do you show that you are proud of your significant other?

Cupid's Advice:

Jealousy and pride are two very different emotions. Here are some tips on how to show how you are proud of your significant other:

- 1. Don't compare: Your accomplishments and your partner's accomplishments are two completely different things. Do not compare what your significant other has done with what you have done. It will do the opposite of what you are hoping to do.
- 2. Boast about them: When you are proud of someone, you want to share their achievements with the world. Talk about your partner and their feats that you are proud of. Here's a tip: talk about them when they are not there. That way, they will know you are not putting on a show for them.
- 3. Tell them: If you are proud of someone, tell them! Communication is key. Nothing will make your significant partner happier than to hear directly from you how proud of them you are. Chances are, they have wanted to hear it for a while.

What are some unique ways to meet a potential partner?

Cupid's Advice:

Finding a potential partner can be a really difficult thing to do. Cupid has some advice on some new and interesting places to meet a new date:

1. Online: The stigma that comes along with online dating is starting to diminish. If you haven't had much luck finding people you connect with in your every day life, try an online dating site. Tons of people have successfully found a partner online, and it takes away the stress of finding someone on your own.

2. Volunteer activities: If there is a cause or organization in your community that you are passionate about, helping out by volunteering for a day can be a great way to meet new people that share some of your passions. Chat up the cute person working at the site with you and you never know what may happen!

3. Gym/park: If you are someone who loves the idea of working out, but may not be able to find someone to go with you, go for a run at your local park or hit the gym. Chances are, some cute single will be working out too (hopefully alone) and you can talk a little while you work out in a stress-free environment.

Reports Say Chad Kroeger's Parents Did Not Meet Avril Lavigne Pre-Engagement

By Erin Minty

The recently announced engagement between Avril Lavigne and Nickleback's lead singer Chad Kroeger came as a big shock to fans around the world. Other people it came as a shock to were Chad's parents. The couple admits to Hello! Canada magazine that Chad's parents never met Lavigne before the engagement, reports UsMagazine.com. Kroeger says, "You never know what your parents are going to say when you tell them you're getting married – especially when it's with someone they haven't met yet!" Apparently, he has never met the young singer's parents either. The two seem very nervous about making a good first impression, but Lavigne adds, "Everyone is super stoked for us. The reaction from our friends and family has been awesome!"

What are some ways to impress your partner's parents?

Cupid's Advice:

Meeting your partner's parents the first time can be extremely nerve-wracking. Cupid has some advice on making a good impression the first time you meet:

1. Be confident: You don't want to be shy on your first meeting with the parents, or your actions may be misinterpreted. Engage them in conversation and have a response to things that they say. Keep eye contact when speaking to them, and you will look interested and confident.

2. Dress to impress: Don't show up wearing some old baggy sweatpants or something with holes. You don't need to wear a tuxedo or gown either, but you want to look presentable when you first meet your partner's parents. A lot of a first impression has to do with the way you look, just like on a job interview. So, be polished and look nice for your first meeting.

3. Show love for your partner: All parents just want to know that their child is happy. If you love your partner: show it! Don't do anything inappropriate, but smile and show your appreciation to your partner in front of his or her parents. It will make their parents much more open to you to see their child loves you back.

'Happy Endings' Actress Elisha Cuthbert Is Engaged to NHL Star

By Erin Minty

The two have been dating since 2008, and are finally deciding to settle down together.

How do you know when you’ve been together long enough to get engaged?

Cupid's Advice:

Taking the next step from a relationship to an engagement can be a huge and scary decision. Cupid has some advice:

1. You are 100% open: Relationships are about learning every little detail about your partner's lives, past and present. When there is no more to learn, and you are happy with what you know, it may be time to move forward in your relationship. When a couple has no secrets and knows each other so well, getting engaged seems like the obvious step.

2. You see a future: If you imagine your future life being married, and you can see your partner as the one you are with, then an engagement might be in order. After a certain amount of time (it is different for everyone,) if you know that your partner is the one you want to spend the rest of your life with, then moving forward is the answer.

3. You want to move forward: There are only so many steps after being in a monogamous relationship. Try moving in together. If you have done that, adopt a pet together or buy a home. When you still want to move forward in your relationship, becoming engaged is only natural, and a perfect next step towards a happy life.

How do you know if someone is into you for the right reasons?

Cupid's Advice:

Dating is one of the most difficult adventures, especially trying to figure out who is trustworthy. Here are some clues on how to find out if someone is interested in you for the right reasons:

1. Through thick and thin: If someone truly has feelings for you based on your personality and not your bank account, they will be with you through it all. Whether you are having a good day or a bad day, a person that is truly into you will be by your side through the good times and the bad times.

2. Give and take: A true relationship is a partnership in which both people in the relationship give and take. If someone is only looking for presents and fancy dinners, they are only looking for the value of your bank account. Someone that is with you because they value you as a person will be around for the expensive nights out as well as the quiet, low key events.

3. A deeper meaning: If the deepest conversation you can have with someone is when the next paycheck comes around, it's time to start looking elsewhere. A deeper connection goes well beyond money, presents and expensive dates. Whether it be a shared interest in a hobby or a friend in common, the more you can relate to the person, the deeper the connection will be.

Hollywood couple Jolie and Pitt may have finally picked a celebrity wedding date. What are some ways to choose your wedding date?

Cupid's Advice:

Setting a date can be an extremely stressful time for any couple about to be married. Cupid has some relationship and love advice about how to start thinking about a date for your wedding:

1. Start with a season: Is there one season that has always called out to you? Maybe you love the sunshine and beaches associated with summer, or maybe the pristine white of snow is more your style. Think about what would match your dream dress and your venue choices. By narrowing your choices down to a particular time of year, you can eliminate most of the year and have a much smaller list of dates to choose from.

Wynonna Judd's Husband Is Injured in Motorcycle Crash

By Jessica Nappi

Wynonna Judd's husband and drummer, Michael Scott "Cactus" Moser, got into a serious motorcycle accident on Saturday. The newlyweds went for a motorcycle ride together on separate bikes in Deadwood, S.D. before one of their shows. Judd avoided harm while Moser crashed into an oncoming vehicle and was immediately transported to a local hospital. People reports that Judd released a public statement expressing both her gratitude and hope. "The outpouring of prayer and support from friends, family and fans has been a blessing to both Cactus and I," she says. "Cactus is a champion. I love him deeply and I will not leave his side." What to do you do to support your partner during illness?

Cupid's Advice:

For better or worse, you have to be by your partner's side. Here are some ways to support your other half through the worst:

1. Be at the hospital with them: Sometimes more terrifying than an actual illness is the unfamiliar, white-walled and unhomely hospital room they put you in. Make your partner feel comfortable and at-home by being there with them as much as you can, and bringing some household items to give the room a spark of life.

2. Don't wait for them to ask for help: It may not be easy to detect all of their needs during an illness, but if anything, be overbearing rather than yielding. Always ask if they need anything, give them foot massages, and bring them random gifts. They could feel like a burden when they ask for help all the time, so go the extra mile.

3. Always put on a happy face: During hard times, it's easy to lose hope and break down. That said, doing so will only make your partner suffer emotional pain when they are already in physical pain. Put on a brave face and never let your smile falter. When you're smiling, your partner will smile too.

perfect match, and friends and family couldn't be more thrilled for them

What are some signs that it's time to get engaged?

Cupid's Advice:

When deciding to spend the rest of your life with someone, you have to make sure your relationship is in the right place to make that big step. Here are some signs that you're ready to become engaged:

1. You've been in a long term committed relationship: It's hard to decide you want to spend the rest of your life with someone if you haven't gotten to know them for long enough. If you have been in a dedicated and committed relationship for over a couple of months, then you can consider a proposal and know what you would be getting yourself into.

2. You've moved in together: Just because you have been dating for a while, doesn't mean you know exactly what you'd be marrying into. At least not until you've lived with a person. Once you live with them, you live and breathe them. You wouldn't want to become engaged to someone and find out what they live like later on.

What are the advantages to putting off your wedding ceremony?

Cupid's Advice:

Getting engaged is a stepping stone to marriage, but many are now holding off the 'I do's' to soak in their engagement bliss. From Jessica Biel to Christina Applegate, celebrities have explained why they're putting off their wedding ceremonies. Here are some advantages of doing so:

1. Prolong the special moment: The most romantic part of your life will be the period of time in which you are engaged. Some can get so caught up in the planning stresses of a wedding that they miss out on basking in the moment of being engaged. Take the time to enjoy your life as an engaged couple and show off that ring to everyone.

2. Not rushing into anything: When a wedding is rushed, often times it becomes messy. On top of a less-than-perfect wedding ceremony, your actual partnership can be affected if you rush into it. Take the time of being engaged to really hash out any old arguments or feelings that may affect your relationship in the long-run so that your wedding day will be nothing but full of love.

3. Better planning: The more time you take to just be engaged, the more time you have to plan for the big day. From picking out the perfect dress to seating charts to finding a beautiful venue to the catering, there's a lot that goes into a wedding. Your engagement period and wedding ceremony will be much less stressful if you carefully choose everything over a long period of time.

3. Get a time frame to work with: Deciding how long of an engagement you and your partner want is crucial for obvious reasons.
