When is it time to step out in public as a couple?

Cupid's Advice:

You may be happy with your new special someone, but taking it outside of your comfort zone can be bewildering. Doing so too soon can break your already fragile and new relationship, but stepping it up too late can make others question why you kept it a secret for so long. Here's how to find the balance:

1. You've both acknowledged monogamy: Anyone can go on a couple of dates and think they've found "the one," but the truth is: some people are serial daters. If you both agree that it's going to be exclusive, then you can step out as a couple. But, if there's no monogamy, then there should be no publicity.

2. You've been on several dates: One really good date does not ensure a new partner. Get to know the person more by going on more dates to see if you really connect. Also, the more dates you are asked on, the more you know your crush is interested in you.

3. You've shared your feelings: The amount of dates you go on can be an indication of your feelings for one another, but it's better to hear them so you know for sure. If you both admit you're really into each other, it's OK to step out in public. This will allow your relationship to grow.

2. You understand the ups and downs of the profession: Being able to truly understand the difficulties of a certain line of work will enhance your communication and improve your relationship. If your beau comes home from a hard day at work, you'll be able to sympathize with their grumpy mood and can show them you care.

How do you decide whether to get married again after a divorce?

Cupid's Advice:

It can be difficult to believe in everlasting love after a messy split. Here are some ways to decide whether to say "I do" to your new man:

1) You've learned from the past: No matter how difficult the divorce was, it's important to at least learn something from your previous marriage. Perhaps you and your ex had poor communication or disagreed on fundamental issues. If you've grown and feel confident that you won't repeat the same mistakes, it may be time to try marriage again.

2) You are over your ex-husband: No matter how many times you might tell others and even yourself that you're over him, only you truly know how you feel. If your mind is constantly bombarded with thoughts of him, hold off on another marriage.

3) You still believe: Do you still have faith that relationships can last forever if they are between the right two people? If you still trust in the power of marriage and are prepared to do the hard work that comes with keeping a relationship strong, you may be ready for another big day.

While going out on dates one-on-one offers you and your partner some alone time, there are definite advantages to going out with multiple people:

1. You get to know the person better: One-on-one, the conversation tends to start as small talk. However, if you each have some friends there, you can really get to know what the other person is like by sharing stories you otherwise would not hear.

If you end up really liking the guy, how do you show it? What if you don't like him? If other people are around, it takes the pressure off of you both.

3. It's more fun: When you go out on a group date, you're more comfortable because you know other people. It's not just you and him so you can interact with your friends, tell funny stories and play games.

How can you tell if your partner is mature enough for you?

Most of the time, people will be on a different maturity level than what their age defines them as. It's all about finding the perfect fit for where you are. Here are some tips to tell if your partner is mature enough for you:

1. Settled Down: Usually if someone has decided to settle down in one place with a stable job, then they've reached a level of maturity where they want to get serious, and that's a good sign.

2. Life Goals: You can usually tell a person's maturity level based on what they want to do in the future. They must be striving towards goals that will make them successful and happy, and that's who you want to be with.

3. Recent Relationships: Try doing a little background check on your partner. See why they chose the paths they did in life, and maybe why their most recent relationship ended the way it did. It will tell you a lot about what they want and what they're serious about.

What are some ways to tell that your age difference is affecting your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Most celebrity relationships with a significant age gap don't last very long. Here are some warning signs that your age difference is affecting your relationship:

1. Jealousy: If you start to notice your mate getting fed up with all the attention you're getting from others, then beware! Whether he's older or younger, he may be feeling insecure about his own age. Similarly, if you begin feeling insecure about your own worth to him, it can hinder your relationship.

2. One of you wants to try new things but the other doesn't: While one of you is still in an “up for anything” mentality, the other has already been there and might not want to do certain things. When it becomes a constant trend that one of you stays in while the other goes out, it may be time to call it quits.

3. You have the same arguments: The fact that you're in different places in your lives can lead to conflict over the same topic. You want kids, he doesn't. He wants to move, you don't. No matter how mature both of you are, or how in love, recognizing your own wants and needs first is a must.

How do you know when it’s time to start dating after a split?

Breakups can be tough, and sometimes it can be even more difficult to jump back into the dating pool. But, how do you know when it’s time to dive back in after calling it quits with your former flame? Cupid has some signs that it’s time to get out:

- 1. You’re feeling lonely: Your ex no longer considers you a factor in their life and your friends barely know who you are anymore since you’ve secluded yourself in your bedroom listening to Beyonce’s “Me, Myself and I” on repeat. The split probably hurt, but you’ll hurt even more if you continue to isolate yourself.
- 2. Lesson learned: After any breakup, there’s always something you should mentally take from it. Things may not always work out as planned, but the important thing is to realize what mistakes you made and how not to make them again.

strength and you're no longer feeling vulnerable, then you should step back into the dating scene.

How do you know when to make a relationship public?

Cupid's Advice:

Everyone gets excited in a new relationship, but rushing to reveal it to the world can put you and your partner's happiness at risk. Consider these points before making your relationship public:

1. Make sure you're serious: Don't tell everyone about your relationship until you're sure you want to remain committed to it. Waiting is better than making an announcement of something that you're not sure is going to last.

2. Consider the steps you've taken: If you've already been on several dates and told some of your closest friends, telling the world about your relationship might not be as difficult as you think. When you're already spending most of your free time with your partner, going public is a natural progression of the relationship.

3. Ask your partner: You shouldn't go public with your relationship if your partner isn't ready. Ask for his or her opinion before spreading the word to others. This will keep you from taking a step that could make your partner uncomfortable.

What are some ways to keep a new relationship a secret?

Cupid's Advice:

You wouldn't want to spoil a new relationship by letting word get out too quickly! Cupid has some tips to keep things quiet until you're ready to go public:

1. Location: If you're going out on a date, don't pick a hot spot where you know there's the possibility of seeing friends or family. It will be fun to explore a new area and go to a restaurant that you've never been to before as a couple.

2. Rumor mill: The best way to prevent rumors is to withhold any kind of information that can get the mill churning. If you have friends or co-workers that you know are nosey-nellies, avoid talking about your new found crush in front of them.

3. Play it cool: When you start dating someone new it can be the only thing that's on your mind, but if you want it kept a secret, you have to learn to be subtle. If people question you, reply with a friendly answer and nonchalant tone to make it seem like it's not a big deal.

Your first kiss should be a moment that you never forget. Cupid has some tips to make it special:

- 1. Who: Don't let your first smooch be from just anyone. Save the moment for someone special so that you won't have to regret thinking about it every time you reminisce.
- 2. When: It doesn't matter how old you are when you get your first kiss. It will be more enjoyable if you wait, so that it's not from the weird kid in your class during a game of spin the bottle or a guy you met drunk at the bar.
- 3. Where: It doesn't matter where you are because butterflies are going to make your heart flutter and your head spin. Don't try to plan it out. Just relax and let it happen.

What are some ways to flirt without being obvious about it?

Cupid's Advice:

There are many flirting techniques out there, but sometimes you want to be subtle about it so it doesn't come off as desperate. Cupid has some tips:

1. Make sporadic eye contact: Don't be creepy and stare at your crush, but make sure to make eye contact periodically. As they say on America's Next Top Model, it's important to "smile with your eyes."

2. Initiate a conversation: You can show your interest in someone by taking the initiative to start a conversation. Smile a lot during the discussion, and perhaps lay a hand on his or her shoulder at the opportune times.

3. Use your body language to your advantage: Perhaps sit a bit closer to your crush than you would just a friend. Break the touch barrier by touching his or her arm briefly while you're talking.

- 1. Recognition: It’s nice to be noticed as a couple. By going public, your friends can provide insight into your relationship and help you through some rough patches.
- 2. No hassle: Sometimes life can be easier when people know that you’re in a relationship. By letting people know you’re off the market, many awkward situations can be avoided.
- 3. Less work: Keeping your relationship private can be tough, especially with today’s social networking sites like Twitter and Facebook. By announcing your relationship, you can post photos and tweet messages without worrying about what you’re revealing.

How do you know when it's OK to show PDA?

Cupid's Advice:

PDA is okay as long as it's done in a casual setting and isn't overdone. A kiss and a warm touch here and there is perfectly cute and acceptable, but once you feel the need to get a room, you need to tone it down. Cupid has some tips:

1. Stay away from PDA in a business setting: When you bring your partner to meet your co-workers or to the company holiday party, this is never the time for PDA. Keep it professional.

2. At the beach: No one can resist their partner in a swimsuit. So, PDA at the beach or poolside is perfectly acceptable. Feel free to hold hands, steal a kiss or wrestle in the waves.

3. After a big achievement: When your partner has just won an award or scored a point in a sports game, this is the perfect time for PDA. Show your congratulations and affection with a kiss.

How do you know when to go public with your relationship?

Cupid’s Advice:

Sure, keeping your relationship under wraps has its perks, such as privacy and a better chance at maintaining a healthy, long-lasting relationship, but you can’t keep it behind closed doors forever. Here are some ways to recognize when you and your mate should “make it official”:

1. It’s getting serious: After you and your partner have been dating for a while and agree that it’s time to meet each other’s family, it can also be a great time to debut your relationship.

2. Everyone knows: You and your love can only be seen a few times sneaking in some PDA before people begin to link you two together. If everyone has already pieced you two together, why not confirm it?

3. You're both ready: When you both agree that you're ready to go public with your relationship, then that's when it's the best time.
