Cupid's Advice:

Having an addiction can be very toxic in any form in your relationship. Whether it's a big or small addiction, it will have a negative affect. Drinking and smoking are the most common addictions, and they can tear your bond apart. However, there can be other addictions that have the same effects as a substance abuse. Cupid has some ways is to know if your addiction is affecting your relationship:

1. Communication starts to become strained: If you notice that your partner or your children do not want to communicate with you as often anymore, then you have to look into what you are doing differently than you used to. For example, if you are used to having family night and watching the football game together, and now no one has an interest in watching with you anymore, your addition could be the source of the problem. Ask your partner and your children why they're communicating with you less. If they respond with, "I don't like it when..." then your addiction is a serious problem.

2. Lots of interest in public events: You would rather stay at home and drink a glass of wine or skip a family event to go and play poker. If this is the case, your addiction might be affecting your life. You'll start to seclude yourself from people, including your family members, because you want to perform the action that everyone hates.

3. No effort in quitting: When your family members and friends tell you that your addiction is very harmful to yourself and others, will you try to stop? will help you through the process.

Cupid's Advice:

Families are such an integral part of a relationship. Getting to know your partner's parents is a big step in taking a relationship to the next level. And, when you and your partner are on the rocks, they can also be a very helpful outlet to combatting these issues and keeping your bond from crumbling. If you're having a hard time figuring out how to save your relationship, don't fret! Cupid has some love advice on how involving your family can actually be a useful asset during these trying times:

1. New perspectives: If you're speaking to your in-laws, know that they know your partner better than you ever will. Being open and honest with them about your relationship will give them a chance to hand you new perspectives on the situation. They can provide anecdotes of how your significant other reacts towards certain behaviors while also offering wise advice for keeping your relationship alive.

2. Tough-love: Families are good at many things, but one of their best skills is to give you tough love when you need it. Most times your family won't sugarcoat anything for you, and if you come to them for relationship advice, they won't hesitate to be as blunt and honest as possible. If you've messed up, they'll let you know, and if you're being stubborn, they'll call you out on it. Trust families to not take your feelings into consideration because, sometimes, being direct about relationship issues can actually help you resolve them.

Celebrity Break-Up: David Eason Speaks Out After Jenelle Evans Announces Split

 By Hope Ankney

In the latest celebrity news, Teen Mom 2 alum David Eason has spoken out after Jenelle Evans announced their celebrity break-up. This is the first time he's addressed the issue with his estranged wife, and he seemingly shaded Evans through several Instagram stories on Sunday, November 3rd. According to UsMagazine.com, Eason posted two screenshots of TMZ articles. One detailed a request for full custody of the pair's two-year-old daughter, Ensley. The other discussed Evan's road rage that was broadcast in 2018 where she followed a driver home and then brandished a gun.

In celebrity break-up news, David Eason threw some shade Jenelle Evans' way after she announced their split. What are some things to avoid on social media during a break-up?

Cupid's Advice:

Getting over a nasty breakup is hard, but it is even harder when social media is involved. Whether it is viewing their stories, stalking their profiles, or keeping up with what their friends are doing, it is a breeding ground for hurt feelings and questionable consequences. If you're going through a break-up, and you're having a hard time pulling yourself away from your ex's social media, don't worry! Cupid has some relationship advice on what to avoid on social media during a split:

1. Social media stories: Facebook has them. Instagram has them. Snapchat has them. Social media stories allow users to see exactly what's going on with someone in real-time. It's a cool feature unless you're going through a tough break-up. Seeing your ex out having fun on their stories can further fan the flame, and it might lead to feeling worse or to toxic social media behavior. Before you decide to click on their icon, think about what viewing this story is really going to help when it comes to getting over them.

2. Burner accounts: If you follow their FINSTA (private Instagram) or Fake Twitter, chances are your ex will be venting about you and your relationship after it ends. If they haven't already blocked you from following their account, maybe it's a good idea to unfriend yourself from seeing those posts. And, if you are blocked, don't give in to the temptation to ask friends who are still privy to the accounts to spy on them and report back. You'll see or hear something you weren't prepared for, and it will only lead to anger or hurt.

3. Keeping up with the circle: Chances are, when a relationship ends, the friend circle won't be the same. Some people will choose to stay with your ex while others might be more neutral about the breakup. Either way, it isn't a good idea to poke your nose into the circle, especially on social media, to keep up to date about what your ex is doing. Not only does it not paint you in a good light, but it can cause issues in the friend group. It's better to keep a safe distance than to cause more distress than is necessary.

In celebrity break-up news, another 'BiP' couple has called it quits. What are some ways to announce your split to family and friends?

Cupid's Advice:

Announcing a break-up can be hard. There's never a right time or place to tell someone that you are done with your relationship. This is not something you can get perfectly right. Cupid has some advice on how to tell your family and friends that you are no longer dating your partner:

1. Break the news when you're ready: Just because you guys broke up two days ago does not mean that you have to tell the world that you guys are no longer together. Give yourself some time to come to terms with it and then tell your family and friends.

Related Link: Celebrity News: Jenna Dewan Opens Up About Love, Divorce and Healing in New Book

2. Tell them in person in an intimate setting: Talking to someone face-to-face can show you the emotions that they feel by the reaction that they give you. It's easier to open up about pressing topics and issues when you're in front of someone. Try rehearsing what you're going to say before you say it. Talking to someone about your break-up can also bring you comfort if you are sad. This will help release some of the pain that she might be feeling at this time.

3. Ask for some space: You'll need some time to process all of this. Having people tell you what you should and shouldn't do is not going to make the situation better. Tell them the truth about how you feel, but ask for your privacy at this time. When you're ready to have an in depth conversation about with the situation, let them know.

If you're in a relationship that you're thinking could be your soulmate, Cupid has some relationship tips for figuring out if your partner is "the one" or not:

1. They bring out the best parts of you: The right relationships should always show the absolute best parts of who you are. They are meant to bring out what others can't, and if you feel like your partner does that, it might be a good indication that they're the one for you. But, remember! Make sure you bring out the best in them, as well.

2. Your friends and family have never seen you happier: Those closest to you know you better than you know yourself. They know when you're sad, or when you're angry, or even when you're happy. In celebrity break-up news, things aren't looking promising for Teresa and Joe Giudice. What are some ways to decide whether to call it quits on your marriage?

Cupid's Advice:

Celebrity breakups aren't much different than ours. Even though there's fame and money, it doesn't change a lot about the dynamic when it comes to relationships. If you're on the rocks with your partner, and you don't know whether or not you should end the marriage, don't worry! Cupid has some love advice on when it might be a good idea to reevaluate your relationship:

1. No communication: The most important aspect of a relationship is the ability of both parties to be able to communicate with one another. If conversing openly and honestly with your partner has deteriorated, this might be a sign that the marriage needs to be reassessed. This is only if attempts to strengthen the communication has failed before.

2. Lack of respect: Joe dissing his wife Teresa by saying she needs to find another man that can handle her and her "high maintenance" tendencies is a very disrespectful thing to say about your partner. If you're in a marriage that shows levels of disrespect toward one another, your relationship has some layers of toxicity. Sit down and discuss why you're both saying such hateful things about one another, and if you cannot reach common ground, it might be a good idea to start packing your bags.

3. Low affection: This is something that can sometimes be harder to catch if both you and your partner have gotten into a routine that makes this behavior normal. If your marriage has faded into nothing, but low levels of attraction of intimacy, this may indicate a bigger issue. Try to figure out if this problem is fixable, and if it isn't, neither one of you deserves to be in a marriage that doesn't show the other the affection they need.

Don't say that "it will all work out", rather, try to make the transition a little easier.

Celebrity Couple News: Jenni 'JWoww' Farley & Zack Carpinello Are Back Together After Split

By Hope Ankney

In our latest celebrity news, Jenni 'JWoww' Farley and Zack

Carpinello are back together! After the celebrity couple split only two weeks ago, it seems like the two have mended their relationship. According to UsMagazine.com, the reality star and wrestler were seen together twice after they announced their break-up. This is when they spent time at Universal Studios in Florida on October 18th, and when Carpinello hung out with Farley's children on October 12th.

In celebrity couple news, this split didn't last! What are some ways to decide whether to get back together with an ex?

Cupid's Advice:

Getting back together with an ex can be a difficult decision. Let's be honest, it's much easier to patch things up with an ex instead of finding someone new because it means we must get to know someone new which, usually, isn't something we want to do. As you've probably broken up for legit reasons, it usually doesn't stop lingering feelings from keeping the flame alive. But, it's important to know when these feelings aren't just the normal process of missing a past relationship. If you're unsure of whether to give your ex another chance, don't worry. Cupid has some relationship advice that can help you decide:

- 1. Listen to your gut: The first thing you must do when reconsidering an old flame is to listen to what your gut is telling you. A past relationship could've ended because you chose to ignore major red flags or never followed what your gut felt. If you're choosing to give this person a second chance, make sure you're willing and able to trust your instincts if things start to slide back into the same territory.

2. Address what ended the relationship: Sometimes, partners like to jump back together without discussing what made them split in the first place. But, those issues seem to always creep back into a relationship if they're not dealt with properly. It's important for a couple to build on their new relationship by learning from the problems that occurred in the past that led to their break-up. It'll help you both to understand each other's perspective on the situation, and it will stop similar issues from arising in the future.

3. Time has passed: Time heals all wounds, right? Or, so they say. It's possible that your relationship ended because both of you just needed some time apart from one another. Sometimes, one needs to go soul-searching. Sometimes, both of you just need to learn to live life without one another to see if the relationship is right. It's often that when time passes, you have matured and grown as people. So, when you do find your way back together, it's like your relationship has recharged, and you've realized that you'd rather be with no one else.

Take this time to understand how you are feeling and what you want and deserve. The end of a long-term relationship can be devastating, so allow yourself to feel all of the emotions that come with a break-up. According to UsMagazine.com, Chad Johnson, a Bachelor Nation alum, publicly accused Booth of cheating on Cooper. In celebrity break-up news, Tia Booth hesitantly confirmed her split on social media. What are some factors to consider before sharing relationship details on social media?

Cupid's Advice:

Making a break-up known can be hard. Whether it not to rip off the band aid and share it on social media is a tough decision. Cupid has some advice on how to post the ending of your relationship online:

1. Are you ready to admit that it is over?: Your feelings matter. How you move forward with the way you tell people about your ex is your decision. You don't owe anyone any explanations. Also, if it wasn't clear to you if you can rekindle this relationship, talk to your ex about it. Don't say anything until you're positive that it is truly over.

2. If your ex is ready to share: Believe it or not some people would rather keep every detail of their life private. A breakup is no different. You both should agree on the way that you want to tell others that you are no longer together.

3. How will you tell the whole world?: You don't want to air your dirty laundry on social media. Try to do this from a professional standpoint. This is easier said than done, but using words like "we have come to a mutual agreement" or "we value each other and always will, but..." This shows maturity and will not make either party a target for trolls.

In celebrity news, Miley Cyrus is definitely throwing that wrecking ball all over the place after changing her celebrity relationship status for the third time. The former Hannah Montana star confirmed that she and her former girlfriend, Kaitlynn Carter, split in late September. Shortly after, Cyrus announced that she and Cody Simpson are now a celebrity couple. On October 3rd, the singer tweeted to her fans, "Get used to me dating- this is where I am at! #HotGirlFall.” The new duo are very comfortable with each other each other, displaying PDA and sharing a history. According to UsMagazine.com, Simpson says that the two met at the wrong time originally. “We had a lot of fun then ... but now we’ve found each other in a space where we’re not partying, working real hard and just like [to] keep things healthy,” she said.

In celebrity news, Miley Cyrus is seemingly not amused with comparisons being done on her relationships. What are some ways to keep your past relationship from affecting your current relationship?

Cupid’s Advice:

Even though it is not traditional to jump from relationship to relationship, Miley is showing us that there is nothing wrong with doing so. Being a #HotGirl is a trending hashtag that is boosting everyone’s confidence. This was made in the hopes that women would feel more comfortable in themselves and moving on from broken relationships. Cupid has some advice on how to use that hot girl energy when dating someone new:

1. Don’t compare: Ladies, we all do this! However, if you are trying to move on with your new boo, don’t compare the two! Try to look for similar qualities like chivalry and taste in music. Don’t make your new bae your ex bae 2.0.

2. Do new things: Try not to relive the past through this person. Take them to new places, so you can make new memories. Show them your playful side! Jump out of a plane together, or get tickets for a concert of a band you've never seen live. Keep things new and fresh.

3. Be open to change: While you look for similarities between you and your new partner, also look for differences. They might not be your "usual" type of partner, but don't give up on them too easily. Try to compromise. If they are more introverted, plan your dates at a more personal level. Taking a walk while holding hands or baking a cake together are two low-key ideas. If they are more extroverted, then you won't have any problems finding out what they want to do. If they tell you what they want to do that's outside of your comfort zone, consider doing it anyway!

This new celebrity couple seems to be hitting it off. What are some ways to know your new relationship is strong?

Cupid's Advice:

When you get into a new relationship, it can sometimes seem like everything is going so fast. There's the whirlwind romance, the attraction of everything that is fresh and new, and learning everything there is to know about this person. It can be fun and exciting, but it can also be difficult to know when a new relationship is becoming more than just a casual date. Fortunately, Cupid has some love advice on a few ways to know when your new relationship is going strong:

1. You're happy: This might seem obvious, but you'd be surprised how many people aren't genuinely happy with the one they're dating. Strong and healthy relationships should be full of as much fun and laughter as possible. We're not saying that every single moment of each other's relationship should be nothing but joy, but it should outweigh a lot of other emotions that make you both well... not happy.

2. There's trust: Strong relationships cannot be built unless they have a sturdy foundation of trust. Communication and openness are a big key to having a successful bond with your significant other.

Your significant other should be a safety net to you when you need them. They should provide you with a stable home and a sense of calm when you need it. If you don't feel safe within your relationship, maybe you shouldn't still be with that person.

Celebrity News: Matthew Koma Calls Hilary Duff 'Wife' Sparking Marriage Rumors

 By Hope Ankney

In the latest celebrity news, Matthew Koma has, seemingly, sparked rumors that he and Hilary Duff have secretly tied the knot. According to UsMagazine.com, the musician referred to Duff as his “wife” in an Instagram post shared on Saturday night. In the photo, you can see the actress mid-laugh as she’s dressed to the nines. Many fans began speculating about a possible wedding ceremony, but neither party responded. Instead, Duff posted a photo to her own Instagram the same night of the two, detailing that they were attending the AdoptTogether’s 2019 Baby Ball in Los Angeles.

In celebrity news, is it possible that Hilary Duff and Matthew Koma tied the knot in secret? What are some benefits to keeping your nuptials on the down-low?

Cupid’s Advice:

It’s not uncommon for celebrity couples to secretly get married. Their entire lives are handed to the public on a silver platter. Privacy is something they don’t take for granted, so it’s understandable that there are some aspects of their world that they would like to keep separate. But, this isn’t just helpful for celebrity relationships. It can be just as beneficial for anyone to keep their private life... well, private. Here are some of Cupid’s best relationship advice on why getting married on the down-low can actually be a good thing:

1. Filtered social media: The advancements in the visual aspect of social media has changed how we get attention from our peers. However, if you become obsessed with recognition and likes, it can negatively affect your relationship. It begins to blossom when a couple notices that they’re more in love with the idea of their relationship being flaunted online than they actually are being in the relationship. Keeping your marriage private can help in keeping both of your motivations pure as you step into the next part of your lives together. It's important to note when you're in a partnership with another because you have a genuine bond versus when you love the views that social media gives you for that partnership.

Related Link: Celebrity Wedding: Country Singers Carly Pearce & Michael Ray Marry After 1 Year of Dating

2. Fewer riffs due to privacy: When you share almost every waking moment of your marriage online or with others, it hinders the relationship from having a bond that should be shared only with each other. Most spouses aren't exactly excited to know that the majority of their relationship is exposed to third parties. This can cause drama and unnecessary issues in your marriage when others know about problems or complications that are normally kept quiet.

Related Link: Celebrity Wedding: Justin Bieber & Hailey Baldwin Tie the Knot for the Second Time

3. Less opportunity for exes to meddle: No matter what, it seems like some exes just don't allow you to ever be happy. The only thing worse than friends or family being in your marriage's business is if an ex is meddling in it as well. This can damage your relationship if your marriage isn't built on the strongest of foundations. Disclosing information to your ex or those who know your ex can be harmful, and it should be something that isn't taken lightly. Don't allow yourself to be vulnerable, and always be wise.

What are some ways that you've found being private with your marriage has been beneficial? Let us know down below!
