What are some factors to consider when you’re attracted to someone much older?

Cupid's Advice:

Being attracted to someone who is much older than you can add some strain to your relationship, so what are some things to consider when you're attracted to someone much older? Cupid has some advice for you:

- 1. Children: Dating someone who is much older you have to consider the chances that he or she might have children. If they do have children you need to make sure that you are ready to meet them and potentially be a part of their lives.
- 2. Maturity: The level of maturity will be significantly different between you two. Remember that he or she might not want to go out all the time and may want to spend weekends at home alone watching movies and cooking dinner.
- 3. Don't mention it: Don't mention the gap in age constantly. If you are attracted to each other this is something you can move past. Reminding him or her of the difference in age can make them feel self conscious and old.

What are some ways to cope with an unexpected pregnancy?

Cupid's Advice:

Getting pregnant can be a hard time for many couples, but dealing with an unplanned pregnancy can be even scarier. So how can you cope with an unplanned pregnancy? Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Don't give up: If you had other plans before you got pregnant, don't give up on your dreams. Take a moment to sit down with your partner and figure out a way that you both can follow your dreams with a baby in the picture. Keep telling yourself that everything will work out and it will.

2. Think positively: Stop thinking negatively about the situation and start thinking positively. Being negative will only add to your emotions and not in a positive way. Think about all the positive your baby will bring to your life and things should start looking up.

3. Talk to someone: Don't keep your emotions and feelings bottled up inside. Seek support from family and friends and talk about how you are feeling about the situation. Unplanned pregnancy can be a hard thing to deal with, but if you talk about how you are feeling with people who care about you things will get a lot easier.

How do you know when to announce your pregnancy?

Cupid's Advice:

You and your honey just found out that you're pregnant, but now you have the nerve-wrecking taste of telling your family and friends. Do you tell them right away, or do you wait it out for a little while? Ultimately, the decision is up to you, but Cupid has some useful advice:

1. You're starting to show: When you start to get a bit of a baby bump, it might be time to spill the beans. Many couples like to keep the pregnancy a secret until they're sure that both the mom and the baby are out of harm's way (possibility of miscarriage). Plus, the longer you wait to tell your family and friends, the more time you'll have to make some important baby decisions without the hassle of your loved ones getting involved.

2. Your partner wants to share the news: Sometimes it's hard to keep something as exciting as a pregnancy all to yourself, and your significant other may want to spread the word sooner rather than later. Don't feel pressured to do or say anything you're uncomfortable with. The decision to share the news should come from both of you, not just one.

3. People are getting suspicious: You want to be the first to let all of your loved ones know about the baby. So, if the people you care about are starting to wonder if you're pregnant, then you might want to go ahead and let them in on your little secret. It won't be much of a surprise if everyone figures it out before you say anything.

What are some ways to cope with an abrupt breakup?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes breakups happen quickly, and there's nothing you can do about it. Cupid has some advice on how to deal:

1. Spend time with friends: After you go through a breakup, it's a good idea to spend some time catching up with your loved ones. They'll be there to lend you a shoulder to cry on and they won't pass any judgment on you.

2. Keep busy: One of the best things you can do after a sudden breakup is keep yourself distracted. Continue to carry on with your daily routine as you normally would do. Hang out with your family and friends. Take up a few new hobbies. Over time, you won't need as many distractions, but for now, it'll help with the pain you might be feeling.

3. Pamper yourself: Take yourself out on a "me" day. Get a makeover or spend the day relaxing at a spa. Don't just spend your time pondering on what could have been. You're single now, so that mean you need to be the best "you" you can be for the next cute girl/guy who catches your eye.

What are some ways to support your friend who is getting married?

Cupid's Advice:

Getting married can be stressful. Let Cupid help you help our your friend on their big day!

1. Bite your tongue: It's their wedding not yours; so don't insert your opinion where it is not wanted. We've all seen an episode of, "Say Yes to the Dress," where one of the bridesmaids interjects her opinion right when the bride falls in love with a dress. Don't be that bridesmaid!

2. Pick up the slack: There are a plethora of things to plan when it comes to a wedding. If you notice that your friend is forgetting certain things then give them a quick reminder. It's okay to cross the T's and dot the I's.

3. Open your ears: The months leading up to the wedding may be trying on their relationship. If your friend has any doubts then you should be there for them and be willing to give your honest opinion on the situation at hand.

'Once Upon a Time' Co-Stars Jennifer Morrison and Sebastian Stan Call It Quits

By Kerri Sheehan

It doesn't look like it will be happily ever after for former Once Upon a Time costars Jennifer Morrison and Sebastian Stan. The couple has officially called it quits after more than a year of dating. Multiple sources have confirmed to UsMagazine.com, "They broke up at least four months ago. They have gone their separate ways—no bad blood." It seems the couple has just grown apart and there will be no hard feelings.

How do you announce your breakup to family and friends?

Cupid's Advice:

Breakups are never easy. Let Cupid help you ease the transition from together to apart:

1. Don't send out a huge announcement: A lot of people get the idea to send out an announcement letter to all of their friends about their breakup. This is especially true if they feel they have been wronged. They want to be casually vindictive and let other know that the breakup wasn't their fault. However, this is the wrong way to go about it unless you're still in middle school.

2. Leave the drama out of it: It's a breakup, not a breakdown. So, when you're informing your friends and family that you and your lover have called it quits, don't be too dramatic about the whole situation. Sure it will take some time to get over, but it is not the end of the world.

3. Practice makes perfect: Before informing anyone, sit down by yourself and figure out exactly what you want to say. You may not want to give them every little detail and therefore having a blanket statement ready to tell people is a good idea.

Sizzle to Fizzle: Brody Jenner and Bryana Holly

By April Littleton

A source confirmed to UsMagazine.com that the Keeping Up with the Kardashians star has broken up with his model girlfriend of four months, Bryana Holly. "It just fizzled out," the insider said about the break up. The former flames went public with their relationship July 6 in Malibu, California. Prior to sizzling up with Holly, Brody Jenner was linked to Avril Lavigne, Lauren Conrad and Kristin Cavallari, who just announced her second pregnancy with husband Jay Cutler.

How do you know when to call it quits on a new relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Breaking up with someone you once cared for is never an easy thing to do. How do you know if you're making the right decision? Are the problems you and your companion have something that can be fixed? Cupid is here to help:

1. Lack of communication: There's no use in trying to save a dying relationship when you and your partner stop talking to each other completely. Communication is key to any sizzling relationship. If you can't fully express the way you feel and the problems you and your significant other seem to be having are just getting worse, it may be time to call it quits.

2. Wondering eyes: The heat in your relationship may not be as intense as it used to be if you find yourself interested in another person. The same goes for your honey. You and your boyfriend/girlfriend should only have eyes for each other. Talk to your partner about the status of your relationship if someone else is making you smile and weak in the knees.

3. The love is gone: Don't be with someone you no longer have feelings for. If you've fallen out of love and it's obvious that your girlfriend/boyfriend doesn't feel the same way about you anymore, let each other go. Continuing on with a relationship the both of you don't want to be in anymore will only make matters fizzle out more. You never know, the two of you might just be better off as friends.

Find Out How Kate Hudson Helped Lea Michele After Cory Monteith's Death

By April Littleton

According to UsMagazine.com, Lea Michele has gotten plenty of help getting through Cory Monteith's death. What are some ways you can help a friend who has lost his/her partner?

Cupid's Advice:

Helping a friend get through a tragedy of losing someone they love is not an easy task. You don't want to overstep your boundaries, but at the same time, you want him/her to know you're there for them whenever they need you. Cupid has some tips:

1. Support them: One of the best things you can do for a friend in need is just lend a listening ear. When your friend is ready to vent to someone, just be there for them. Don't pressure him/her to do or say anything they're not ready for.

2. Keep them busy: Get your friend up and out of the house. Help them get back into their old routine. Maybe the two of you can pick up some new hobbies together. Sign up for a cooking class, learn how to play a musical instrument together or catch up on the latest movies. If those options don't work for you and your loved one, find something else the two of you would enjoy doing.

3. Help them reminisce: Help your friend find some healthy ways to remember their lost love. Start a scrapbooking project together or be there for your friend when it comes time to visit their late partner's grave. Let them know it's OK for him/her to still think about their significant other from time-to-time – they just have to figure out how to grieve in a proper manner.

'Full House' Actress Candace Cameron Bure Talks Motherhood

By Priyanka Singh

Former Full House actress and now mother-of-three, Candace Cameron Bure, recently talked with CelebrityBabyScoop.com about how she keeps in touch with her former co-stars, including John Stamos and Bob Saget, and also how she handles the hectic life of motherhood. Bure comments on her parenting style and says her children consider her to be a “pretty cool” mom overall. Plus, she mentions what’s up next for her!

CBS: You also recently attended the 30th anniversary of the Starlight Foundation with Bob Saget and John Stamos. What was it like to reunite with your former Full House co-stars? Do you stay in touch regularly?

CB: We all see each other on a pretty regular basis, so it’s never as much as a reunion for us as it is for the fans. Just days after the Starlight event, we were all at Dave Coulier’s house celebrating his birthday. The jokes are endless and so are my tears from laughing so hard. I think it’s heartwarming for fans to know our love for each other is real among us. I’m always posting our pics together on Instagram and Twitter!

CBS: What are your three kids up to nowadays? Are you a typical soccer or hockey mom, driving them everywhere? Does your oldest have her driver's permit now? How are you handling that?

CB: Maks is 11, and Lev is 13, and both play travel hockey. We're at the rink six days a week and driving/flying anywhere between San Diego and San Jose on a regular basis for it. So yes, I'm a total hockey mom! Val coaches their teams, so he's very involved, and together, we accommodate and coordinate our work schedules with the kids. It's a balancing act for sure since Val and I travel a lot for work. Natasha plays Varsity tennis for her high school. You could say our family is all about sports.

Natasha turned 15 this summer, so she won't get her permit until early 2014. We've practiced a few times in the car, but we're taking it slowly! At least I am. She can't wait to get her permit, and when she does, I'll be happy to practice more with her. But let's just say, she won't have her own car waiting for her to drive when she's 16!

CBS: If we asked your children what kind of mom you are, what would they tell us? What is your parenting style?

CB: So I just asked my daughter and here's what she said: "You're an encourager, always telling us positive things and motivating us. But you don't hover. You teach us how to do things, and then you let us do it on our own. You're very involved in our lives, but you're not overprotective or making sure we never fail at things. You let us fail and make mistakes. Then, you teach us how to do it better or differently next time. I'd say, you're strict but more that you give us boundaries. Boundaries that are good for us and consequences when we don't stay within them."

CBS: Wow – that is a total compliment coming from a 15 year old!

What are some advantages to moving slowly at the beginning of a relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

When you move too fast in a relationship, you miss a lot of key things that couples should go through together. Wondering what some of the advantages are to moving slowly? Cupid has your back:

1. You get to know each other better: Jumping into a relationship means you're just taking the person as your partner without fully knowing who they are. When you go slowly, you get a better understanding of who this person is.

2. You learn what their intentions are: Going too fast leads to getting too intimate too quickly. You won't get to know more of what their true intentions with you are. Moving a bit slower means you get a better chance of insuring a permanent relationship.

3. You get those cute, romantic moments together: When you move slowly, you guys can share those sweet moments and memories together. The quirky, fun, exciting times are what makes lasting impressions which leads to a stronger relationship.

How do you prepare for baby #2 differently than #1?

Cupid's Advice:

You might think you're a professional after having Baby #1, but there's some more tricks you have to learn before you know everything! Are you expecting to share your world with another bundle of joy? Cupid has some advice:

1. Get more stuff: It might seem like you have everything because of your first baby, but you don't. You could always use new and more stuff – especially if your babies are close in age. Reusing clothes is okay, but things such as car seats only last six years, so you might want to upgrade.

2. Make sure Baby #1 knows what's going on: Even if your first child is at the stage of not talking, they still need to be explained to what is going on. When you get Baby #1 on board, they'll be wary at first. You must prepare them for the changes that are about to ensue, but also make them feel secure and safe.

3. Share some loving with your man: Once Baby #2 comes you're both about to be SUPER busy. Take this time to have some date nights and use as much alone time as you can get! So hire that babysitter and make a reservation because now's the time for some romance!

How do you know when to go public with your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

It's easy to get caught up in the excitement of a new love, but if you rush into something serious before you're ready, you may never reach your full potential as a couple. Keep the three points below in mind before taking your relationship public:

1. It's more than a fling: You don't need to decide if your partner is soul mate material or not, but it's important that you feel confident that it's a long-term relationship. You don't want to introduce your friends and family to someone who's not going to be around by Thanksgiving.

2. You want to share your love: Consider why you want to go public with your relationship. If it's because you want your loved ones to know how happy and fulfilled you are because of your significant other, it's time to introduce them. If it's because you feel pressure to be dating someone or you want to get revenge on an ex, you should rethink your motives – and your relationship.

3. You've talked to your partner: Before you shout your feelings from the rooftops, be sure that you and your beau are on the same page. He may not be ready to be exclusive or meet your parents, and it's important that you respect him. Taking a big step in your relationship is much more fun if you do it as a team.

Michael Morris Steps Out with Wife Post-Katharine McPhee Scandal

By Whitney Johnson

It looks like yet another cheating scandal has rocked Hollywood. Last week, married actress Katharine McPhee was spotted kissing her Smash director Michael Morris, also hitched. This past weekend, Us Weekly revealed that Morris was spotted with his wife, In Plain Sight actress Mary McCormack, who allegedly kicked him out of the house they share with their three children. Sources say that the American Idol runner-up has been separated from her husband, Nick Cokas, for several months, but she's still incredibly embarrassed by the situation.

What do you do if you find out your partner has been cheating?

Cupid's Advice:

It's easy to say what you would do if your partner ever cheated, but the reality of the situation is completely different than that "what if" scenario. Before you make any rash decisions or say and do something you may later regret, consider the tips below:

1. Take a breather: It's natural to need a bit of space after finding out such life-altering news. Step back from your relationship and use this alone time to think about how you feel about your relationship, your partner, and, most importantly, your future.

2. Seek outside help: Whether it's a close friend or a therapist, talking to an outsider about your partner's cheating will help you gain some much-needed perspective. It'll allow you to look at the big picture and really consider the questions needed to determine if you want to work through this rough patch with your significant other or if you're ready to call it quits.

3. Follow your heart: Finally, no matter what anyone says, listen to yourself. Deep down, you know whether or not you can truly forgive your beau and move forward in spite of the transgression. Just remember that if you can't see past this mistake, you'll never be happy together.

'Sons of Anarchy' Star Maggie Siff is Expecting First Child

By April Littleton

According to People, The Sons of Anarchy star Maggie Siff is expecting her first child with her husband. In an interview with musician Dave Navarro, Siff explained how she often finds it challenging to balance her career and personal life, especially when she turned down a job to go on her honeymoon. “It took a lot of strength – even though it was something I was really interested in – to say, ‘You know what, I’m going to get married and I’m going to have a honeymoon,’ and absolutely carve that out in stone,” she said. News of her pregnancy first appeared in Playbill.

How do you prepare your relationship for your first child?

Cupid’s Advice:

Starting a family with the person you love is exciting and scary at the same time. You’re not sure how your relationship with your partner will change and you’re nervous about the responsibility of raising a newborn all on your own. Don’t worry, Cupid is here to help:

1. Read books: One of the best things you and your partner can do is learn about your pregnancy before the baby is born. Buy some parenthood books, so you can get familiar with your new body and the changes you're bound to go through. Any questions you or your significant other may have should be answered with the knowledge you learn from the books.

2. Stay connected: Bringing a baby into the world is life-changing. Make sure you and your honey maintain a strong line of communication throughout your pregnancy. The time you two spend together will be limited once your child is born, so make sure you make these last couple of months together count. Make Fridays your date night, stay at home and watch movies together at least one day out of the week – do whatever the two of you will enjoy doing as long as you're doing it as a unit.

3. Start shopping: Once you're further along in your pregnancy, you and your partner should think about setting up the baby room together. This could be a fun project the two of you do together and you'll both be adding in different ideas on what you think the baby would like.

By April Littleton

The way UsMagazine.com sees it, Kanye West wants an over-the-top wedding. During an interview with Big Boy Neighborhood, he hinted that there would be some big surprises when he marries Kim Kardashian. “Two words,” he said. “Fighter jets.”

What are some ways to make your wedding unique?

Cupid’s Advice:

There are a lot of common beliefs about what a wedding should be like, but consider adding some personal flair to your big day! Cupid has some advice:

1. The invitations: Go the extra mile and personalize your wedding invitations. Make them by hand or simply add something that your guests would associate you with. You could even decorate the invitations based on the theme of your wedding. If you’re holding the ceremony on the beach, why not add a drawing of a palm tree? Be as creative as you want. After all, this is your special day.

2. The food: Chicken or fish? That’s usually the only two options guests get at a wedding reception. You and your partner can get really creative with the wedding menu. What are some of your favorite foods? What about your guests'? You can include some of the meals you'd like along with some of the suggestions your family and friends have.

3. The ceremony: The venue you choose to have your ceremony and reception at should be at a place that defines who you are and what your relationship is about. When your guests arrive to your wedding, they shouldn't be wondering why you would choose the place you did. Were you raised on a farm? Why not have your wedding there? The location possibilities are endless.

How do you know whether to get back together with an ex?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes a long lost love can be become your one and only. Let Cupid help you decide if you should get back together with your ex:

1. You've grown: The only way that a failed relationship can be renewed is if one or both parties have had significant growth since the end of the union. If something went wrong the first time then it will likely go wrong again if neither party has changed.

2. You miss them: If you find that both of you miss being together then that may be a sign to give it another go. However, you should proceed with caution because you can never love someone as much as you can miss him or her. Keep in mind that when you miss him or her you may be remembering the good times far more clearly than the bad times.

3. Open connections: The only way to renew a failed relationship is to sit down and talk about what didn't work during your first breakup. If you two can make it through this conversation with a big blow up then all will be well.

Rumor Alert: Are Kris Jenner and 'The Bachelor' Ben Flajnik Dating?

By April Littleton

Since Kris Jenner's celebrity divorce from Bruce Jenner, there's a celebrity dating rumor that she is now dating a former reality star of The Bachelor, Ben Flajnik. However, Flajnik spoke to People to get the record straight. "Kris is a very, very dear friend of mine," said Flajnik, who lunched with Jenner at Barney's in Beverly Hills on Friday. "We are not dating, we're just working on a couple of projects together, so that's why we've been seen out a lot as of late," he said.

This celebrity dating rumor spread like wildfire. What are some ways to keep rumors from affecting your relationship and love life?

Cupid's Advice:

Rumors can be the demise of a relationship and love if the things being said aren't addressed right away. It's up to you and your partner to have a clear line of communication and to let the truth be known when it's necessary. Cupid has some advice:

1. Talk about it: Don't let untrue information get the best of your relationship and love life. If you're unsure about something you've been hearing regarding your significant other, ask them about it. Sometimes, choosing to ignore a situation will only make matters worse. Make sure you continue to communicate with your partner in order to avoid any surprises when it comes to neighborhood gossip and news.

2. Dispel it: Whenever you hear a rumor going on about you and your honey, take initiative by making sure you set the record straight. If any of your loved ones ask you about something that happens to be misinterpreted or downright false, let them know the truth right away.

3. Don't think about it: No matter what you do, people are always going to talk about situations that have nothing to do with them – it's part of life. Rather than get yourself and your partner all worked up over nothing, simply choose to worry about things that really matter. Addressing rumors only adds fuel to the fire. If you brush off the problem, people will do the same and turn their attention to something else.

Olivia Wilde and Jason Sudeikis Are Expecting a Baby!

By April Littleton

Reps for both Olivia Wilde, 29, and Jason Sudeikis, 38, confirm to People that the happy couple are expecting their first child together. “They are incredibly happy. They’re very excited to welcome a new member into their family,” said a source who is close to the lovebirds. The two met in 2011 during the Saturday Night Live finale and began dating six months later. They got engaged in January.

How do you decide the right time to have a child with your partner?

Cupid’s Advice:

Starting a family is an exciting time for a couple in love. Trying for a baby has its own set of challenges, but the outcome is worth it. Before you bring home a little bundle of joy, there are a few things you should think about first. Cupid has some tips:

1. Communication: You won’t know if you’re ready to have a baby with your significant other if you don’t ask. Sit your partner down and have a long discussion about your future together. What you’re ready for might not be the case for your honey. You can't create a child by yourself, so make sure you and your companion are on the same page before you start loading up on baby clothes.

2. Finances: One of the worst mistakes a person can make is bringing a child into this world when they're not financially ready to care for one. It wouldn't be wise to start a family when you and your partner are living paycheck to paycheck. Babies need more than just your love. Children need food, clothing, shelter, regular visits to the doctor, etc. Keep that in mind the next time you catch yourself having baby fever.

3. Stable relationship: A baby won't help save an already failing relationship. Make sure the commitment you have with your significant other is strong and long-lasting before you decide to add to your family. If you and your honey are headed toward a split, work on the issues at hand before you choose to make any life-changing decision, like having a baby.

What are some ways to keep gossip from affecting your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Unfortunately, some people love to hate on others. You have to always go on with a strong sense of positivity, but it can be hard. The biggest thing you want to do is make sure that the gossip stays away from your relationship. Cupid has some advice on how to hush up the haters:

1. Keep your head up: Don't let people bring down your success. If you are both happy, you know you're doing something right. If your relationship is thriving and is exactly what you want, so don't let anyone try to knock you down.

2. Remain strong together: You and your boo can silence the gossip by not letting it bother you. People might have bad things to say, but it is none of their business – and definitely not their relationship! Ignore those who bring you negative energy or who want to see you fail.

Gilles Marini Says He's
"Blessed to Have the Chance to Be a Father – It's Magical"

By Kristin Mattern

French-born actor Gilles Marini has made a lasting impression on American fans. He's memorable for his beloved turn as Dante in Sex and the City: The Movie, his recurring roles on shows like Brothers & Sisters, Ugly Betty, and Nip Tuck, and his stellar appearances on the 8th and 15th seasons of Dancing with the Stars. As evidenced by his diverse resume, his brave and beautiful man seems daunted by nothing. Who can forget his full frontal nude scene as Dante? The former model is currently gracing the small screen as Angelo Sorrento on Switched at Birth, where he tackles the challenging role of an estranged father who has reentered his daughter's life – a role that's close to this family man's heart.

On ABC Family's hit show, Marini plays the biological dad of Bay Kennish, who comes back into her life after abandoning his wife Regina when he thought she had cheated on him. A father himself, the star says that being a parent doesn't affect how he plays the character: "I am the polar opposite of Angelo when it comes to being a father. I think he just landed on this planet and became one sixteen years too late. It's understandable to see why he is the way he is, based on his past and he's childhood, but that also makes him human and interesting."

Marini and wife Carole, who married in 1988, have a son Georges and a daughter Julianna. It's easy to see that the actor knows what he's talking about when it comes to parenting, so one can only hope that a little bit of the father in him will rub off on his wayward character. "There are so many things I could say about how amazing it is to be a father, but the truth is there are no words in the dictionary to explain it to anyone. Maybe I could say that it is the single most important role a man could ever have," he aptly shares. "It shows your real colors and what you are made of. I am blessed to have the chance to be a father and have the great responsibility to raise respectful, kind-hearted, passionate, strong, and dedicated souls. It's magical."

Passionate about his family life, Marini is currently building a retreat in the California woods as a private getaway for them to enjoy. "We bought a new hideaway paradise, a cabin in the woods. We are in the process of completing the little things that need to be fixed, and then, we'll have our safe haven to go to when we need some time off. It's only 90 minutes from our house in L.A., so it is very easy to get to quickly."

Given his busy schedule, it's no surprise that the star hasn't had time to watch the current season of Dancing With the Stars, although he does have fond memories of his time on the show. On season 8, he danced with long-time pro Cheryl Burke and finished as the runner-up. He came back again for season 15 to try to win the mirrorball trophy with season 14 winner, Peta Murgatroyd, and the couple were the eighth eliminated from the show. "Cheryl and Peta are great girls, and I hope that they will go all the way! They will always have a special place in my heart.'

Currently, Marini is working on a project that has a particularly special meaning for him: He has become part of the Ford Warriors in Pink cause to raise awareness for breast cancer. He's been personally touched by breast cancer, as he had to watch his sister-in-law battle the disease. At a young age, he lost his father to cancer as well. The star is very hopeful about finding a cure: "The ultimate goal is to one day explain to my grandkids that there used to be a disease called breast cancer. I am thrilled to be part of Ford's Warriors in Pink – a very nice group of dedicated people who are truly making a difference."

As part of the campaign, he and his wife designed a unisex t-shirt to aid funding for the cause. "I wanted to create something meaningful and important and something that both men and women would enjoy wearing." Well, mission accomplished! "I am wearing it as we speak," he says wryly. The shirt is a V-neck in a beautiful deep heather gray that displays the words "Unis Par L'Amour," French for "United with Love." Let's hope along that, with the support of people like Marini, we can find a cure for this disease, and it will one day be a thing of the past.

Be sure to check out the t-shirt Marini made for Ford Warriors in Pink on www.warriorsinpink.ford.com/men-s/united-with-love-t-shirt.html! To watch him in his memorable role as Angelo Sorrento, catch full episodes of 'Switched at Birth' on ABC's website and wait for the series to return in January 2014. According to UsMagazine.com, Chris Evans and Minka Kelly called it quits last week. An insider reveals that distance was a huge factor in the split, and even though this is their second break up, they haven't left on bad terms. The source revealed the two, "still care about each other."

How do you remain civil with an ex after a breakup?

Cupid's Advice:

When you end on good terms, you're freeing yourself from all bad vibes that come with the end of a relationship. Remaining civil is not only a great way to “save face,” but it’s also liberating for you internally. Cupid has some advice to how to keep things civil with your ex:

1. Look at yourself: There are amazing qualities about you that you could be sharing with someone who you really want to spend time with. There are better things in your life than hoisting negativity towards your ex. Remember the type of person that you are, and it’ll be easier to keep things in perspective.

2. Don’t hold a grudge: Getting rid of hard feelings from your ex will not only it’ll take a huge weight off your shoulders, but it’ll make you feel better too. There’s no reason to keep bad thoughts of your ex on your mind, it will only cause you stress and make things harder on yourself. Don’t let old feelings bother you.

3. Move on with your life: There’s a great future ahead of you. Think of that, and from there you’ll only see positivity – not only in this situation, but also in all aspects of your life. Always keep your life in perspective: take a look at your goals, see what you weren’t getting from your ex, and don’t hold it against them for it. You’re in control of your life and now is the time to see what you want and make it happen.

Angela Raiola, otherwise known as “Big Ang” from the popular reality television series Mob Wives, had an official launch party for her new product, BigAngWines on October 24th at Tello’s NYC. Attendees were invited to taste samples from her collection, check out the elegant wine bottle design, and enjoy a customized cake made to replicate the bottle design itself!

When asked what inspired her to create her own variety of wine, the VH1 star said, “I do own two bars; my family was in the bar business; and my mother and father were bartenders too. I just thought, ‘Bars, bartenders, wine – it all went together.’”

Between launching her new product and shooting for her new reality series Miami Monkey, this lady is pretty busy. So we wanted to know how she finds time to balance her work and her relationship while keeping things so young and fresh. “It’s hard. As you know, I have a husband, and he just comes along with whatever we do. He’s there for me. I also have a family who stands behind me, and someone needs to make the money! It’s all about the money,” the star says with laughter. “I’m not home much, but it works! The less you’re with the husband or wife, the better. When you’re with each other constantly, you get under each other’s skin.”
