But, there are positives to working with them, and it can also be a great thing for your relationship. Here's some love advice from Cupid about the pros of working with your partner:

1. Increased sense of intimacy: Couples that work together or share experiences are more likely to have a stronger connection than those that don't. If you're both working in the same environment or company, there is even more of a sense of intimacy involved because you can talk openly about your work lives in a way that your partner will understand it. There's something about shared stresses that can be very therapeutic once you get home from a long day at the office.

How do they talk about you? How do they discuss your relationship? If friends, coworkers, and family alike speak up about how highly they praise you outside of being together, it's a sign that they're in the relationship for the right reasons. Your spouse should be one of your favorite people, so make sure they're just as great without you as they are with you before saying "I do."

According to UsMagazine.com, Dewan's celebrity ex was crying while she was giving birth to their daughter. The Magic Mike star told the magazine, "I probably went to the bathroom four times [at the hospital] and had a crying fit. Like, I'm just like, 'I don't know what to do!'" Tatum later added that "seeing the one you love in pain makes you feel bad, Men are useless, but we are really useless during [the delivery process]."

In celebrity baby news, Jenna Dewan is preparing to welcome her second child – her first with Steve Kaze. What are some ways to prepare for the birth of your second child?

Cupid's Advice:

Welcoming a little one into the world can be very time consuming and stressful if you aren't prepared. Having your second child should be easier, right? Not exactly! Sometimes it can be easier if you have the same gender as you did previously, especially if you have a lot of baby clothes and bottles left over. Babies have a mind of their own just like humans. They can't directly tell you how they're feeling, but you'll catch their drift once they start crying. The second can be tricky and different for everyone. Cupid has some tips and tricks to help you through this journey:

1. Don't assume this will be easy: Every child and pregnancy is different. Try to keep an open mind, especially with the second child. Even though this is the second child, there's still a lot to learn about being a parent. Also, if you aren't the one having the child, be there for your partner.

2. Don't compare the two children: When the baby is born, it's okay to assume who they look like and whose personality they might have. It is important that you try to not compare your children in the beginning stages of life. Yes, they might do some of the same things that older brother or sister do/did, but it's not a good habit to keep comparing the two. You want your baby to be their own person and not a younger version of your first child.

But, traveling with your partner can actually strengthen your relationship as well. If you're already packing your bags or are thinking about going off in the future with your significant other, Cupid has some relationship advice on how traveling can bring you that much closer:

1. Seeing the best and worst of your partner: Few things can quickly bring out the highs and lows in another person than traveling does. It's automatically a stressful situation if you're traveling somewhere where there's language and cultural barriers. But, it can also be the best experience when you see your partner at the height of their excitement. You're both being able to take part in something that neither of you has done before. Traveling usually shows every side of your partner, and if you can handle those highs and lows, it can create an unbreakable bond between the two of you.

2. More time to talk: It's obvious that when you're traveling there is a lot more time to talk than any other time in your relationship. You're constantly driving, flying, or waiting around. And, if you're traveling as a couple, you are the only two people you're constantly talking to. Cupid’s Advice:

There are some things celebrities do that aren't so much different than us. Fame doesn't always have its perks, especially when it comes to introducing your children to your newest love interest. It's something that a lot of couples worry about, as things get complicated when kids are involved. If you're stressing over having the talk with your little ones about or introducing them to your new partner, don't worry! Cupid has some parenting advice that'll help you navigate the trickiness of moving on with someone new when you're a parent:

1. Don't have your children meet every person you date:

Children rely on you for their security and stability. They tend to thrive in environments that can be built on trust and vulnerability. Having partners come in and out of your life is something that hurts a child's ability to find genuine investment within your relationships. Everyone wants to jump into inviting the date over to 'get to know' their kids, but unless it is someone you've been with that you trust being in your life for a long time, it might not be the greatest idea to have kids form a bond with them.

2. Keep the first meeting short and sweet: Going somewhere that is public is a great way to introduce your kids to your partner. Perhaps, ask them where they would like to go. Celebrity Parenting: Victoria Beckham Shares How Motherhood Affected Her Body Image

By Ahjané Forbes

In celebrity news, “I accept who I am,” said former Spice Girl, Victoria Beckham, as she opened up to Glamour UK about being a mom and her body image. The celebrity parent has revealed that she has struggled with body image in the past. After having a baby, your body will change, but it’s up to you to have a positive outlook on it. The model explains that your children will notice you not taking care of yourself or having a body positivity issue. Beckham says that teaching your children how to love themselves will help you love yourself more. She commented on her body now saying, “I make the best of who I am!”

Even in celebrity parenting, there are insecurities. What are some ways to combat body image insecurities after having a child?

Cupid's Advice:

Body image insecurities have become the new normal. Certain body types are viewed as “most acceptable” or “most appealing”. However, body types that are outside that realm are considered “unacceptable” and “unattractive”. Cupid has some advice about staying positive after having a child:

1. Be YOU!: You're still that same person you are before you had a child. It's important to keep a positive mindset. Our bodies go through changes over time, so don't start saying things like, “I looked like this at one point” or “I was this size”. Don't put yourself in a category; love who you are.

2. Try something new: Doing a new activity or meeting new people can switch your mindset from a dull one. Join an exercise class with other moms, and start from there. Surrounding yourself with women who are going through the same thing as you are will lead to you empowering each other.

3. Go shopping: Yes, your body has changed, but that does not mean you have to stop looking gorgeous. You might need to change your size, your store, or your taste. Start simple by buying a top, a new pair of denim jeans or even a mini dress. Put that outfit on and walk your baby through the mall with confidence. You'll be surprised by how many compliments you'll get. You might even inspire another mom to be just like you!

I've just been very lucky to have met so many great people through The Bachelor!"

In celebrity news, Kirpa Sudick is not dating Cam Ayala after all. What are some ways to tastefully let people know you are not dating someone?

Just like celebrities, sometimes we can post something on our social media that tend to look different than how we intended. But unlike them, we can't go to a news source and dismiss these relationship rumors. Instead, we have to think up ways to tastefully let others know we're not dating someone without looking too defensive. If you're in this predicament, and you don't know how to go about squashing dating rumors, don't worry! Cupid has you covered with our love advice on how to nicely let others know you're not dating this person:

1. Be playful: Sometimes, having fun with the situation can be a good way to let others know it doesn't bother you before you let them know you guys aren't dating. If both you and the other person are game, it can be funny to be playful and pretend like you are dating. Be over-dramatic with the idea, posting mushy comments, creating your own 'ship' name, taking ridiculous photos together, etc. By doing this before coming clean that you both aren't dating, it can let people know that none of it bothered you, and it wasn't a big deal!

2. Be kind: This might seem like an obvious answer, but there are ways you can dismiss dating rumors that are much harsher than you meant them to be. Try and be as kind as possible when letting others know you aren't dating someone. Saying something rude or condescending can make you look bad when someone was just curious about the situation. So, try and be as polite and friendly as you can when letting others know so you don't look like a ticking timebomb anytime something false is said about you!

3. Be direct: Perhaps, the best way to be tasteful is to just be honest about it. Being direct doesn't have to be harsh, and it can stop speculation quickly. Simply explain away the idea that you and the person are dating and then say nothing else on the matter. By facing the situation head-on and refusing to talk about it further, it can be an easy and effective way of stopping the rumors from circulating.

Celebrity News: Laura Dern Speaks Out About Bradley

Cooper Dating Rumors

By Hope Ankney

In the latest celebrity news, Laura Dern dismissed all dating rumors between herself and Bradley Cooper. According to UsMagazine.com, the actress opened up about her close relationship with Cooper, stating, "We are amazing friends, and we're family." This set of rumors circulated soon after Cooper's celebrity relationship with supermodel Irina Shayk ended back in June.

In celebrity news, this pair are just good friends. What are some ways to lay false relationship rumors to rest?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes, it can be frustrating for two people to be friendly towards one another without others thinking something romantic is going on behind the scenes. Platonic relationships, especially between the opposite sex, have a connotation that there must be underlying feelings there when that isn't always the case. Two people enjoying each other's company is fairly common. Friendship exists. If you're stuck in a situation where others are trying to make something out of nothing, don't worry! Cupid has some love advice on how to lay pesky relationship rumors to rest:

1. Direct conversation: Sometimes communication can be the biggest key when dismissing relationship rumors with your friends. They might just be teasing you about it for fun, without realizing it can actually bother you. If you haven't been abundantly clear about this newfound friendship, sit these friends down and have a direct conversation about it. Opening up about how you aren't dating this specific person and explaining why these false rumors have been bothering you may allow them to realize that you're telling the truth and not assume anything else about the relationship or even relationships in the future!

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Up: Bradley Cooper Enjoys a Boys' Night in L.A. After Irina Shayk Split

2. Ignore it: Perhaps, people are only speculating about you and this other person because they know it gets a rise out of you. If these rumors don't overly upset you, find it in you to simply ignore what others are saying. Like is told to us from a young age, ignoring someone's teasing can often lead to the teasing to stop, altogether. This can be used in your adult life, as well. If you pretend like these false rumors don't bother you, the situation will probably diffuse itself.

3. Be open publicly: If all else fails, maybe it's time to take to social media! Making a post about false relationship rumors can be overkill, but if nothing else has worked to stop it, it can be an effective way to get others to stop speculating. Make a status update, tweet, or even post a photo of the both of you explaining away the rumors. Speaking out publicly about the situation can immediately dismiss it if you're taking that much time and effort to set the record straight on your social media platform!

The celebrity couple have been together for eight years and share a son, Angelo, together. The two plan to go their separate ways, but will raise their son in a loving environment. The songwriter has not spoken out publicly, but continues to send positive vibes on social media. According to EOnline.com, Adele posted on Instagram back in May about her willingness to make this a better year, saying, “30 tried my so hard but I’m owning it and trying my hardest to lean in to it all.”

In celebrity divorce news, Adele has officially filed for divorce from her husband Simon. What are some ways to announce your divorce to family and friends?

Cupid's Advice:

Telling someone that you and your ex lover have decided to split is not the easiest tasks especially when there is family involved. Some couples live separate lives, but stay together in order to please their family members. This is not the best idea especially when you are not happy being with this person. Cupid has some relationship advice when it comes to telling your family and friends about your divorce:

1. Don't break the news at a family event: This can become awkward very quickly. You don't want to ruin a fun filled event with some bad news. Avoid making any "grand entrance" with news about a separation. You don't want to be put on the spot to answer private questions about your relationship.

Related Link: Halle Berry Walks First Red Carpet Since Celebrity Divorce Announcement

2. Try not to play the blame game: Pointing fingers at why the relationship ended is the easiest way for many to avoid talking about what really happened. Even if it is the other person's fault try not to be petty about what happened. Accepting what when wrong is the first part of the healing process. Learn how to tell the story in a positive light. Use words like "this was the best decision for us" or "we've come to a mutual agreement". Not only is this mature, but this language will be best for telling important people like your children.

3. Let everyone know that you are still processing this: Whether you called it quits or your partner its important that you take the time to process it all. You might be wondering what went wrong or how you will get over this person. The warning signals could have been there, but you didn't know it would go downhill so fast. Take your time and needed space to reflect.

In celebrity news, Demi Moore opened up about a miscarriage she suffered with Ashton Kutcher in her memoir. What are some ways to support your partner who has gone through a miscarriage?

Cupid's Advice:

Seeing the “positive” come up on a pregnancy test for many women can be very exciting. Welcoming a bundle of joy to the family can be the happiest time in a woman's life. However, some pregnancies result in a miscarriage and can leave a heavy impact behind. It's not easy to uplift a person who has just encountered something traumatic. Cupid has some advice that will help you and your partner get through this difficult time:

1. Don't expect them to tell you how they are feeling right away: Everyone has a different way of processing hurtful situations. It's important that you keep an open heart and be mindful of the situation. Avoid saying insensitive things like, “You can have another one”. Not everyone is able to conceive right away or it might be hard for them to do so. Be there for them and offer any help they will allow.

Related Link: Relationship Advice: Talking Through the Tough Times

2. Offer to attend therapy sessions with them: Therapy can help bring ease to the situation if your partner is willing. The therapist will be able to discuss the “root” of the problem and give you ways to make appropriate approaches to help with conversations at home. This also may take several sessions for them to be comfortable about telling you how they really feel. Don't force or rush them to talk.

3. Find ways to take their mind off of the situation: A good distraction is always a way to alleviate the mind. Start a new hobby with your lover. Take them to a cooking class or Yoga.

Doing something relaxing will help them release all their stress and breathe in positive vibrations.

Her friends were her first taste-testers and the first people who wanted to buy her product.

The LÄRABAR_ launched in 2003. Although it was never the plan to name the bar after herself, she decided to do so at the last minuter after much encouragement from her friends.

Merriken made the bars gluten free and used minimal, pure ingredients. They contain no added sugar. The sweetness strictly comes from the fruits that are in them. The LÄRABAR is meant to energize you in the most natural way possible. “When you eat food that tastes good, feels good, and sustains you, it just makes life better all the way around,” she says.

Cupid's Advice:

Miley Cyrus and Kaitlynn Carter looked super cute in their matching black outfits. However, it's easy to go from cute to corny when it comes to matching outfits. Luckily, Cupid has some advice that will help you and your significant other look coordinated and cute instead of tacky:

1. Wear dark colors: Just like Cyrus and Carter, stick to dark colors for a classy matching ensemble. You want to highlight that you're matching with your partner while also making it look natural. Bright colors will distract from the coordination and look as though it's forced.

1. Communication starts to change: We all go through that honeymoon phase of our relationships, and then we start to get comfortable with each other.
