

Celebrity Couple: Anna Paquin and Stephen Moyer Show Off Twin Son and Daughter During Family Outing

By Meghan Fitzgerald

Over this past weekend, the beautiful and blonde Anna Paquin stepped out with her and husbands' precious twins. According to UsMagazine.com, Paquin was seen cradling one of her six-month year old babies while shopping at a toy story in Venice, California. Her other child was nestling into a stroller. The Examiner reports that celebrity couple, Paquin and Stephen Moyer have kept the name of their children secret since their birth. However, the True Blood costars are ecstatic about their precious babies!

What are some reasons for keeping the name of your baby a secret?

Cupid's Advice:

Not only is having a baby stressful but naming your child is stressful too! Who would think that naming your baby would be so challenging? Well it is ladies and gentlemen. You and your partner have to decide what your child will be named for the rest of their lives. C'mon, that is a lot put on your shoulders. You also have the option of keeping your babies name a secret. Cupid has some advice on that:

1. All names have baggage: Say you want to name your daughter Jill and tell your mother, your mother then continues to tell you a horrific story of someone she knows named Jill. This continues on and on with all of your friends and family. Everyone you know has an absurd story of the name you wish to name your child. This being said, it is a great idea to keep your babies name a secret. You won't have to hear all the terrifying stories and have to constantly think of new names. If you and your mate love a name, keep it tucked close.

2. Secrets are exciting: Who doesn't enjoy a secret every once in a while? Especially a secret so large! This secret will give you and your beau more bonding, you will be the only ones who know your child's name. It may sound cheesy however, you two will connect more. Also, your family and friends will be more surprised when they eventually find out the name of your baby. A plus for all!

3. Change of mind: Mentioned before, it is hard to decide on a name for your child. With this in mind, you and your partner may change your child's name. It will be frustrating to you both by telling all your friends and family of the new name for your baby. Typically, you want to avoid this in general.

It is human to change your mind, so don't worry about that. To make things easier, keep your babies name a secret.

Celebrity Britney Spears says: I'm 'So Excited and Happy' for Jamie Lynn Spear's Engagement

By Meghan Fitzgerald

According to People, Britney Spears went straight to Twitter on Monday morning to congratulate her sister Jamie Lynn Spears on her recent engagement. It seems little Spears is moving on her way in the world! Huffington Post announced that Britney, 31, said, "So excited and happy for my sister, congrats @jamielynnspears – love you." Even though Spears recently went through a breakup from her fiancé, Jason Trawick, she is still able to be happy for her sister. Good for you, Jamie Lynn and Jamie Watson!

How do you know when it's the right time to get engaged?

Cupid's Advice:

Knowing when it is the right time to get engaged is more than confusing. Not only is it confusing however, it is challenging to determine. Some people say 'when you know, you know' yet, this is not always the case. You may know, but not entirely know. It really is simply a enormous, confusing process. Cupid has some advice for this:

1. Trust: Do you trust your mate with your entire life? Can you tell your partner anything, no matter how they will react or what the circumstance is? If you answer these first two questions with a 'no', you may want to reconsider getting engaged right time. You know it is the right time to get engaged when your mate knows every little aspect of your life. What your favorite pizza topping is, how many people you have dated, your deepest darkest secrets, the entirety of your life.

2. Love: Love is all you need ladies and gentlemen. Of course there are a few exceptions where the love is not reciprocated and an engagement may not work out. However, in most cases, if love is evident, go out and buy that ring darling! The type of love present needs to be specified in the books. This is not some silly-little puppy love we are talking about, the love present needs to be full blown true love. If you have that, go for gold! Literally!

3. Happiness: Does your beau make you happier than you've ever been in your entire life? Do you make your partner happier too? Is the happiness between the two of you equal? Hopefully if you're considering engagement, these answers are a 'yes.' If you can not see a life without your mate because you will be miserable, you know. You know you're ready when your sad when your partner leaves for the bathroom.

What are some ways to honor your child?

Cupid's Advice:

Honoring your child is a important part of their childhood, and a necessary part of your responsibilities as a parent. It is essential that your child is honored, whether it be once a month, once every two weeks, or twice a week. It is pertinent that you honor your child! Cupid has some advice on how to do this:

1. Undivided attention: Put down your cell phone, turn it off, and put it away. Ignore your email, phone calls, and what not. It does not have to be for an entire day, but your child deserves some undivided attention. Depending on their age, play blocks with them, read them a book, ask them how their day was, tell them a story, be with them and them only. Your child will be ecstatic that you spent time with them and didn't do anything else. It shows them how much you love them, which is more than important.

2. Reward: Rewarding your child is not only exciting to them but exciting to you. If your child is receiving a reward, they did something special or grand. Your child will know that you are acknowledging their hard work. They will also be casually conditioned to receive praise when they do something good. This will make your child act better! Who doesn't want that?! The one thing here is to limit the amount of reward given. It is not a reward if you give out all the time.

3. Express love: Love makes the world go round, especially with children. Children want to feel comfortable and safe, mostly with their family and people closest around. Telling your child how much you love them, and how great they are is a treat for them. Kids love to be loved, it as simple as that. So you and your partner better be shedding out some love if you aren't already!

By Andrea Surujnauth

How can you develop a friendship with your ex?

Cupid's Advice:

Before becoming friends with your ex-partner, it's important to take some time to be apart and truly let go of your past love. As impossible as it may seem to be friends, know that it can be done. Here are some tips from Cupid to help you develop a friendship with your ex.

1. Be sure: First, it's best to think about whether or not you're ready to be friends with your ex. Think about the reasons for your breakup. Was your ex the type of person to use you or hurt you? Also think about whether or not you still have feelings for your ex. Will having them in your life make it difficult for you to move on? You don't want your new friendship to be a toxic part of your life.

2. Be patient: If your ex is not completely over your breakup, they might not be ready to become friends. Respect their feelings, give them time and don't get frustrated. Continue to be nice to them and show them that you mean well.

3. Communicate: Don't expect that they will automatically be calling you and asking you to hang out every weekend. Do you really want to see them that often anyways? If you want to develop a friendship, then you should be the one to pick up the phone and set some plans.

Connie Britton: "Being a Single Mom Is Challenging”

By Andrea Surujnauth

Connie Britton recently chatted with More about the challenges of being a single mother. The Nashville star shared, “Being a single mom is challenging, but never in a million years would that have stopped me. You get an idea in your head and you’re going to do it.” She adopted her son, 2-year-old Yoby, from Ethiopia. She also talks about her busy lifestyle, which includes working and taking care of a toddler. “The schedule is insane to the point where I lose a lot of sleep at night worrying about how little time I have to sleep and mostly what little time I have to be with my son,” she said. But Britton doesn’t let lack her lack of sleep get her down. “People can tell you how hard marriage is or how hard it is to birth a baby, but we do these things. We want the journey of that.”

How can busy working moms still make time for themselves?

Cupid's Advice:

It's not easy to head off to work each morning and still keep the house clean, the refrigerator stocked and the dogs groomed. And with kids around, it's even more difficult to get everything done. Still, it's important to for busy moms to take some time for themselves. Here are a few ways that they can fit everything in during a hectic day.

1. Be organized: Set a strict schedule of your daily activities. This way, you can see what needs to be done and when you are free. During that unreserved time (or while the baby is napping), maybe you can take a bath or catch up on some reading, which can both be very difficult to do as a single mom.

2. Have quality mommy time: The key word here is "quality." Being a working mom, you may not be able to spend hours and hours with your kids, but make the most of the time you do have. Save any extra work or personal items for after your children are asleep.

Michael Sheen Wasn't Ready to Settle Down with Rachel McAdams

By Jessica Conigliaro

After spending the past two years together, Rachel McAdams and Michael Sheen have called it quits. The two actors simply want different things for their futures. According to People, McAdams is ready to settle down and have kids, but Sheen, already a father to a 14-year old daughter from his relationship with Kate Beckinsale, has no interest in having any more children. How can you compromise when you and your partner want different things for the future?

Cupid's Advice:

Ever since you were five years old, you pictured yourself living in a big yellow house with a black lab and three kids. However, you recently discovered that your partner is allergic to dogs and detests the color yellow. So what now? Cupid offers some advice on ways to compromise with your partner and keep your relationship going strong.

1. Decide what's most important: Before even discussing future plans and ambitions, figure out what you want without anyone else's input or opinion. If you decide marriage is most important for you, don't let anyone stop you from going down the aisle. Find someone that wants the same things as you do so you have no regrets.

2. Try new things: We all know that your man's interests may drastically differ from your own. If your boyfriend is set on getting a ferret for a pet, try not to disregard his wish completely. Look into his interests, especially the ones that he's most passionate about. He will certainly appreciate it and will (hopefully) return the gesture when the time comes.

3. Talk it through: If you and your significant other clearly want different things, deal with the issue right away. Your beau mentions that he wants to move back to the state his parents live in some day, and of course, you panic. Try explaining to him why you don't want to move to a place where you have no friends or family. It may lead to an argument, but it will help him understand your perspective.

Celebrity Couple: Tori

Spelling Slams Rumors That She Is Divorcing Dean McDermott

By Jessica Conigliaro

Tori Spelling reached her boiling point after Star Magazine claimed that she is divorcing her husband, Dean McDermott—a nasty rumor that upset her entire family. Her 5-year-old son Liam saw the headlines at the grocery store, prompting him to anxiously ask, “Why is someone getting us? Where are you and Dad going?” The Beverly Hills, 90210 star wrote an open letter in response to the lies about her marriage, Us Weekly reports. “This time I had to comment because this time I’m answering not as a celebrity but as a mom,” Spelling, 39, wrote in frustration.

What are some ways to protect your relationship from hurtful rumors?

Cupid's Advice:

When you start dating someone new, all of your friends seem to have a strong opinion. You share some details about the new man in your life to one or two of your closest friends, and soon enough, they're playing the telephone game and twisting the truth into lies. Cupid's here to offer some tips on how to deal with these rumors.

1. Ignore the smaller rumors: You tell your best friend that your date cracked a harmless joke at your expense the other night. Next thing you know, everyone thinks your new man said something that made you cry at dinner. First, be sure to tell him about the rumor so he doesn't hear it from someone else. Then, let it pass. You both know the truth, and that's all that matters.

2. Address the bothersome ones: When a rumor is floating around about your relationship that you simply can't ignore, say something and stick up for your love. Find out who said what, and confront them right away. Your friends should come to you first before saying anything negative about your dating situation. When that doesn't happen, it's your job to protect your relationship.

3. Poke fun: Sometimes, rumors are so untrue that they're actually funny. If your friends overhear you talking about jewelry with your boyfriend and assume you're getting engaged, mess around with them a little; have your boyfriend fake propose in front of all of them and reveal the joke once they all get emotional. That will teach them not to eavesdrop anymore!

Celebrity Mom: Holly Madison Discusses Baby Names – Right Before She Heads to the Hospital!

By Whitney Baker

Holly Madison first stole our hearts as Hugh Hefner's number one bunny on E!'s reality show Girls Next Door. Since the show ended in 2010, Madison has made quite a name for herself, appearing on the eighth season of Dancing with the Stars, headlining Peepshow at Planet Hollywood in Las Vegas and starring in her own television show, Holly's World. Of course, in recent months, her focus has shifted: in August 2012, she announced that she was expecting her first child with boyfriend Pasquale Rotella.

"I've finally met the man of my dreams and am ecstatic to be starting a family," Madison shared. "But I'm really grateful that I had several years of working hard as a single woman before diving into being a mom. I feel like I needed that for my identity."

The Playboy model and husband Rotella, a club promoter, have been prepping for their daughter's fast-approaching arrival, and the mom-to-be has been sharing her pregnancy experience with fans via her blog and Twitter. As open as she's been, there's one thing that the couple is keeping under wraps: the baby's unique name. "We have a pretty unusual name picked out. So unusual that we aren't telling anyone what it is until the deed is done!"

In the past few weeks, pregnancy has certainly slowed Madison down a bit. "I've started getting a little uncomfortable – it's hard to even reach my feet to tie my shoes!" she said. "I've kind of been in nesting and hibernating mode."

Still, she continues to make headlines. Just last week, Madison revealed that she plans to ingest her placenta after the birth of her little girl. When asked about her decision to do so, the reality star said, "A baby nurse I met with suggested I have my placenta made into pills because it can help prevent postpartum depression. I figured why not! It can't be bad for me."

As busy as they've been in anticipation of their baby's due date (tomorrow!), Madison and Rotella have still made time to focus on their relationship. "I feel like we're getting to know each other because we've only been together for a little over a year," the Vegas performer said. "We're learning so much about each other just from trying to agree on little things when it comes to renovating our new home, so I can only imagine what we will learn from raising our daughter."

Madison has already learned a thing or two from her pregnancy. "My only advice so far is to let yourself know that it's okay to not be quite as ambitious as you were before you were pregnant," she explained. "Creating a child is a huge responsibility, and you have to make time for that, maybe sacrifice some things that don't fit into your life anymore."

As for her relationship with Rotella, Madison thinks that communication is most important when it comes to keeping the romance alive. "Sometimes, other people don't understand how uncomfortable pregnancy can be, how occupied your mind can get and how you just don't feel sexy. You don't want your significant other to get the wrong idea and assume you aren't attracted to him anymore."

"Our relationship is great," she adds.

So great, in fact, that Madison has started to plan their wedding. "I'm trying to secure a really unique and special venue and choose a date. I'm hoping for some time in August."

As excited as she is to become both wife and a mom, there's one thing that Madison is still figuring out. How will she tell her baby about her life as a Playboy Playmate? "I'll be really honest with her and let her know that it wasn't all unicorns and rainbows like you see on television," she shared. "You kind of have to be damaged and have low self-esteem to put yourself in a situation like that."

So what's next for the soon-to-be mom? "Besides learning how to be a mom and getting back into shape, I would love to return to the stage – but in a musical this time. I've been concentrating on my singing lessons during my pregnancy." Given her impressive career, we're confident that Madison will excel at whatever she does next – especially when it comes to raising her little girl.

I’m going to save time, I’m going to get you a booklet of pictures of my friends and you just go through and pick them out,’ ” she joked. As for rumors that these two Hollywood hotties are dating, the Best Actress winner says, “He’s my brother.”

How can you help your friends find love?

Cupid’s Advice

You often know what’s best for your closest friends—and you should, considering the amount of time you spend together. When it comes to dating, they sometimes don’t quite get it right and may ask for your input. Cupid offers some tips on how to help them find the love they deserve.

1. Find the right person: Your best friend has been single for a very long time and asks you to set her up with someone. Where do you even start? Don't just find any guy on the street that looks nice. You don't want to be responsible for setting your friend up with a creep! Consider an old friend from college or a colleague who you really like. Make sure you know him well before introducing him to your friend.

2. Don't force it: Not everyone enjoys the idea of blind dates. In fact, a lot of women fear the concept or become repulsed by the sheer thought. Try planning a group hangout and invite your two friends who you are setting up. They might hit it off, or they might not. Either way, your friends won't be left feeling ambushed or awkward.

3. Express your opinion: All too often, our close friends end up dating guys that are no good for them. Their boyfriends don't respect them and refuse to treat them right, let alone pay for dinner. Unfortunately, your friend is so in love that she sees right past the flaws. Try pointing out the negative sides to her man without bluntly telling her to end their relationship. Sometimes, the only way to help the people close to you is by letting them figure things out for themselves.

What are some good changes your partner can inspire in you?

Cupid's Advice:

Being in a relationship changes you in both good and bad ways.

If you're lucky, your partner will inspire you to be a better person, teaching you how to love more and allowing you to be your best self. Here are three positive ways that your significant other may change you.

1. Passion: Being with another person who accepts you for who you are enables you to feel passionate about your relationship. You'll feel thankful to share your life with someone so wonderful. You'll want to spend all of your time with your partner, making them better just as they make you better.

2. Tolerance: Every relationship requires work; it wouldn't be a relationship if it were easy. Your mate will teach you how to build tolerance, including patience with yourself and your beau and respect for your relationship.

3. Compromise: Compromise is important to every relationship. Even if you think you and your partner are perfect for each other, you will still have disagreements. Learning to compromise will strengthen your love and also improve your relationships with other people.

Celebrity Couple: Giuliana and Bill Rancic Put Their Marriage First and Child

Second

By Meghan Fitzgerald

Celebrity couple Giuliana and Bill Rancic told UsMagazine.com that they “make their relationship a priority, even when there’s their cutest baby ever” around. Similarly, Hollywood Life reported that the twosome believe that the best thing they can do for their son is to have a strong marriage, hence why they put their marriage first and their child second. The couple refers to themselves as husband and wife but also best friends.

What are some ways to work on your marriage when you have children?

Cupid’s Advice:

When you have a child, your marriage will change and may require some extra work. Of course, it's challenging to focus on your relationship when you have a new baby that requires a lot of attention. Lucky for you, Cupid has some advice to help improve your relationship!

1. Communication: Working on your marriage requires constant communication, especially when you have children. You and your partner must check-in with each other and make sure you're both on the same page. When you have an issue, it's important to confront your significant other. Don't let your emotions build up, as it may drive a wedge between the two of you. Strong communication skills will not only improve your ability to be a good husband or wife but also a good parent.

2. Time: It'll take some time to adjust to having a child; you won't suddenly adapt to a lifestyle full of diapers and lack of sleep. Be patient with yourself and your partner as you get used to being a threesome instead of a twosome.

3. Love: Your marriage will not suffer as much if you remember how much you love your significant other – especially during the most stressful moments. You need to stay fully connected to your partner to maintain a strong relationship and be the best parents possible to your baby.

The actress's rep said, "Both mom and baby are resting peacefully together! They are overjoyed with their new angel, and look forward to introducing her to everyone very soon."

How do you know when you're ready to have kids with your partner?

Cupid's Advice:

Having a child with your partner is a life-changing event. Even though this journey is exciting, it may not be the right choice for you. Determining whether or not you and your significant other should have a baby is challenging. Here are three important things to consider:

1. Love: Love changes a lot about a person. It can also change what a person may do in their lives. If you are in a serious relationship and know that you're both ready to settle down, having a child may be a good next step to take. If your mate wants to have a kid, but you're still unsure, talk about it and give it some time. Making the decision to have a baby requires deep conversations and honesty.

2. Fertility: Fertility is obviously very important to have a child. To alleviate some potential stress, check your fertility status. To save yourself from lots of tears and trouble, both you and your partner should go to the doctor. It's a smart safety precaution to take that will make your lives much easier!

3. Financial: As a serious couple questioning whether or not to have a baby, you should know each other's financial situations. Babies are costly: diapers, formula, hospital bills, baby showers, clothes and more. If you can't afford to have a child, develop a budget and open a savings account specifically for your child.

Celebrity Couple: Michelle Williams and Jason Segel Call It Quits

By Andrea Surujnauth

Michelle Williams and Jason Segel have decided to end their long-distance relationship. According to UsMagazine.com, Williams and Segel called it quits earlier this month. Williams, actress in Oz the Great and Powerful, lives in New York with daughter Matilda, 7, from her relationship with the late Heath Ledger. Segel, star of How I Met Your Mother, lives in Los Angeles where his CBS sitcom is filmed. In March 2012, Us Weekly broke the news about their secret relationship, and the two were always extremely hush-hush about their romance. Their sudden split is apparently due to their distance from one another.

What are some things you can do to make your long-distance relationship stronger?

Cupid's Advice:

Long distance relationships are a real test of love. They can be very difficult and trying on a relationship. Luckily, Cupid is here with some advice on how to have a successful long-distance relationship.

1. Be on the same page: Make sure you both agree on the definition of "relationship" and identify what standards you need to uphold while away from one another. If you decide that you're exclusive, you need to agree on not dating other people and set ground rules on what is allowed and what isn't.

2. Bond: Try doing things together even though the two of you are apart. Watch your favorite television show while on the phone together. Make sure you chat with each other everyday; you can even talk while doing your day-to-day activities. Keep each other updated on what is new in your lives to help prevent you from growing apart despite the distance.

3. Skype: What a great invention! Skype is a program that allows you to talk, message and see one another over the Internet. You can download it on your computer or even on your smart phone. Think it can't possibly get any better? Well, Skype is free. Seeing each other will make you feel even closer.

doing fine, even though I tire more easily right now.”

How do you prepare for your second child versus your first?

Cupid’s Advice:

You already had your first child. The second should be a breeze, right? Think again. You may not be as prepared for your second child as you think. Cupid is here to help though!

1. Go through old stuff: Figure out which of your first child’s clothes and bottles can be reused for the second child. Certain things can be used again, especially if they are not gender-specific items such as green and yellow clothing and denim.

How do you praise your partner in public so he/she feels loved?

Cupid's Advice:

PDA is sometimes a problem for couples. Its a possibility that your partner does not want to be touched in public, or the complete opposite. The best way to communicate with this possible problem, is to talk to your mate! Communication is always key, especially pertaining to public displays of affection. Everyone wants to feel loved, and you can do that in public. If your partner does want praise in public, Cupid has some advice:

1. Hold hands: Nothing shows how much you love your partner more than gently holding their hand. This is completely acceptable in public, no vulgarity, just love. This shows your beau not only how much you love them, but how much you care for them. Rubbing your finger softly on the tops of your partners hand, or giving me a slight squeeze, will show them how much you love them. So go on out and hold hands ladies and gentlemen!

2. Whisper sweet nothings: No one can physically seeing you doing anything, no displays of affection going on. This is perfect if your mate is not fond of PDA. Simply whisper into their ear. How much you love them, how grateful you are to have them in your life. Tell them a story you haven't told anyone, or a inside joke the two of you share. Whispering sweet nothings into your partners ear shows them how much you love them

3. Respect: Respect needs to be given in a relationship. You and your partner will not make it through the long haul if you both don't have respect for one another. With this being said, you need to respect your mate if he does not want to be praised in public. Although they may know that is because you love them, they could be extremely uncomfortable. You need to realize that your partner doesn't want this hence, you should not do it!

What are some ways to distinguish innocent flirting from inappropriate advances?

Cupid's Advice:

Flirting can cause a relationship to fail in a heartbeat. To some people, they consider it cheating if you flirt with someone other than your mate. To most, innocent flirting is acceptable. The challenging part which comes in to play here is whether or not it is more than just innocent flirting. Cupid has some advice on this:

1. Body language: Body language is able to show a multitude of things. Just by the way you are sitting, staring, standing, it can all determine what your feelings and intentions are for another person. If your mate has their hands on another person, shoulder touches, hand squeezes, waist grabs; that is in no way innocent flirting. Exceptions are made if they are best friends, however, that still needs to be watched. If your mate puts their hands on anyone else besides you, keep an eye out

2. Connection: Depending on the connection that you and your beau have, you should be able to determine whether or not they are innocently flirting or they may have other ideas. If you know your partner more than you know life itself, this should not be a hard problem. Your partner could be a constant innocent flirter, which is okay. However, if you know they don't usually flirt and they suddenly started, they may be making inappropriate advances.

3. Evidence: If you have become suspicious of your partner because of inappropriate advances on someone else, you may begin to snoop. It may leave you utterly crazy in the end, but if you find out the truth that is relatively okay. If you know that your partner has been with someone else, it is obviously noticeable if they're flirting together. If you have strict evidence, you will know if your mate is making advances on someone else.

How do you know if your personality and your partner's personality match enough for the long haul?

Cupid's Advice:

In the beginning of the relationship, you should do if you and your partner's personality mesh well together. I mean, if it the relationship is working between you and your mate, your personalities match. If the beginning is relatively rocky, and you both are fighting often; you may want to reconsider the relationship. To make it for the long haul, your personalities should match enough to match. Cupid has some more advice:

1. Similarities: Your personalities generally stem from what you like and don't like. This being said, you and your partners personalities will tie in together if you both like the same things. Of course, there are exceptions present. However, generally speaking, if you both love the same things in life, you should be able to make it for the long haul. If you don't like the same things and find yourselves fighting on them, look for a different love.

2. Compromise: Some relationships are sometimes about compromise, yes it may not be entirely appealing to you; however, it happens. Knowing if you'll make it through to the long haul also depends on how much you are willing to compromise. This is not the case if you and your mates personalities are entirely compatible. If they're not however, you have to make a strong decision. Deciding whether or not you can compromise your way to the long haul with your beau, or walk out the front door looking for new love.

3. Passion: Passion can completely disregard personalities. With passion, you may be able to get to the long haul without even considering you and your partners personalities. The problem which may ensue is when the passion fades out. This may not be for a long time however, it may be harmful when it does. If passion is the sole reason why you and your mate are running, attempt to look past it and foresee the future. Yes this is challenging however, it will help determine if you two can make it.

You might find yourself going to a carnival. Proposing on the top of a Ferris wheel is the epitome of romantic. Her feet will literally be swept off the ground.

3. Someplace memorable: Think of a location that holds a special meaning for both of you. Pop the question at her favorite restaurant or the place you first met her. She will notice how much time and effort you put into planning the proposal—and will realize it's her turn to start planning the wedding.
