

Robert Pattinson Moves Back In With Kristen Stewart

By Jennifer Ross

It appears that Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart have taken the next step in making up. The Twilight couple has moved back in together and have officially reconciled, a source told UsMagazine.com. However, not everything is roses and lollipops between them. Although their make-up was dramatic, Pattinson, 26, is insecure and sensitive to the relationship, say sources. No doubt, he still is not over Stewart's, 22, infidelity with her Snow White and the Huntsman director, Rupert Sanders. Will the couple's first indiscretion be their last? Only time will tell.

How do you know when to forgive your partner after cheating?

Cupid's Advice:

Forgiveness can be a very difficult thing to do when your partner has betrayed your love. Never-the-less, it is very important to eventually forgive, regardless of whether or not you decide to reconcile. So to help you decide, here are few clues to look for that tell you it is time to forgive:

1. You've dealt with the truth: Although you wanted to blame everything on your partner, the two of you have realized that cheating was only a symptom to something else and steps were taken to resolve it. Dealing with the real issues in your relationship is necessary in order not to end up back where you two started.

2. You've let go: In dealing with the main problem, you have found ways to accept the pain your mate has caused you. You may never forget, but you also choose to focus on the positive aspects as a result of his cheating. Also, you've realized that you needed to let go for the welfare of your relationship and your health.

3. You feel it: When you think about the infidelity, you are comfortable sharing your story in a positive manner. You are confident in yourself and your relationship with your partner. Overall and in general, you simply feel better inside and out.

Tom Cruise Is Moving On But Misses Suri

By Jennifer Ross

Although Tom Cruise has moved on from his divorce to ex Katie Holmes, he deeply misses Suri. With his new role in the upcoming action film All You Need is Kill, Cruise has been based in London since August for pre-productions, which has made it virtually impossible to see his 6-year-old daughter. As reported by a friend to People, Cruise, 50, has said, "I've got to see her." Adding to that difficulty is Suri's permanent relocation in New York City, where she began first grade at the private Avenue's School in Chelsea. However dim, all is not lost. The first grader is still able to have a relationship with her father, via phone, several times per day.

What are some ways to remain in your child's life after a split?

Cupid's Advice:

In any break-up, the relationship between you and your child may become estranged. In order to regain that special bond between parent and child, Cupid's Pulse has a few tips to help you stay connected:

1. My home is your home: When you are settling down in your new home, be sure to create a personal room/space for your child as well. Allow them to decide on the room decorations. Their very own room will make them feel wanted and welcomed, giving them a sense of security during the time they are with you.

2. Share a common interest: Start a hobby that you both like and can enjoy together. Whether it is an outdoor sport like football or something calmer, such as starting a book club, the interest needs to be exciting for both of you. This will give you a common ground to relate and help create a positive connection with your child.

3. Always remain consistent: No matter how busy your life may get or how difficult your ex may be, there must be consistency between the parents! Therefore, set the ground rules with your ex regarding your child and follow them. Otherwise, different rules in different homes will only lead to emotional chaos and destruction.

What are some ways to keep the spark alive in a long-term relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

As another relationship anniversary passes you by, life can make it challenging to keep the sparks alive and thriving. Should you find yourself without any ideas how to rekindle the flame, here are a few tips to assist you along the way:

1. Reconnect with each other: While ongoing communication is key to any relationship, in this case, I am referring to the physical senses. Taking five to ten minutes every day to cuddle with your partner actually can strengthen the connection between you two. The goal here is to simply hold each other; whether you decide to speak or not is up to your mood.

2. Laugh at it: As you two continue on in your day-to-day challenges, it can be difficult to leave those stressful moments out of your relationship. Why not find ways to laugh about them together? Laughing is thought to relieve tension within your body and lift your spirit, not to mention bring you two closer together.

3. Dress up: Spending that extra time to perfect your appearance not only makes you feel good about yourself, but it also shows your partner that you care to look good for them. It will also give them the urge to dress up for you as well. Whether you go out to dinner or stay in, dress up for your partner...and for yourself.

Ashton Kutcher and Mila Kunis Spend a PDA-Filled Weekend Together

By Jennifer Ross

It appears that love is still in the air. The PDA sightings of Ashton Kutcher and Mila Kunis last week in Central Park continued on through the weekend and were photographed throughout New York City. From holding hands through dinner at The Lion on Friday night to matching blue T-shirts and jeans while watching football in a sports bar on Sunday, Kutcher, 34, and Kunis, 29, could not go long without a hug or a kiss from each other. As reported to People by an observer, the love birds even had a cozy dinner with another couple at Spasso restaurant on Saturday night and were “all lovey-dovey.” It looks like the love that began April is still holding strong.

What are the benefits of being affectionate in public?

Cupid's Advice:

We've all done it. At one point in our lives, we have all either participated in a little PDA or watched from a distance. That feeling you get inside that makes you want to hold their hand or give them a sweet kiss, regardless of where you are, is a wonderful feeling. However, have you ever thought why do we do this? Here are a few reasons to understand what's good about PDA:

1. Confirming your feelings: Reaching out to hold your mate's hand, or give them a kiss, in public is a great way to confirm your feelings for them, if they are insecure about the relationship. It boldly states that you care and you what you don't care about is who knows. So the next time your partner questions your love for them, show it in public to get the message across.

2. It can boost a person's mood: Against what most people might think, being affectionate in public can have a positive effect on the people watching. A scientific study has shown that whether you are actively involved in PDA or simply watching, both have a strong and positive effect on your brain. So give your partner that extra kiss; it may lift someone else's spirit.

3. It just feels good: Let's not forget about ourselves. As the initiator of PDA, we do this simply because it feels good to us. With all the stresses of our world, why not allow ourselves to indulge in a little positive action with our loved one? After all, we are attracted to them and we genuinely care. So, if your urge is to give your mate a hug or kiss out in public, do it! Just remember to keep it "family friendly" for the little ones that may be watching.

Sarah Michelle Gellar and Freddie Prinze Jr. Welcome a Baby Boy

By Jennifer Ross

A new Prinze has arrived in America! Sarah Michelle Gellar gave birth to a son last week in Los Angeles, reported People. Her rep also confirms that both Mommy and baby are doing great. This is the second child for Gellar, 35, and her husband Freddie Prinze Jr, who were married in September 2002. Charlotte, their 3-year-old daughter, is happy to become a big sister. Congratulations to the family addition!

How do you prepare your daughter for a baby boy?

Cupid's Advice:

Having a new baby in the family will be an adjustment, especially when your daughter is used to being the only child. With a newborn that will demand so much attention, she may not understand what is about to happen and will need reassurance beforehand. To help with the transition, here are a few tips on how to make big sis comfortable with little changes:

1. Talk about it: Once you have told your daughter of the new baby coming, she will likely have several questions. Use the months during the pregnancy to talk about what will change in the family. Remember to follow her lead. Because she may not want to talk about him every day, allow her to decide how much to discuss. Lastly, always reassure her that you will still love her just the same.

2. Bring out the old pictures: A great way to help your firstborn understand what it will be like with a new baby is to show her pictures of your first pregnancy. You will want to go through her own baby pictures as well. When doing this, describe the newborn as a person that has ideas and emotions, just like her. Also, inform her that the newborn may cry a lot at first as his only way to communicate.

3. Visit other newborns: When the new baby arrives, your daughter may have a strong reaction to holding them. To prevent this, take your daughter to visit a friend or relative's newborn. By spending a relaxing day, having fun and holding another baby, your daughter will see that a new baby is okay. It will calm any worries she has about being forgotten.

What are some ways to support your partner's career?

Cupid's Advice:

You should already know your partner's ambitions and concerns with their job. It's important you let them know you're rooting for them. Here are some tips for being appropriately involved in your significant other's career:

1. Share success: While you have a separate career from your partner, you're on the same team. When one of you advances, or finishes a project, you should celebrate. If your partner succeeds, you've made a smart choice. And if they succeed because of your support, they think they've made the smart choice. When you share success there's a lot more of it to go around.

2. Take an interest: It's important to recognize professional boundaries around your partner's work. Don't inject yourself into their job, but learn enough so you can talk to them about it. There should be something they find interesting about their work, and if there isn't you should point that out.

3. Work together: Coordinate your schedules so you can spend time together after hours. If you both can work from home, try working in the same room. You can share advice, get ahead, and still spend quality time together. Be ready to help your partner if they have a work emergency. In times of crisis, they'll appreciate the support your relationship offers.

What are some ways to make your partner feel special on their birthday?

Cupid's Advice

Birthdays are the perfect time to make your partner feel special. There's never a better time to show you appreciate their existence, than the anniversary of the day they were born. Follow these tips to communicate how much that makes you happy:

1. Be excited: It should be clear to your partner how excited you've been for their birthday if you planned a party or spent time on a thoughtful gift or activity. Regardless, be happy and excited to celebrate your partner's birthday. Some people are sensitive on their birthdays, so you need to show enthusiasm and give them tons of positive attention.

2. Celebrate with others: Encourage your partner to socialize on their birthday, or arrange a dinner with friends yourself. It's important they get attention from their friends and family to feel valued. Make sure this is happening, even if they seem hesitant.

3. Don't be empty handed: This doesn't mean you have to buy any sort of expensive gift. Just show you put enough thought into their birthday to get them a present or arrange some celebration. As their significant other, it's partially your responsibility they feel appreciated. If you come up with nothing, what are they supposed to think about your relationship?

How do you celebrate an achievement with your partner?

Cupid's Advice:

Your admiration means everything to your partner. Even if it doesn't seem that way, remember that we all want to impress our significant other. It's why boys get into so many fights. Do these things to show how your romance's achievements impress you:

1. Make it a special event: Your partner won't always think to celebrate their own successes with you. By suggesting a special meal, a vacation, or just getting drinks and talking about their achievement, it shows that it matters to you.

2. Build their confidence: Compliment their talents and skills. Find specific details to admire in their success. Ask them about their future plans and goals. Encourage them to speak with ambition and determination about their next step.

3. Admire their effort: Don't focus your flattery solely on their accomplishment. Make sure most of your admiration is on the effort or process that led up to it. By complimenting their labour, you encourage them to keep trying. And maybe next time if they don't meet success, you can still compliment their hard work.

Dianne Burnett Steps Out of the Shadows in Her New Book, 'The Road to Reality: Voted Off the Island!...My Journey as a Real-Life Survivor'

By Lori Bizzoco, with transcription by Kaitlyn Herzog

An hour before her book launch, Dianne Burnett is nothing but smiles as she walks into the room at the Kimberly Hotel in New York City to meet us for an interview. A clearly happy Burnett speaks with ease about her new book, her former marriage and the exciting ventures that lay ahead.

Dianne released her memoir, The Road to Reality: Voted Off the Island!...My Journey as a Real-Life Survivor last Tuesday. Her ex-husband Mark Burnett has been the mastermind behind some of televisions greatest reality shows, including "The Apprentice," 'The Voice' and Survivor,' one of the most successful programs of all time. But this Reality King didn't get there alone, or at least not according to Dianne and her tell-all book.

Nine years after their divorce, the ex-wife of the the TV powerhouse is stepping out of the shadows to tell her side of the story. But, if you are looking for her to bash and destroy her ex, you won't find it here.

Burnett opens the book with her and Mark's decision to move to Morocco and then flashes back in Chapter Two to provide a glimpse into her own childhood growing up on Long Island, New York. She describes in detail her family and the confusion she faces being a young child of divorced parents in the 1960s. She then shifts to her relationship with Mark, the handsome Englishman who swept her off her feet. The story flows through their travels, the beginning of 'Survivor' and their struggles prior to – and after – their divorce. Dianne highlights the good times in their marriage, in particular the beginning of their relationship and how smitten she was with Mark. She writes, "Throughout the entire summer, whatever the day, whatever the hour, wherever I was, I felt intoxicated."

After reading the book and then sitting there with Burnett, the burning question on our mind was why was the book getting so much negative press from Mark. Burnett nodded and admitted that the release of the book has created a rift between the typically amicable exes. “I don’t really know him that well right now,” she explains. “Just last month we were all together at Nobu for my son’s birthday, but since the book, it’s been a little bit...different.” However, they both try to keep a brave face for their two children, Cameron, 15 and James, 19. The author even says that part of the reason for writing this book was so that her children would know the truth.

“I gave up everything to be Mark’s cheerleader, his support system,” Burnett explains. “That’s what kept Mark going. I was doing it for all of us though, for our family.” She looks back on her marriage to Mark with no regrets and often smiles while discussing their happy times. The one thing she does regret, however, is not giving herself a title when ‘Survivor’ first aired. “I didn’t give myself an individual credit because we were a team; I thought everyone knew it was Mark and Dianne.”

So what are Burnett’s final words to Mark? “I wish he would read the book,” she says. “I think if he reads the book, then he’s going to reflect on his reaction in the press and be sad.”

With the release of the book giving her some closure, Dianne dedicates much of her time to more positive things. After her mother was diagnosed with esophagus cancer, Burnett began a charity in her honor called Joan Valentine – A Foundation for Natural Causes. The basis for the foundation is that medicine needs to be more personalized for each person’s ailment. She believes that “not everything works for everyone. Everybody is treated the same; the person and their individual sicknesses aren't taken into consideration."

Keeping up the positive vibe, Burnett is also launching a new drink called Mulberry Love, made with fruits, coconut water and antioxidants, which can help prevent disease. She describes the drink as not only healthy but "very yummy." It hits store shelves later this year.

"This will be my year," Dianne says affirmatively. With a new book, television and film deals and a healthy drink coming out, how could it not be? "I'm happy now; I'm reinventing myself and finding my own way."

Burnett's new book, "The Road to Reality: Voted Off the Island!...My Journey as a Real-Life Survivor," is in stores and online at Amazon. To learn more about Burnett, you can follow her on Twitter at @DianneBurnett.

What are some ways to pull off a surprise wedding?

Cupid's Advice:

Instead of going for the common surprise party, you want to go for a surprise wedding! Here are some tips on how to pull it off:

1. Don't post it: If you want to keep the wedding a secret, don't post about it on the internet or else all of your facebook friends will see. Keep it quiet until you absolutely have to inform others or else you will ruin the surprise before it can even be planned completely.

2. Keep the list simple: You don't need to invite your cousin's friend's brother's uncle. Keep the list to your closest friends and family because the more people that know of the wedding, the less it will be a surprise in the long run.

3. Last minute: Nothing says surprise like a last minute phone call. You may want to avoid last minute invitations since that would make it inconvenient for some guests, but it's all about the surprise if you're going for that element.

How do you keep the drama of a split from affecting your children?

Cupid's Advice:

A separation can be brutal and ugly, especially when young children are involved. Here are some tips on how to shield your children from the drama of your split:

1. Don't drag the kids in: Under no circumstances is it ever okay for a child to think that they caused their parents to split up. Assure your children that this was a decision made by the two of you as adults and had nothing to do with them.

2. Don't badmouth: Don't badmouth your former partner in front of your children. Not only will that affect your child's relationship with that partner, but also you're only going to get yourself into trouble with the other person.

3. Remain civil: Children absorb everything, especially things that they pick up from their parents. You don't have to like each other, but try to be civil with one another and "play nice" while in front of your kids.

What are some ways to tell your partner about an unexpected pregnancy?

Cupid's Advice:

Pass the rolls – I'm pregnant! Here are some ways to tell your partner about an unexpected pregnancy:

1. Prepare them: Instead of just coming right out and spilling the secret, you might want to say something leading up to the big news. Give them a moment to prepare themselves so they are not completely floored by the news.

2. Make it fun: Be creative and have fun with it! Be sure to have a video camera ready to record their reaction since this will be a moment you will want to have on file for future use.

3. Don't tell anyone before them: Don't tell anyone else before your partner if you want to be the one to tell them. News travels fast and you don't want them to find out through someone else before you've had a chance to reach them.

By Erin Minty

After the dramatic cheating scandal between director Rupert Sanders and Kristen Stewart, his estranged wife Liberty Ross is moving on with her life and making the best of it. Just last week the newly separated Ross had a “triumphant” debut at New York Fashion Week; the 33-year old walked in Alexander Wang’s runway show. Just after that, she was spotted Monday night, leaving her wedding ring for a new accessory: a dashing mystery man on her arm! According to UsMagazine.com, a source reported, “It’s still too early to tell what will happen with them.” But things are pointing toward a split.

How do you know when it’s time to move on after a split?

Cupid’s Advice:

Splitting up with your partner can be a tough decision, but an even tougher is sometimes deciding when the right time is to start dating again. Cupid has some advice on how to know when it's time to move on:

1. You start to picture yourself with someone else: One way to know that you might be ready to move on after a split is that you stop picturing your future with your ex and start picturing your future with someone else. That "someone else" may be just a blurry figure or an actual person you know, but the signs are there that you are ready to start dating again.

2. You stop obsessing over the past: Another sign that you're ready to move on is that you stop thinking about every little thing that went wrong about your last relationship. It may take time to heal fully, but if you don't think about it every second of every day, that will definitely help and it gives you time to think about your future relationships instead.

3. You feel comfortable opening up: Trust can be a big issue after a break up, so when you feel comfortable opening up again, it is probably a sign that you are ready to move on. Don't move too fast, just consider the ability of sharing your life with someone again and it will come naturally!

How did you know when the right time was to move on after a split? Let us know below!

How do you know if you can forgive your partner if they cheat?

Cupid's Advice:

Forgiving someone for cheating can be a really tricky territory. They may apologize and you want to believe them, but you don't know if you can trust them or not. Cupid has some advice on decoding whether or not you can forgive your partner if they cheat:

1. Have a talk: After your partner cheats on you, it is crucial that you have a long, serious discussion about your relationship at that point. You don't need to talk about the details of them cheating, but trying to figure out why they did it might help you decide whether or not to give your relationship another try or to end it.

2. Think about forgiveness: Saying you forgive your partner and meaning it are two totally different things. If you think you can honestly forgive them for cheating and move on, then try your relationship again. But if you think that the cheating will haunt your relationship forever, the relationship won't work. You need to dig deep and figure out what you are okay with before telling your partner.

3. See what your partner does: If they are serious about gaining your trust back and getting your forgiveness, they will probably act a little differently than they had before. They will do little things for you and try to always be by your side. Notice the way that your partner acts and try to figure out if his/her actions are genuine.

What are some ways to help your coworker celebrate their recent wedding?

Cupid’s Advice:

A marriage is always a call for celebration and well wishes, even in the office! Cupid has some advice on how you can help celebrate a coworker’s recent wedding:

1. Plan a party: When your coworker comes back from his/her honeymoon, show them you care about their happiness by planning a party. It doesn’t have to be big; a cake in the break room or decorations on their desk will show them how happy you are for them and that you want to help them celebrate this big change in their lives.

2. Help them out: If your coworker is a little shy, you can help them celebrate their wedding by offering to take over some of their work while they are away on their honeymoon. That way, they won’t be spending the whole time worrying about their job and you can be a part of the reason they are happy and relaxed.

3. Get a gift: While your coworker is away for their honeymoon, get the whole office together to pitch in for a gift. Depending on the size of your office, you could get together a lot of money to get the new couple something really special. Your coworker will really appreciate the thought you all put in to helping them get ready for their new life.

How do you know if your marriage will last after multiple divorces?

Cupid's Advice:

There are many statistics out there that state your chances of divorcing a second time around can be up to 90 percent higher than if you were in your first marriage. However, some remarriages do last, regardless of previous failures. Here are a few clues in knowing the difference:

1. Heal from the old marriage: Holding on to anything negative or unfulfilled from your previous marriage will only set you up for failure in the future one. Find closure in all aspects, physically, financially, socially and emotionally. If that means you must cry a river of tears, get it over with, and then leave it in your past.

2. Evaluate yourself: In evaluating yourself, take time to see what you did wrong in your previous marriage and what expectations you had. Remember, your ex was not the only one at fault. By knowing the good and bad in yourself, you can prevent repeating history.

3. Be the real you: In the new marriage, it is most important to be completely honest with yourself and your spouse about who you really are. Honesty about everything will show that there are no unexpected surprises with you. Also, your marriage actually has a great chance at forming a strong bond, stronger than before.

What are the differences in you between your remarriage and previous marriage? Is the marriage bond stronger than before? Tell us how below.

What are some quick honeymoons to take as a couple?

Cupid's Advice:

Although a wedding is one of the most memorable moments in your life, it may come at a time when your work schedule is full. If this is your case, here are a few examples of how you can have a mini romantic honeymoon that is sure to please:

1. In your own backyard: No, this is not in reference to the yard behind your home. Rather, it's about creating a wonderful experience of enjoying what your town has to offer. Whether you live in rural town or a bustling city, every town has spas, fine dining, luxury hotels or resorts, along with events and nightlife that can make for a very exciting time. Plus, it includes the shortest drive home in the end.

2. Head west to wine country: Another honeymoon that does not require a passport is the wine regions of California. There are many wine resorts and villa rentals to set the romantic mood. Besides all the great wine tasting, there is also hot-air balloon rides, golfing, and spas. Just remember to hire car service to prevent any drinking and driving.

3. Beach destination: For a romantic beach destination without leaving the U.S., head over to Kiawah Island, South Carolina.

While it is not actually an island, it is predominantly surrounded by water. Although Kiawah Island is known for their professional golf courses, you can also enjoy playing tennis, fishing, canoeing through the beautiful marsh-lined creeks, shopping, fine dining or simply laying on the beach. It contains all the joys of the Florida Keys, at a lower cost and without the over-crowdedness.

What are some ways to support your partner's goals?

Cupid's Advice:

Whether your partner has a goal to lose weight, write a book, or go for that next promotion, you can bet that they will need support from you, whether they ask for it or not. Here are some steps for you to take on their journey:

1. Show up: If you genuinely want to support your mate, you must show up...mentally and physically. That means not only being by their side, but listening to both their frustrations and joys regarding the goal. Make yourself be present and aware to them, giving them the sense that they are not alone.

2. Be a coach and a cheerleader: Sometimes, your partner will come across a challenge that requires more of you than just being present. In these instances, be ready to give them a pep talk and motivate them in a positive direction. Also remember to congratulate them for the little successes, giving them energy to continue forward.

3. Know when to back off: Finally, keep an eye out for the moments when the challenge requires them to walk alone. Allow them to bounce last minute ideas and strategies off of you and then step aside. No matter how much you want to assist, you must allow your partner to fight their battle without you. Just remind them beforehand that when they return, you will be there waiting for them, with open arms.
