This celebrity break-up comes after much speculation. What are some ways to keep your break-up just between you and your partner?

Cupid’s Advice:

One of the worst things that can happen during a break-up is that other people get involved. Cupid has some ways to keep your split between you and your partner:

1. Don’t post: In order to keep your break-up just between you and your partner, it is definitely a good idea to refrain from posting anything on social media that could cause break-up speculation. Posting nasty comments will only make you look bad.

You don't need to explain to anyone the reason why you broke up if you don't want you. Keep it short and simple, and just let people know that it is over, but that everything is okay.

Bell shared a post of a letter with relationship advice she had been asked to write for her newlywed friends. Grab a tissue, here is what she wrote: "Vulnerability always begets connection and intimacy. Stay vulnerable with each other. In 10 yrs when the dopamine has waned, remember: Life is a crazy ride. It is a privilege to go through it with a partner. Take necessary separateness. It will make your marriage better. Loving someone despite their faults, failings, or character defects is the most powerful loving thing you can do. Rejoice in what makes the other person happy, and allow them their individual interests. Know that everyone is doing the best they can with what they've got. So get a bigger emotional tool box to fix your problems." Aw, Kristen Bell is bae – Dax Shepard sure is lucky!

In celebrity news, Kristen Bell is giving us her secrets to a successful relationship. What are three things that add to a healthy relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

There are many things you can do to help your relationship become healthier. Some things work better than others, while others work for some couples better than others. Nevertheless, here are three things to do for a healthier relationship:

1. Be honest: Being honest is a two way street. Being honest with one another is crucial. Trust is key to making a relationship work. Lies hurt and even ruin relationships. Being honest builds trust and makes the bond between you and your significant other even stronger. It can sometimes be hard to be honest at all times, but the benefits are worth it.

2. Encourage and compliment each other: Sweet things and encouraging words go a long way. Supporting each other is another crucial element to making relationships work. As for complimenting, you should always make each other feel special. Never stop making your loved one feel special – flirt and push one another ahead!

3. Spend quality time together: Snuggle, do things you both love doing together, and try new things. Cuddling is great because physical contact and connection is important. In fact, being held for an extended period of time releases serotonin, elevating your mood. Spending quality time is important for every relationship. As time passes, sometimes couples spend time together but not quality time. Spice things up and do different things or do those things you really enjoy – try to do that at least once a week.

New Celebrity Couple: ‘Full House’ Star Jodie Sweetin Is Dating Mescal Wasilewski

By Jessica Gomez

A source confirms that the new celebrity relationship began in November. As a Valentine's Day post, Sweetin took to Instagram a collage of photos with her beau, captioned: "Find someone who you can share this kind of love with ... Someone who doesn't just show you they love you one day a year ... Who isn't afraid to look silly when they tell you they love you ... Who doesn't judge you for past mistakes, but who wants to build a better future together ... Who builds you up and never makes you feel small ... Who supports your dreams and hopes and desires, and also has those of their own. Who doesn't put a price tag on your love ... Who holds your hand when you're scared and doesn't run away ... Who loves you, not in spite of your weirdness, but because of it ... Who makes you a priority in their life, no matter what," she continued. "Who doesn't hold you hostage with their love, but whose side you don't want to leave because you're happier when you're with them ... who makes you get shy when they look at you, because the rest of the world stops. That's the kind of love we all deserve. Anything less isn't worth it." How sweet!

In this celebrity couple news, Jodie Sweetin is moving on from a series of bad relationships. What are some ways to know you're choosing someone who will treat you right?

Cupid's Advice:

There are many things that are signs showing that someone will treat you right. Sweetin was right on the money with all she said on V-Day via Instagram. Here are three signs to be optimistic about:

1. They make you feel both safe and special: Having someone that treats you the way you should be treated is a wonderful thing. Not everyone can provide that for their lover. Being comfortable with your partner and feeling like they wouldn't do anything to hurt you is a comforting feeling. Trust is what leads to these feelings.

2. They respect your differences: This is important! It's great to have things in common, that's one of the many things that build a bond. However, having differences is okay, as long as you both respect each other's dissimilarities. Variation can be good when you both have boundaries and don't judge one another. This also leads to a more open relationship, which is a good thing.

3. They support you any way they can: Your partner should be your cheerleader. We can all use a support system, and having someone that encourages your dreams, aspirations, and decisions is a magnificent thing to have. Don't think that everything needs to be encouraged and supported, that's not the case. We do not want to support negative behavior. We do however need our loved ones to be there for us.

This celebrity couple isn't letting the Super Bowl loss affect their relationship. What are some ways to keep negative life events from putting a damper on your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

It happens. When we are involved in negative circumstances, we tend to misplace our emotions and take out our frustrations on our significant other at times, which isn't okay. Cupid has some advice on how to get around it:

1. Remember what you're mad at: Breathe and think. It's easier said than done, but it works. When we become angry, we can lose sight of what or who we're really mad at, which can lead us to take it all out on those closest to us, like your lover. When surrounded by negativity, clear your head by taking about 10 deep breaths – in and out. Then remember that you're not mad at your partner, and that they deserve your fairness and respect.

2. Do something with your significant other: It will help take the edge off. When you create a happy place with them, then outside negativity should not be able to reach you there. Also, building positive memories is always a good thing! Be sure to remain mindful of the energy you give out in your happy place because if you're being negative, then what's the point?

3. Blow off steam: Chill with your friends. Sometimes when surrounded by the bad, we need to kick back and have some time with our friends. We sometimes also need space from our partners, so this works for both. Don't let bad energy or vibes bring you down, go and have a good time!

1. Be honest: It is important to be honest in a relationship from the start. This is when you’re building trust, and trust is earned by being righteous and truth-telling. Cupid is here with some suggestions on how you can make sure your partner is feeling as if they are on cloud nine:

1. Celebrity Divorce: 'Modern Family' Star Julie Bowen Files for Divorce from Husband Scott Phillips

By Jessica Gomez

In celebrity news, Julie Bowen filed for divorce from husband Scott Phillips on Tuesday, according to EOnline.com. It was revealed less than a week ago that the former celebrity couple, who was married for 13 years, separated. However, Bowen listed their separation date as December 17. She marked irreconcilable differences as the reason for their parting and is asking for joint legal and physical custody of their three children, according to the documents that E! News obtained.

This celebrity divorce after 13 years of marriage is very unfortunate. What are some ways to know it's time to move on from a marriage?

Cupid's Advice:

Some of us may try to fight off a divorce for as long as possible... but honestly, that's just a waste of time. Cupid has some suggestions on signs that can mean it's time to move on:

1. You're worried about what your kids, friends, or family will think: Staying together for your children isn't a good idea. And staying together for the sake of dodging judgment from family and friends is even less of a good idea. Those you love don't usually want you to be unhappy, and neither do your children. Kids want parents who are happy and love them. You can go your separate ways, but still be a family. Build a friendship when possible, don't continue building an unhappy marriage. Your friends and family will just need to accept it. You are the one living with this decision, not them.

Related Link: How to Navigate a Separation

2. You've tried counseling and gave it all you've got, but it's still not working: If you gave it your biggest shot, but you guys are still not coming together the way you should, then it may be a sign that it's time to go. Staying in an unhappy marriage is unhealthy for you. As long as you can look back and say "I gave it my all," there's no shame in knowing it's time for a divorce. Time to take action. All you can do at the end is try, if that doesn't work then there's nothing to do but what's in your best interest.

Related Link: Why Celebrity Exes Kourtney Kardashian & Scott Disick Are Happier Than Ever

3. You no longer respect nor trust your spouse: Trust and respect are both key things to have in a marriage. Sometimes we can gain that sense of trust and respect back, but sometimes we can't. If you don't see yourself ever trusting or respecting your spouse again, then it's safe to say that your marriage has hit its end point. Being married to someone that is not the same person you married happens sometimes, and it sucks. It really does, but instead of dwelling on it, start making moves.

Celebrity Baby News: Kylie Jenner Plans to Keep Motherhood Journey with Stormi Private for Now

By Jessica Gomez

In celebrity news, Kylie Jenner plans on keeping her life with celebrity baby Stormi low-key, at least for now. The 20-year old reality TV star and makeup mogul kept her pregnancy on the down-low and demands that her motherhood journey be kept private as well, according to UsMagazine.com. “She is extremely protective and she is very focused on trying to keep motherhood private for right now,” a source said. “All Kylie wants is for her privacy to be protected right now and is pretty demanding about that at this time.” The source also adds that Kylie is in no hurry to get engaged to beau Travis Scott, so we guess there won’t be any celebrity wedding bells ringing there for a while.

In this celebrity baby news, it begs the question – is it okay to post photos of your child on social media? What are some factors to consider?

Cupid's Advice:

Whether you want to post photos of your child on social media or not, the decision is up to you. It's all up to preference, as long you understand the loss of control that takes place on your end once you upload a photo on the web. Here are some factors to consider:

1. It will always be on the web: When you post photos of your little bundle of joy, they will permanently be on the internet. This concerns some people, while others don't find any harm in it. Think it through and decide whether or not this factor plays a role in your preference, considering that these photos are of your child and they will one day grow older and potentially see them.

2. Cyber safety risks: Do I want everyone to see this? Unless your social media account is private, the photo is available to pretty much the whole world. So think about what you're posting and consider whether you care who sees it or not. Cyber safety is one of the biggest concerns for parents considering it has been suggested that approximately 50% of photos on Pedophile sites come from the social media pages of parents.

Related Link: Kim Kardashian Is a 'Very Hands-On Mom' with New Celebrity Baby Chicago

3. Some photos may either be misjudged, misappropriated, or both: On social media, everyone has an opinion. This makes room for people to sometimes misjudge what they see or think they see on a photo. Misappropriation also happens often, especially with memes. You never know if one your photos will fall victim to this. People all the time take photos and turn it into a post relating a totally different message, good or bad. If you're fine with this because of your care-free attitude then that's fine, but others may want to stray away from this.

In this celebrity news, Reese Witherspoon opens up about an abusive relationship. What are some things you can do if you find yourself in an abusive situation?

Cupid's Advice:

Abusive situations are very serious and can be challenging to leave. If you or somebody you know is struggling with any sort of abuse, here are three things to do:

1. Acknowledge: Victims usually blame themselves or minimize the reality of the situation. Abuse isn't always broken bones or black and blue bruises. It takes form of sexual assault, verbal intimidation and threats, too. Acknowledging that your situation is an abusive one does not define who you are, it is a step closer to getting out of it.

Cupid's Advice:

It's an awesome idea to pay homage to your relatives when naming your new generation. Cupid has some ideas for you:

1. Use a maiden name: Maiden names make beautiful first names! If your maiden name is too masculine or feminine, use a variation that fits your style. Nicholson or Nicholas can easily become Nicole, Michaels can become Michaela. The possibilities are endless, you just have to get creative!

2. Middle names matter: If you are set on a first name that has no relation to your family, consider tying your child's middle name in! You can use the same middle name as a parent, grandparent, or even great-grandparent, or even use their first name. That way, there is a direct familial connection, which will certainly be appreciated.

3. Use a combo: Perhaps you want your child to have connections to both sides of the family. This can be done a variety of ways. Cupid's Advice:

When your partner is going through a loss or disappointment, it is part of your relationship duty to help them get through this tough time together. Empathy is key when it comes to relationships. Cupid has some ideas on how to help give solace to your partner:

1. Be present: This may seem obvious, but sometimes people have the tendency to flee when bad circumstances arise. Be there for your partner, and listen to everything that they have to say. Instead of trying to change how they are feeling, simply listen and be there for them. Let them vent, and give them copious amounts of love.

2. Distract them: Once you have given your partner time to let out how they are feeling, make efforts to try and shift the energy. Even though you probably can't take away their disappointment or sadness completely, you do have the capabilities to alter their mind onto something else for the time being. Think of some things you can do that would be special for your partner: cook their favorite dinner, watch their favorite movie together, or go out for a fun date night.

3. Be okay with space: Everyone copes differently. If your partner is the type of person who needs time to themselves in order to get over a disappointment, let them have that. Try not to bombard them while trying to help when they just need some space to themselves. Sometimes it is hard to tell if your partner truly wants space or if they do want you to comfort them. Really try to listen to your partner and get a feel for what they need.

Also, never underestimate the power of hugs!

He said I wasn’t THOUGHTFUL. Jerk... Anyway, Happy Birthday, Michael...” This former celebrity couple dated for almost four years.

After four years, Sarah and Michael experienced a celebrity break-up. What are some ways to know it’s time to give up on a long-term relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes you can get so secure in a long-term relationship that it just seems easier to stay with your partner because it is comfortable. But even relationships that have lasted long may be due for a split. How do you know when? Cupid is here with some advice on how to know if your relationship may be ready for a change:

1. You only communicate when you have to: If you are in a long-term relationship, it may seem as if you already know so much about your partner. You may lose that curiosity that was fluttering in the beginning of your relationship. Therefore, you only talk to them when necessary. If you realize this is happening, you can work to change it, but if it feels too forced, that's when you know.

2. Time with each other is scarce: In relation to the point mentioned above, sometimes you can get so close to your partner that you stop going out of your way to make time for cute dates and just special time together in general. Again, you can work to change this, but you need to make sure that your partner is in on it, too. Be open and communicative, and make the effort if you feel as if your relationship is worth saving.

3. You're just not happy: It is painful when you really do love your partner but you are just not happy in your relationship anymore. It takes maturity to realize this. If you discern that you are simply not happy anymore, bring it up to your partner and see if they are on board for making changes in your relationship. Although, sometimes the best change of all is to take time for yourself and realize your true capabilities outside of this long-term relationship.

By Jessica Gomez

Congratulations to celebrity couple Kylie Jenner and Travis Scott on officially becoming parents to a new baby! In celebrity news, Jenner gave birth to a baby girl this past week, according to EOnline.com. At that time, Mom Kris Jenner and sister Kim Kardashian were seen at the hospital along with Travis Scott and Kylie's best friend Jordyn Woods. The celebrity baby has not yet been named. As the world knows, Jenner kept her pregnancy on the down low, making this news even more relevant. "I'm sorry for keeping you in the dark through all the assumptions. I understand you're used to me bringing you along on all my journeys,” Kylie said via Instagram on Sunday. “My pregnancy was one I chose not to do in front of the world. I knew for myself I needed to prepare for this role of a lifetime in the most positive, stress free, and healthy way I knew how. There was no gotcha moment, no big paid reveal I had planned. I knew my baby would feel every stress and every emotion so I chose to do it this way for my little life and our happiness,” she explained. “Pregnancy has been the most beautiful, empowering, and life-changing experience I’ve had in my entire life and I’m actually going to miss it. I appreciate my friends and especially my family for helping me make this special moment as private as we could. My beautiful and healthy baby girl arrived February 1st and I just couldn’t wait to share this blessing. I’ve never felt love and happiness like this I could burst! Thank you for understanding.”

Well, this celebrity baby news wasn’t just a rumor! What are some reasons to keep your baby news to yourself for a while?

Cupid’s Advice:

There are a few reasons that you may want to keep your pregnancy under wraps for a while, just like Kylie Jenner and many others. Cupid has some reasons as to why:

1. You have a stressful pregnancy: You just don’t need nor want the stress. If you have a sensitive pregnancy where your health and the one of your baby depends on you taking it easy, then hiding your pregnancy could be an option for you. If we feel like outside factors can cause us stress during a critical time, then as mothers-to be we must cut out those factors. Sometimes people can become over bearing when it comes to receiving baby news – so if you're around those kind of peeps, you know what it is.

2. You're superstitious and don't want to jinx it: This may not be logical to everyone. However, if it's logical to the mother-to be, then that's enough – it's her body and her baby. Sometimes certain people find reassurance and comfort in not telling people right away due to fear of a miscarriage or something going wrong. At the end of the day, as long as the baby news is delivered later rather than never, it should be enough.

3. Judgy peers: Whether these peers are at school or work, or are your neighbors, friends, or fam, sometimes they're just not the easiest people to deal with. At times, we may be surrounded by people who judge or gossip, and that can lead to you wanting to keep your pregnancy low-key. During pregnancy, drama should be avoided, so there's no shame in doing what you have to do.

Cupid's Advice:

Time can't measure the amount of feelings you may have for someone in a relationship. Also, you may carry the effects from a break-up for years to come. Luckily, Cupid has some advice on how to cope with a recent break-up so that you can respectfully accept what happened and become better from it:

1. Change up your workout regimen: When you exert energy from working out, endorphins are released in your brain. This helps to fight stress and heighten your happiness level. Take this post break-up time to better yourself and your body. Go to the gym with your friends and do some fun workout routines together! Remember to not overwork yourself though. Do just enough so that you feel happy and healthy.

2. Write it out or talk it out: When emotions are bottled up inside of you continuing to boil and you don't let them spill out, it can be very detrimental to your overall well-being. It is healthy to get out how you are feeling. Identify your feelings in order to get past them. If you don't feel comfortable talking to anyone in your life about your personal post break-up feelings, start a journal. Write down your thoughts and feelings. Let it all out- so then you have more room in your heart to let love in.

Smile and realize that this world is so beautiful!

Celebrity News: Sarah Jessica Parker Says Time Apart is Beneficial to Her 20-Year Marriage to Matthew Broderick

By Jessica Gomez

In some ways, I think that that’s been enormously beneficial because we have so much to share in a way,” she continued. And the actress had some insight as well: “Anytime that any relationship is hard, it’s the point in which you’re deciding, ‘Is this worth the investment getting through whatever that thing is?’”

In celebrity news, time away truly does make the heart grow fonder.

What are some ways that distance can actually help your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes in a relationship, you do need space. Sometimes we like it, sometimes we don't – but that's how it is! Here are a few ways relationships can benefit from space:

1. It can boost your individual growth: When in a relationship, we can sometimes lose sight of who we are as an individual. Many times this is due to the compromises we have to make and our focus on “couple goals,” more than individual goals. Time apart will help because you'll get alone time. During this time, give some thought into where you want to go in life. Think of you, the individual. You can also learn some new things about yourself. As humans, we are constantly changing, and having space for yourself provides the environment and alone time to recognize something about yourself – which leads us to #2...

2. You can learn something new, like a hobby: And bring it back to your relationship. If you both learn new things while having time apart, it can be an exciting experience to share it with your partner after. Doing new things while there is space between you two helps because you learn things that are concentrated around your personal preferences and interests. You're doing two things: enjoying your time alone while learning and bringing something new that can even maybe spice up the relationship.

3. It can increase trust and decrease insecurities: If you're going to have time apart, you obviously have to trust each other. And if you don't trust each other, then you have to build that trust – and time apart is a way to do so. You can also gain a new perspective on the relationship. The independence you'll receive can actually make you more confident since you'll be focusing on yourself. Trust us, like we said before, some time apart can make the heart grow fonder.
