In celebrity couple news, JoJo and Jordan experienced some rough patches in the first year of their relationship. How do you decide whether to stay together or split during a rough patch?

Cupid's Advice:

In relationships there will always be good times and there will also be bad ones, but it can be hard to decipher whether the bad times are enough to split. If you are in a relationship and you're not sure whether you should break up or stay together, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Does the good outweigh the bad?: When deciding if you and your partner should stay together, you should take a hard look at your relationship and figure out if the good times outweigh the bad. If they do, then you should try to make it work, but if not, then you may want to take a closer look at things.

Cupid's Advice:

When you're in a relationship for a long time and things aren't going so well, it's hard to know when you should continue to work on your relationship or move on. If you are in a long-term relationship and you're not sure if you should move on, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You've lost interest: In the beginning of the relationship, you two were inseparable. Late night phone calls, endless text conversations, and spontaneous dates were the norm, and it seemed like you would be together forever. If you've lost that same spark that you had when you first got together completely, then chances are it's not coming back.

2. You fight constantly: Disagreements within a relationship are perfectly normal, but if you find you and your partner fighting a lot more than usual, then it's time to take a broader scope to the relationship. If fights outweigh the good times that you have, then it's time to call it quits.

3. You avoid future plans: If you're in a long-term relationship, then planning ahead should be natural, because you see a long-term future with each other. If you find yourself not planning a future with your partner, that just means you don't see this person in your future. In that case, it's time to move on.

Cupid’s Advice:

When you’re in a relationship, it can be hard to hear about your partner's past relationships, but acting as if they don't exist isn't the way to go. If you find it hard to hear about your partner's exes, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Remind yourself that you're together now: It can be so difficult to hear about partners' past relationships, but you have to remind yourself that this is your partner now and whatever they may have done with someone else is irrelevant to your relationship. 1. Remember the pre-pregnancy days: Before your little one's arrival, reminisce with your partner about your relationship pre-parenthood. It's okay to be sad about some of the freedoms you two will be losing. Acknowledge the "loss" by celebrating the end of this part of your relationship.

No couple is perfect, but it can be hard to hold onto your relationship when things are especially rocky. You and your partner both need to work on your relationship. It’s easier said than done to fix the problems in your relationship. If you don’t know where to start, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Spend more time together: Some relationships struggle when you don’t spend enough time together. Conflicting schedules and long-distance can take a toll on any couple, but it’s important to put the time into it. Plan a day to spend together each week. It doesn’t have to be elaborate: it can be

Cupid's Advice:

The end of a relationship is always hard, but avoiding drama will make it easier for you and your ex. Even if you can't avoid every awkward moment, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Take time apart: Do your best to not see your ex, even if you want to be friends after the breakup. Give yourself a couple of months to get used to life on your own before you reach out to your ex again. Staying too interconnected after a breakup will prevent you (and your ex!) from moving on.
