In celebrity news, the drama is heating up off-screen for current and former Vanderpump Rules stars. How do you decide who to invite to important events in your life?

Cupid's Advice:

Social gathering restrictions or not, it can be hard to narrow down the guest list for important events in your life. While you may not be looking to hurt anyone's feelings, leaving someone off the guest list can cause drama. If you are looking for ways to decide who to invite to important events, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Establish a limit: The first step in planning a gathering is to determine how many people you want to invite. If the event you are hosting is at a venue, this number may already be established for you. Don't let the pressure of feeling the need to invite everyone overpower how many people you actually want in attendance.

2. Make a priority list: After establishing a number of people, you need to decide who exactly you want to invite by creating a priority list. If the event involves more than one person, such as a gender reveal or wedding, make sure each host has a priority list of about the same length.

3. Acknowledge others after: In the world of social media, it's impossible to have a party without people who weren't invited finding out about it eventually. Rather than ignoring these people, try to make them feel included in some way. By creating a post thanking all those in attendance and those who showed their support through social media, you will make everyone feel like they had a part in your event, even if they weren't there in person.
