

Dating Advice: How to Keep Humor In Your Relationship

 By Dr. Jane Greer

During these difficult times, because of the pandemic and everything that has come with it, it is important for people to make room for laughter. There is no question that it is challenging to find the funny among all the hardship. It can be a struggle to balance the bad with the good. But it is a long-held belief that humor is an important elixir that helps to soothe the pain and even heal. Professor of Surgery Henri de Mondeville famously said in the 1300s that laughter, compiled with the treatments he recommended, would help toward recovery. That eventually translated into the saying we all know today: laughter is the best medicine. Norman Cousins is known for having cured himself of a terrible disease by chuckling through all the Marx Brothers' movies. Recently even Blake Shelton and Gwen Stefani poked fun at the way they found each other during a Super Bowl commercial for T-Mobile.

So how can you find a way to incorporate humor into your relationship and your daily life to take the sting out of all the stressors you are experiencing?

Believe it or not, the first thing to do is to give yourself permission to laugh despite what is going on in the country and the world. Some people think they have to be serious because of all the suffering taking place, and may even feel guilty for being lighthearted. But the shows we find the funniest and the comedians we embrace are the ones in which they illustrate how to laugh at ourselves and each other. They have learned through their own hardships and demonstrate to the rest of us the value of humor, even if it is self-deprecating, to cope with the negatives – our own and those in our relationships. We look to them for comic relief, and can actually model our behavior after them to use poking at ourselves and our loved ones as a way to ease tension and release anger. And while you wouldn't expect doctors and nurses in a hospital setting to be making jokes, it is something that goes on regularly to manage the intensity of working with ill and dying patients. In fact, someone I know who was going through his own illness with a brain tumor wrote a book called, "You Have To Keep Your Sense Of Humor," which helped him survive for many years. Nurturing your sense of humor can actually become your emotional health insurance.

The next thing to do is take inventory of all the things that are irritating you in your life and prioritize them so you can gain some perspective. If you look at each one specifically, it gives you the opportunity to focus on what is aggravating you the most and needs to be addressed first. This way, instead of being equally upset about all of them, you can determine what is going on that demands your immediate attention in order to manage it more effectively. Once you have honed in on what it is, look for any way to make it amusing or silly so that when it continues to happen it loses some of its steam.

If you are in a relationship, however, your private jokes can give you mileage if you use them as morse code to short circuit an impending argument. Rather than blaming or criticizing your partner, if you can find a gentler way to tease them about the problem at hand it can increase your chances of their being willing to compromise. Laughter is also a great release for anxiety, and a place it can be really helpful is in the bedroom. That is where people can feel pressure to please their partner, and also themselves. Embracing humor is a great way to relax and dissipate some of that expectation so you are able to enjoy yourselves.

It is clear that Blake and Gwen have a lot of playfulness between them. That is one of the things that is so appealing about watching them interact, and it appears to have contributed to their strong foundation. You can do the same and increase your personal happiness by learning to laugh off what you can, and by following the adage angels fly because they take themselves lightly.

Cupid's Advice:

Break ups are one of the hardest things you go through in life. Through the pain, you have to find the light even if it takes some time. Cupid has some advice on how to recover after a tough break up:

1. Cry: Never ever be ashamed to cry! Man or woman, everybody has a heart and can have it broken. The best self therapy is to just let it all out. Whether it happens when you are in front of people or when you are alone, you will feel so much better. Holding back the tears won't help you because you aren't expressing how you feel. Building up emotions isn't healthy and can cause issues later.

2. Talk: Talking is another therapeutic way to help recover from a tough break up. Speak about what happened. It will only help ease the pain away. Say you accidentally spilled your coffee. Initially, in anger you say, "Darn! I spilled my coffee." As the day goes on, you soon lose the anger and when you explain what happened, the anger is no longer there. Speaking on what happened and repeating things somehow helps put your mind and in this case, your heart at ease.

3. Go out: While we're not saying head out to the clubs or immediately sign up for speed dating, taking baby steps and enjoying yourself will help with recovery. Start small, like a movie date with friends or even by yourself. Surrounding yourself with loved ones always helps, but sometimes you just need to be alone. Dating yourself for a while is a great way to heal your broken heart. Sometimes simply taking yourself for ice cream can help.

your life in some way. Maybe you can't go a day without speaking to them or you can't sleep without saying goodnight. Needing your love's presence is natural and a true sign of falling in love.

Celebrity Couple News: Gwen Stefani & Blake Shelton Attend Wedding Together

 By Rhodesia Williams

In celebrity news, celebrity couple Gwen Stefani and Blake Shelton attended a wedding together this past weekend. This celebrity couple is just like us – attending weddings and dancing together. What are some ways attending a wedding can bring you closer as a couple?

Cupid's Advice:

Date nights are great, but attending special events like weddings helps you figure out just where your relationship is going. Cupid has some advice on how attending weddings can bring you closer as a couple:

1. Presentation: Weddings aren't like attending the annual 4th of July family BBQ. This event is family and friends seeing the two of you dressed to impress. People will see you as a real couple; your parents or even Nana may even ask, "So, when are you two tying the knot." When you get all dressed up, it just gives others another view of you and your partner. Embrace it! While it can be embarrassing at the moment, they just want the two of you to have your own special day like this one... until they get the bill that is.

2. The talk: There you are, sitting at the table watching the bride and groom dance their first dance. Right there in that moment you will think, "that will be us one day." Eventually, you and your partner will have "the talk." Weddings help you to see yourselves as the ones getting married, even though it is not your wedding. Talking about marriage is important because ultimately, that is why you date someone; to grow and build a future. While you shouldn't force the issue, a light discussion to see where your partner's head is at when it comes to marriage is a good idea.

3. Fun: While it is natural to consider your own wedding, this is the time to still have fun. While you might take mental notes and may secretly be planning your own wedding in your head, remember to actually enjoy the wedding. When its time to dance, have fun. You and your significant other are dressed up and looking good. Dance the night away. Take pictures, participate in the dance contests, and you know there is always that one drunk person(s). There is plenty of time to plan your day, today isn't the day. Have fun!

Moving on from your ex can be tough, especially because they used to be such a big part of your life. For some people, it's hard to get over that quickly. If you are one of those people, Cupid has some tips that can help you to move on from your ex:

1. Cut off contact: First and foremost, make sure that you have cut off all contact from your ex. Delete their number so you don't have the urge to text them. It makes it so much harder to get over your ex if you're still in contact with them, because the whole point of trying to get over them means you are trying to get them out of your mind.

Self-forgiveness is also very important to embrace during the time of a break-up. Relationships help us to uncover aspects of ourselves that we may not have shown before. Take time to examine some great personal achievements from this time. Maybe you got past your trust issues, or maybe you fell in love for the first time.
