

Christian Slater Marries Brittany Lopez

By Brittany Stubbs

Christian Slater tied the knot with Brittany Lopez during an impromptu ceremony at the courthouse on Monday in Coral Gables, Florida. After dating for three years, the couple celebrated their engagement this summer with the intention of having a small ceremony later in the year. However, when they went to pick up their marriage license, the lovebirds spontaneously decided to go ahead and get married. Slater's rep confirmed the happy news with our friends at People.

How do you keep your wedding low-key?

Related Link: 'The Host' Star Jake Abel Marries Allie Wood

Cupid's Advice:

Getting married is an exciting event, but it doesn't take a million dollars and a formal ceremony to celebrate your commitment to one another. Check out these tips from Cupid for planning a simple wedding:

1. Set a small budget: Planning for your wedding is a fun time, but it's easy for couples to get carried away in the process. When it comes to how much money to spend, setting a number you both agree on and not over-spending can help keep your big day grounded.

2. Keep the guest list small: Invite only close friends and family to the wedding. This approach will make your ceremony intimate and all the more special while also keeping the overall price down.

Related Link: Lance Bass Says Jessica Biel Is Helping Plan His Wedding

3. Plan it yourself: Wedding planners are great, but nothing puts a modest ceremony at risk like hiring a person that can tempt you with their big and elaborate ideas. So let your creative juices flow and make your wedding a true representation of you and your fiancé.

What are your thoughts on having a low-key wedding? Share with us below.