The other woman has since been identified as an estate manager that has worked with Thompson in the past.

In celebrity news, it looks like Khloe Kardashian still trusts her man. What are some ways to know your partner is being truthful with you?

Cupid's Advice:

Although trust is a crucial part of any relationship, it can sometimes be hard to achieve. If you do not have trust in your partner, who will continue to face obstacles as the relationship progresses. If you are looking for some ways to know if your partner is being truthful, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. They communicate clearly: While constant communication is not needed to determine if someone is being truthful, clear communication is. If someone communicates openly with you about topics such as where they are going and how they are feeling, then there probably is no reason to worry about them lying. Red flags should only appear if the person is continuously giving vague answers or avoiding questions.

2. They acknowledge your concerns: Sometimes the only way to resolve a trust issue is to address your concerns with your partner. Cupid's Advice:

There is nothing wrong with wanting to keep some of the details about your relationship to yourself, whether it one that is relatively new or one you've been in for years. If you are looking for some reasons to keep details about your relationship to yourself, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Past traumas: If you've experienced some kind of public fallout from a break-up in the past, you may want to keep your future relationships more private. Sharing too much of your new relationship with the public could cause you to fear the same result if things end, which can add unnecessary stress to your current situation. Keeping this quiet and revealing selective details is a great alternative to sharing everything if you don't want to!

Cupid's Advice:

Long distance relationships can be difficult to navigate, no matter how prepared you may feel to take on the challenge of living in different places. However, with some hard work, long distance relationships can be successful. If you are looking for ways to make a long distance relationship work, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Have a communication plan: When you are not physically near someone, it can feel more tempting to want to talk to them more often. However, if you're expecting to talk to your partner all day when it is not realistic for either of your schedules, you may find yourself getting disappointed. Selecting methods of communication and times to talk early-on in a long distance relationship can help manage expectations and avoid conflict.

Celebrity News: Tamera Mowry Says Quarantine Tested Her Marriage to Adam Housley

By Nicole Maher

In the latest celebrity news, Tamera Mowry revealed that being quarantined with her husband Adam Housley tested their marriage. According to UsMagazine.com, Mowry described both herself and her husband as workaholics, and said that being home together constantly was a change to which they needed to adapt. The celebrity couple tied the knot in May of 2011, and share two children together.

In celebrity news, Tamera Mowry is opening up about the test she and her husband are going through due to COVID-19. What are some ways to cope with being quarantined with your partner?

Cupid's Advice:

Quarantine has proved as a relationship test for even the strongest of couples. While you may love your partner endlessly, being confined to one home for months on end can test your relationship. If you are looking for some ways to cope with being quarantined with your partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Allow for some alone time: Just because you and your partner are in the same house does not mean you have to be together the entire time. As quarantine progresses, you may feel the need to have some time apart. Taking a few hours every day or so to relax or sit on your own can help prevent any frustrations or tensions you may be feeling with your partner. If possible, safely getting some alone time by going for a walk or drive is also a good option.

2. Have off-limit areas: Quarantine can make any living space feel claustrophobic after some time, so designating some areas that are reserved for each partner is a good idea to maintain the peace. If you are working from home, an office is a great space to reserve for yourself. In smaller living situations such as apartments, having a designated chair where your partner knows to give you space can also work.

3. Plan in-house events: Despite feeling confined to your partner because of quarantine, it is still important to nurture the relationship by scheduling things to do together. By doing at-home dates such as cooking together or watching a movie, it will show your partner that you still want to spend quality time with them. This miniature date can help relieve some tension and make your partner more willing to give you space when you need it.

Cupid's Advice:

Having a child can be a large adjustment for any relationship, especially one that is relatively new. If you are looking for some ways to prepare a newer relationship for a baby, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Balance responsibility: There is a lot of planning and preparation that comes with expecting a child. Be sure that these responsibilities are balanced between you and your partner. While one of you may be responsible for getting the nursery ready, the other may take on the task of baby-proofing the kitchen. Balancing these types of responsibilities is a great way to get both of you involved and excited about the child you are having.

Related Link: Celebrity News: New 'Bachelorette' Tayshia Adams Defends Contestants After Taking Over for Clare Crawley

2. Discuss expectations: Having a child can drastically change the dynamic of a relationship, so discussing future expectations is a must. Topics such as child care plans, living situations, and the future of your relationship are important to have early on to avoid conflict later. If you and your partner have different expectations, find ways to work through them and compromise for the benefit of your future child.

3. Continue relationship growth: Even though you may be focused on preparing for your child, it is still important to prioritize the growth of your relationship. This will show your partner that you view them as equally important to your future child and get them excited about becoming a family!

By Nicole Maher

In the latest celebrity news, Lamar Odom and Sabrina Parr have decided to call off their engagement. The couple was engaged in November of 2019, just three months after first being seen together in Atlanta, and had planned their wedding for November 2021.

According to Sabrina, this celebrity break-up is a result of Lamar Odom needing to work on himself. How do you know if you're in a good place mentally and emotionally for a relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes the state of a relationship is dependent on internal factors, such as mental and emotional readiness, rather than external factors. If you are wondering if you're mentally and emotionally ready for a relationship, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You have other outlets of happiness: Being in a relationship should be one of the highlights of your current life, but it should not be your only outlet of happiness. If the only thing that truly brings you joy is being around your partner, then you may not be mentally or emotionally ready for a relationship. Placing all of your happiness on one person can lead to unhealthy standards and more disappointments even if neither partner is in the wrong.

2. You're happy with the timing: When you are in a sound mental and emotional place, you are often happy with the progression of your life. If you are content with the rate at which your relationship is moving, as well as how it fits into your life overall, then you are ready to be in that relationship. However, if you feel that this relationship will cause you to miss out on different areas of your life, you may be in the spot to commit mentally.

3. You've processed past experiences: An obstacle that many people face in relationships is getting over negative past experiences caused by an ex. If you are entering a new relationship but are still holding onto issues caused by a past partner, you may not be emotionally ready. However, if you've processed and coped with these past issues, then you are likely in a good spot to go forward with a relationship.

Celebrity Break-Up: 'RHOBH' Star Erika Jayne & Tom Girardi Split After 21 Years Together

By Nicole Maher

In the latest celebrity news, Real Housewives of Beverly Hills' couple Erika Jayne and Tom Girardi have announced their split. According to EOnline.com, their celebrity break-up comes following 21 years of marriage. The couple had originally met while Jayne was working in West Hollywood and were engaged after six months of dating. Despite being married for two decades, Jayne expressed frustration about the public's continued reference to the couples' age gap.

In celebrity break-up news, it's over for Erika and Tom, who have been together for over two decades. How do you know when a long-term relationship has run its course?

Cupid's Advice:

Break-ups are never easy, no matter how long you and your partner have been together. However, spending years, or even decades, with another person can make the process of breaking up even more challenging. If you are looking for signs that your long-term relationship has run its course, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Holding on to happier times: Creating memories together can be one of the best parts of a relationship, but it can also cause people to remain in relationships that are reaching their end. If you find yourself holding on to memories that happened months or years ago, but have not made the same type of memories since, your relationship may have run its course. Breaking-up doesn't mean you have to forget all the great times in your relationship, it opens you up to new experiences.

2. You've grown in different directions: People are constantly growing and changing over the years. It's possible that you and your long-term partner have grown in different ways since the beginning of your relationship. While this is no one's fault, staying together despite your different paths in life may continue to cause conflicts that you're already facing.

3. Loss of feelings: No one wants to be told that their partner has lost feelings for them. Likewise, many people might not want to admit they've lost feelings for their partner. However, it's possible over the course of a long-term relationship for feelings to change, and holding on to past feelings of love that have disappeared will eventually lead to an unhealthy relationship.

Finding new ideas to make your partner's birthday special can be difficult, especially if you've been together for a long time. If you're looking for some ways to make your partner's birthday extra special this year, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Get them something sentimental: A great way to make a birthday feel special for your partner is to get them something meaningful as a gift. Thinking of sentimental and thoughtful gifts to give, like a handmade card, a handwritten poem, or a scrapbook of some sort will let your partner know how much you care, and can make their birthday feel even more special.

Fox was quick to comment on the image and questioned why her estranged husband did not crop their child out of the image. The celebrity couple officially split in May of this year after 10 years of marriage.

In celebrity news, there's definitely some drama between these exes, who share three kids together. What are some ways to iron out parenting differences with your ex?

Cupid's Advice:

It can be difficult to navigate co-parenting with an ex, especially if you have differing opinions on many fronts. If you are looking for some ways to iron out parenting differences with your ex, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Establish predetermined rules: An easy way to prevent conflict or differences from arising in the future is to establish some predetermined rules. If you are against having your children featured on social media, or want a universal curfew for both of your houses, these are rules that can be established ahead of time. Be sure to keep these rules straightforward and collaborative to help eliminate as many parenting differences as possible.

2. Ask for permission: There will always be gray-area when it comes to parenting, whether you and your partner are still together or not. A great way to avoid differences is to simply ask for permission when you are unsure if what you're about to do will upset the other parent. The other person involved will appreciate the open communication and hopefully do the same when faced with a situation they are unsure of.

3. Discuss differences privately: While it can be frustrating to navigate parenting differences, especially when they are repetitive issues, it's important to discuss these differences privately. Opening up your conflicts to many other people, such as posting on social media, will only add unnecessary tension to the strained relationship and make it harder to iron out differences in the future.

In celebrity break-up news, Jessie J is seemingly speaking out about her unhealthy relationship with Channing Tatum. What are some tell-tale signs that you're in an unhealthy relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

1. There's no compromise: One of the most important aspects of a relationship is the willingness to compromise. It is likely that you and your partner will not agree on everything, but when both people are willing to compromise in different ways, it allows for healthy communication and an overall healthy relationship. However, if your partner is not compromising in any way and you are constantly forced to follow their decisions, you are in an unhealthy relationship.

2. Other areas of your life are impacted: Unhealthy relationships can cause a great deal of stress and frustration when you are around your partner, but these feelings can also spread into other areas of your life. If you feel yourself getting frustrated with your other friends or work environment but are unsure why, it may be stemming from stress that started in your relationship.

3. You feel worse about yourself: The person you are in a relationship with should never leave you questioning your own worth or how much they care about you. While nearly every relationship goes through a rough patch, there should never be a time where your partner makes you feel like less of a person. This willingness to put you down shows a lack of overall respect and is likely a sign of unhealthy love.

In celebrity baby news, Lily Allen wants kids eventually with her new husband, but she may hold off for a little while since she's in a good place mentally. What are some ways mental health comes into play when deciding whether to have kids?

Cupid's Advice:

Having children leads to large changes in everyone's lives, but these changes can be especially challenging for those who struggle to maintain mental health. What mental health considerations should you make before having kids? Cupid has some advice:

1. Change in hormones: Pregnancy and childbirth are two events that cause large changes to a woman's hormones, which could also affect her mental health. If you are considering having children but are worried about the changes it will cause to your body because of your mental health, getting the advice of both a psychologist and an obstetrician can help you decide when the best time to try for a child may be.

2. Higher energy levels: Having and raising children requires large amounts of energy, which is something that may already be a struggle for someone with inconsistent mental health. While having a kid may allow for less rest days, there are many ways to structure your schedule that allow you to prioritize both raising your child and maintaining your balance of energy. On days where your energy is lower, try relying more on your partner or a babysitter.

3. Constant enthusiasm: Whether it's their first birthday, first steps, or first day of school, there is so much to celebrate as your child grows up. However, this constant need to have enthusiasm may be difficult for someone struggling to maintain good mental health. Waiting until you have more enthusiasm in your daily life to have a kid may be a good idea to prevent you from feeling like you're missing out on celebrating important milestones.

Whether you and your partner have shared passions, or they are drastically different, it is important to support each other through all of your endeavors. If you are looking for some ways to support your partner's passions, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Attend their events: Whether it's a sport, art style, or other type of hobby, it is likely that your partner will eventually start attending events centered around their passion. A great way to show your support is to accompany them to these types of events. Cupid's Advice:

While you are undoubtedly excited about your new relationship, you may not be the type of person who wants to formally announce it to everyone. If you are looking for some subtle ways to confirm your new relationship to family and friends, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Ask for a plus one: A great way to subtly announce that you and your partner have gotten more serious is to ask if you can bring them as a plus-one to an event. This will show your friends and family your relationship is growing as you are allowing for it to become more public.

Just because you see your friends and family releasing details about their relationship does not mean you are obligated to do the same thing. If you are looking for some reasons to keep your relationship under wraps at first, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You're just starting out: When you are just beginning a new relationship and aren't sure where it's going, you may wish to keep the details to yourself. Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes exes find their way back to each other only to form healthier, stronger relationships. If you are looking for some ways to decide if you should give a past relationship another chance, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Time has passed: After a break-up, it is necessary to allow enough time to pass before reaching out again with the hope of rekindling. It is likely that there were some large issues leading up to the break-up, and these will not be resolved overnight. By allowing each other enough time to learn and grow, your second try at the relationship may be more successful.

beginning, middle, and end. What do you do if you make a bad impression on your crush the first time you meet them?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes when we get nervous or are trying to impress someone we end up saying the wrong thing. While this may not lead to the best first impression, it doesn't mean that we completely blew our shot. If you are looking for some ways to make up for a bad first impression, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Acknowledge and apologize: Oftentimes the easiest way to move past an awkward encounter is to simply acknowledge it happened and apologize for it. This will ensure your crush that you also thought the first impression wasn't the best so they are not left wondering if that's how you normally act. Once the air is cleared, focus on impressing them next time!

2. Don't dwell on it: While the fact that you made a bad first impression on your crush may still be on the forefront of your mind, it is important not to dwell on this encounter. If you spend too much time focusing on what you did wrong, it can make it more difficult to show your crush your real personality moving forward. Once you've acknowledged it, just let it go!

3. Nail the second impression: First impressions are not last impressions. Once the air is cleared from an awkward first encounter and you have stopped dwelling on what you originally said, take every opportunity moving forward to make a better impression. Over time, your crush will forget how bad your first impression may have been and only think of the ways you have impressed them since.

Ending a relationship is never fun, but sometimes it is the only way to move forward with your own life. If you are looking for some ways to break the news to your soon-to-be ex partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. In person: The most respectful way to end a relationship with someone else is to have a conversation in person. Whether it is a newly formed relationship that you don't see working long term, or a relationship that has lasted years, the other person still deserves to be present for the conversation. This will allow the two of you to discuss the break-up without too much getting lost in the translation of technology.

2. Video chat: If distance is a factor in the relationship, or you truly cannot bring yourself to meet with your soon-to-be ex in person, video chats are a good alternative. This will allow you to break to news while still being able to see their face and register their emotions. While this option isn't as good as physically meeting up with someone, it is more respectful than a phone call or text.

3. Over the phone: As a last resort, break-ups can be done over the phone. If this is the route you chose to take when ending things with your partner, be sure to pick a time that allows for both of you to have a full conversation rather than calling while one of you is at work. While phone calls are far from the best option in terms of ending a relationship, they are still more respectful than sending a text or not telling your partner at all.
