Celebrity weddings aren't the only weddings that can be amazing and personal; yours can be, too. Cupid has three tips on personalizing your wedding festivities:

1. Add a shared interest to your theme. Do you have a favorite TV show or book series? Add it to your wedding theme to give your celebration a personal touch. It doesn't have to be anything huge or the whole thing. You can add little nods to your shared interest in small ways. If you're both into, say, Disney, you could use Disney wine glasses.

2. Have a theme you'll both enjoy. We've all heard that the wedding ceremony is all about the bride. But remember, your partner is part of this, too. If he thinks Twilight is strange and really doesn't like it, making Twilight your theme wouldn't be the best idea. Make it a shared interest theme if possible instead. Something that is just really "you two".

2. There is no such thing as the perfect parent: Humans by design are flawed creatures so of course there's no way someone could be a perfect parent. But that's OK. What matters is how you love and take care of your kid – that's all they care about. They don't want perfection.

Break-ups can be the talk of the town even if you aren't a celebrity. It's like Miranda Lambert sings, "Everybody dies famous in a small town." Whether you're living in the public eye or not, it can be difficult to navigate after a break-up.

Cupid has some dating advice on how to handle the public fallout:

1. Put a smile on: Although it may be difficult to wear a smile after breaking up with someone you clearly cared for, you have to do so eventually. You're going to go places that will remind you of your ex, and you're going to run into people who will know about the split. Try to embrace it all, and remember you're strong and still have many things to be happy about.

1. You feel indifferent towards your ex: You are no longer angry, sad, annoyed, or upset with your ex. You couldn't care less what they are doing or who they're seeing. You may be happy for your ex but you're not bothered with what's going on in their life one way or the other.
