How do you remain civil with your ex after a heated breakup?

Cupid's Advice:

Heated breakups are not in any sense enjoyable for anyone. They're messy, peoples' feelings get crushed, your friends and family get dragged into the relationship, you end up on different sides of the universe. Although you may not want to remain civil with your ex, you most likely share friends, are close with their relatives, have the same favorite restaurants, and may have kids together. Cupid has some advice on how to stay civil:

1. No bad-mouthing: Heated break ups tend to leave both parties bad-mouthing one another all across town. Although this may release steam and bottled up emotions, this is no way to act if you want to remain civil with your ex. Instead of spreading grotesque rumors or spilling your ex's deepest darkest secrets, say nothing at all. Yes, this will be challenging, and it will probably suck. However, no bad-mouthing means you both can attempt to remain civil.

2. Ground rules: You need to set ground rules for yourself, and for your ex. Depending on how heated the breakup was, you may need to split up areas. You get a certain amount of your favorite places, and they get the rest. This means no confrontation or communication at outside areas. If it is necessary, no communication whatsoever may need to be put into play. Depending on you and your mate, you make and adjust the rules.

3. Take it slow in new relationships: Keeping it civil with your ex isn't jumping straight into a new relationship. Of course you want nothing to do with your ex, and want to wash him from your memory. However, this is not easy nor is it possible. Take it slow when you're getting in to new relationships. It is not necessary to delve into some new person when you have unresolved business with your ex.

What We Can Learn from “the Work” Celeb Couples Do

By Jane Greer, Ph.D. for Galttime.com

When Ben Affleck accepted the Oscar for best picture on Sunday night, he thanked wife Jennifer Garner saying marriage is hard work, but it is the best kind of work. One area that takes great effort in a relationship is finding the balance between each person's needs and desires. Say football is your thing.

It always has been, ever since you were a little kid watching at home with your dad. So it is impossible for you to understand why your new partner has no interest in it. You want to go to games together, talk about plays, and plan weekends around the tailgate parties. But she says no. What do you do?

There is no question that one of the pleasures of being in a relationship is sharing the things you love with the one you love. If pizza is your thing – well, then by all means, it would be convenient if the person you're dating had similar feelings about it. If that were the case, you could be together and have your favorite food at the same time. But it doesn't always work that way. In reality, two different people often have two different sets of tastes. So how can you preserve your own pleasures, hobbies and space to do what you love while being in a serious relationship? And is there a way to include your significant other but not force feed them?

This is where a "thank you" portion can be useful. You remember when you were a child and your mother wanted you to eat the peas, right? They looked awful but you had to have a few to appease her, so you took a small "thank you" portion. In other words, you took a taste. Before you suggest this, though, acknowledge to your partner that you understand and accept this is not their cup of tea. But sometimes, when it's a play-off game or something special is going on, you would really like to have their company. Be clear that you know it is a sacrifice of sorts, but you would really love it if they watched just this one game with you. Not the whole season, just this one game; a "thank you" portion.

In that way you can share your passions and interests to some extent, while respecting your partner's interests at the same time. The key is to encourage them to be open and try to appreciate what it is that you find so fascinating. Who knows, she might actually become a football fan. Sharing pleasures, and being open to each other, simply helps to turn the wheels for more mutual passion together.

Celebrity News: Rihanna on Relationship With Chris Brown 'We're Adults Now'

By Andrea Surujnauth

According to UsMagazine.com, Rihanna told Elle that she's trying to build a friendship with her ex, Chris Brown. It was only four years ago that the Barbados-born beauty was assaulted by Brown. Even so, she said, "Now that we're adults, we can do this right. We got a fresh start, and we're thankful for that." The pop star also explained that they're not looking for an intimate relationship, just a friendship. "Right now, that's just what we want – a great friendship that's unbreakable." Still, Rihanna has big plans for her future. When asked where she thinks she will be in five years, she replied, "I will probably have a kid."

How can you develop a friendship with your ex?

Cupid's Advice:

Before becoming friends with your ex-partner, it's important to take some time to be apart and truly let go of your past love. As impossible as it may seem to be friends, know that it can be done. Here are some tips from Cupid to help you develop a friendship with your ex.

1. Be sure: First, it's best to think about whether or not you're ready to be friends with your ex. Think about the reasons for your breakup. Was your ex the type of person to use you or hurt you? Also think about whether or not you still have feelings for your ex. Will having them in your life make it difficult for you to move on? You don't want your new friendship to be a toxic part of your life.

2. Be patient: If your ex is not completely over your breakup, they might not be ready to become friends. Respect their feelings, give them time and don't get frustrated. Continue to be nice to them and show them that you mean well.

3. Communicate: Don't expect that they will automatically be calling you and asking you to hang out every weekend. Do you really want to see them that often anyways? If you want to develop a friendship, then you should be the one to pick up the phone and set some plans.

It really is possible to keep up with a busy career, stay in shape and spend time with your family!

Celebrity Mom: Holly Madison Discusses Baby Names – Right Before She Heads to the Hospital!

Cupid's Pulse
★ Celebrities. Love. Opinions. ★

By Whitney Baker

Holly Madison first stole our hearts as Hugh Hefner's number one bunny on E!'s reality show Girls Next Door. Since the show ended in 2010, Madison has made quite a name for herself, appearing on the eighth season of Dancing with the Stars, headlining Peepshow at Planet Hollywood in Las Vegas and starring in her own television show, Holly's World. Of course, in recent months, her focus has shifted: in August 2012, she announced that she was expecting her first child with boyfriend Pasquale Rotella.

"I've finally met the man of my dreams and am ecstatic to be starting a family," Madison shared. "But I'm really grateful that I had several years of working hard as a single woman before diving into being a mom. I feel like I needed that for my identity."

The Playboy model and husband Rotella, a club promoter, have been prepping for their daughter's fast-approaching arrival, and the mom-to-be has been sharing her pregnancy experience with fans via her blog and Twitter. As open as she's been, there's one thing that the couple is keeping under wraps: the baby's unique name. "We have a pretty unusual name picked out. So unusual that we aren't telling anyone what it is until the deed is done!"

Related Link: Kim Kardashian and Kanye West Are Expecting a Baby Girl

In the past few weeks, pregnancy has certainly slowed Madison down a bit. "I've started getting a little uncomfortable – it's hard to even reach my feet to tie my shoes!" she said. "I've kind of been in nesting and hibernating mode."

Still, she continues to make headlines. Just last week, Madison revealed that she plans to ingest her placenta after the birth of her little girl. When asked about her decision to do so, the reality star said, "A baby nurse I met with suggested I have my placenta made into pills because it can help prevent postpartum depression. I figured why not! It can't be bad for me."

As busy as they've been in anticipation of their baby's due date (tomorrow!), Madison and Rotella have still made time to focus on their relationship. "I feel like we're getting to know each other because we've only been together for a little over a year," the Vegas performer said. "We're learning so much about each other just from trying to agree on little things when it comes to renovating our new home, so I can only imagine what we will learn from raising our daughter."

Madison has already learned a thing or two from her pregnancy. "My only advice so far is to let yourself know that it's okay to not be quite as ambitious as you were before you were pregnant," she explained. "Creating a child is a huge responsibility, and you have to make time for that, maybe sacrifice some things that don't fit into your life anymore."

As for her relationship with Rotella, Madison thinks that communication is most important when it comes to keeping the romance alive. "Sometimes, other people don't understand how uncomfortable pregnancy can be, how occupied your mind can get and how you just don't feel sexy. You don't want your significant other to get the wrong idea and assume you aren't attracted to him anymore."

"Our relationship is great," she adds.

So great, in fact, that Madison has started to plan their wedding. "I'm trying to secure a really unique and special venue and choose a date. I'm hoping for some time in August."

Related Link: QuickieChick's Video Dating Tips: Are You the Marrying Kind?

As excited as she is to become both wife and a mom, there's one thing that Madison is still figuring out. How will she tell her baby about her life as a Playboy Playmate? "I'll be really honest with her and let her know that it wasn't all unicorns and rainbows like you see on television," she shared. "You kind of have to be damaged and have low self-esteem to put yourself in a situation like that."

So what's next for the soon-to-be mom? "Besides learning how to be a mom and getting back into shape, I would love to return to the stage – but in a musical this time. I've been concentrating on my singing lessons during my pregnancy." Given her impressive career, we're confident that Madison will excel at whatever she does next – especially when it comes to raising her little girl.

You can keep up with Madison by visiting her blog or following her on Twitter.

What are some good changes your partner can inspire in you?

Cupid's Advice:

Being in a relationship changes you in both good and bad ways. If you're lucky, your partner will inspire you to be a better person, teaching you how to love more and allowing you to be your best self. Here are three positive ways that your significant other may change you.

1. Passion: Being with another person who accepts you for who you are enables you to feel passionate about your relationship. You'll feel thankful to share your life with someone so wonderful. You'll want to spend all of your time with your partner, making them better just as they make you better.

2. Tolerance: Every relationship requires work; it wouldn't be a relationship if it were easy. Your mate will teach you how to build tolerance, including patience with yourself and your beau and respect for your relationship.

3. Compromise: Compromise is important to every relationship. Even if you think you and your partner are perfect for each other, you will still have disagreements. Learning to compromise will strengthen your love and also improve your relationships with other people.

How has your partner inspired you? Explain below!

Celebrity Couple: Michelle Williams and Jason Segel Call It Quits

By Andrea Surujnauth

Michelle Williams and Jason Segel have decided to end their long-distance relationship. According to UsMagazine.com, Williams and Segel called it quits earlier this month. Williams, actress in Oz the Great and Powerful, lives in New York with daughter Matilda, 7, from her relationship with the late Heath Ledger. Segel, star of How I Met Your Mother, lives in Los Angeles where his CBS sitcom is filmed. In March 2012, Us Weekly broke the news about their secret relationship, and the two were always extremely hush-hush about their romance. Their sudden split is apparently due to their distance from one another.

What are some things you can do to make your long-distance relationship stronger?

Cupid's Advice:

Long distance relationships are a real test of love. They can be very difficult and trying on a relationship. Luckily, Cupid is here with some advice on how to have a successful long-distance relationship.

1. Be on the same page: Make sure you both agree on the definition of “relationship” and identify what standards you need to uphold while away from one another. If you decide that you’re exclusive, you need to agree on not dating other people and set ground rules on what is allowed and what isn’t.

2. Bond: Try doing things together even though the two of you are apart. Watch your favorite television show while on the phone together. Make sure you chat with each other everyday; you can even talk while doing your day-to-day activities. Keep each other updated on what is new in your lives to help prevent you from growing apart despite the distance.

3. Skype: What a great invention! Skype is a program that allows you to talk, message and see one another over the Internet. You can download it on your computer or even on your smart phone. Think it can’t possibly get any better? Well, Skype is free. Seeing each other will make you feel even closer.

She also shared her news on her website stating, “And here we are: halfway into September, Jada will have a brother or sister. We are of course delighted. I’m doing fine, even though I tire more easily right now.”

How do you prepare for your second child versus your first?

Cupid’s Advice:

You already had your first child. The second should be a breeze, right? Think again. You may not be as prepared for your second child as you think. Cupid is here to help though!

1. Go through old stuff: Figure out which of your first child's clothes and bottles can be reused for the second child. Certain things can be used again, especially if they are not gender-specific items such as green and yellow clothing and denim.

2. Budget: Establish a budget that will accommodate your growing family's needs. Don't forget to consider expenses for your first child. Although a new baby is expensive, you do not want to neglect your first baby.

3. Prepare your first child: Make sure your first child is looking forward to the new baby. You do not want any jealousy issues to arise, so instill the feeling of excitement and new-found responsibility in your first child.

Be there for your beau to help with whatever they are unable to do for themselves. Get them a "feel better" gift or card. Do something special for them.

2. Be their nurse: Make sure your partner is comfortable and taking whatever medication were prescribed. If they have bandages, change them for your sweetie whenever needed. Make sure they are being healthy throughout their healing process.

Trawick, who stepped down as Britney's manager when they started dating in 2009, proposed in December 2011. Reports suggest that Britney, 31, who has two sons with ex-husband Kevin Federline, decided to cut ties because Trawick, 41, is not interested in having more children. Whether this was the true reason they called it off or not, it's an opportunity for the rest of us to discuss when calling off an engagement is the right choice.

Getting engaged can sometimes be a challenge, but knowing when it's a mistake and it's time to end it is even more difficult. While reaching that point is different for every couple, here are a few indicators that canceling, or at least postponing, the wedding might be in everyone's best interest.

The event is keeping you together more than the relationship. Is the event itself, and all the time and money that has gone into planning it, the reason you are moving forward even though you feel in your gut that this is not the right thing to do? Every time you think of taking that drastic step and breaking the engagement, do you picture the invitations and the cake that have already been ordered and tell yourself it will be okay? If that's the case, then it is a red flag that something isn't right. Or is everyone else telling you how lucky you are, but you just don't believe it? If, in your core, you feel that something essential is missing and constantly reassure yourself that it's not, that important.

Your "big issue" with each other keeps rearing its ugly head. Another red flag that you might not be ready is if there is a problem behavior that you hoped would disappear as your big day approached, but instead continues to cause difficulties. That could involve anything from alcohol and drugs, to an issue at work, to an ongoing drama with your future in-laws. If you find yourself constantly dealing with extreme anger and resentment, you might want to think about putting off that date and getting help before you say, "I do."

You have a sense of dread, doubt, guilt or obligation. If you have lots of doubts, and are dreading the day that should be so happy, what you want to do is focus on evaluating your relationship and your situation. Additional warning signs are if instead of feeling that your life is expanding and getting bigger and better, you instead feel like you're making a sacrifice and giving up too much of your freedom and what is valuable to you. Also, if your motivation for following through with the wedding plans is stemming from guilt: hurting your fiancé, disappointing your parents, or upsetting your friends, you might want to reconsider.

You are moving forward for the kids. In Britney's case, it has been said that Trawick has developed a strong relationship with her kids over the years. He was quoted as saying he "adored" them. Sometimes thinking that sticking it out would be best for the kids keeps people together even if it isn't the best thing for the adults. In this instance, the person doing the breaking up can feel guilty about hurting and letting down the children. If Britney experienced this at all, it didn't hold her back.

You feel the old "I love you but I'm not IN LOVE with you." While you may love your partner, you may not be in love with them. This is the passion that helps you navigate and negotiate the many ups and downs of marriage, which you need in order to make it work. If it isn't there, trust your gut. Britney did that, you can, too.

How to Date Like A Celebrity

By Andrea Surujnauth

You always hear about celebrities going on flashy dates and having such a great time. But how can we experience glamorous dates like that without having to rob a bank? We took some extravagant dates by different celebrities ... and re-modeled them with more reasonable price tags. No need to break a sweat when re-creating these amazing dates:

Justin Bieber and Selena Gomez

The Biebs has a wallet that weighs more than he does, so he had no problem taking Selena Gomez to the Staples Center just to watch the Titanic ... all alone. No biggie!

DIY Version:

Throw on a nice outfit. Just because you're watching a movie at home doesn't mean it has to be the same old DVD and pajama routine. No need to wear a dress suit, but give the pajamas a rest today. Get a projector and some yummy popcorn. Turn the lights off, get close and enjoy your at home movie. No LA Lakers arena needed!

Jennifer Aniston and Justin Theroux

This sweet couple decided to have a romantic dinner under the stars. The two were in Paris together and had a nice meal in the Eiffel Tower. Talk about a star-studded date!

DIY Version:

Have a late night picnic in your backyard. Cook something nice, dress up your backyard picnic table with a white table cloth, and light a few tikki torches and candles. Sit out in your backyard and watch the stars while you and your date enjoy a meal. Who needs Paris with a date like that?

Justin Bieber and Selena Gomez (again)

This kid never takes a break from spending all that money. He took Selena Gomez to see a Demi Lovato concert. How sweet! Is it any wonder why girls all around the world go crazy for this teen sensation?

DIY Version:

We all know how much those concert tickets cost. The only seats that are well...sort of.. affordable are the ones all the way in the back. Binoculars anyone? Well instead of wasting money on a terrible date, go see a local band perform. The music is just as great with less crowds.

Sophia Vergara and Nick Loeb

So this hot couple went to Mexico to see the ruins together. Vergara brought her whole family and ended up getting engaged on top of one of the ruins. The two got permission to climb one of the beautiful ruins where Loeb got down and on one knee and proposed to Vergara.

DIY Version:

Here is a date idea with some history thrown in just like Vergara's rendezvous in Mexico but minus the proposal. Go to museum with your beau. Museums usually have one free day and some are even free everyday. How's that for a breathtaking price tag?

These kids have been the center of most arguments between Rimes and Glanville. In one incident, Rimes called the children "my boys" on Twitter, which cause Glanville to become extremely upset. Now it seems that Glanville is tired of the fighting with the country music star. According to UsMagazine.com she told Access Hollywood, "This is my final chapter. This is me closing to door on our public fight. I want it out of the media. I'll just deal with it as best I can with them." She went on to say, "I don't think we'll be friends, but I hope we can coexist peacefully. Once she has a child of her own, I think she will understand boundaries and what's respectful to do and how to handle things a little better."

How do you cope with a step mom/dad of whom you don't approve?

Cupid's Advice:

You can not choose who your ex-spouse marries or starts a relationship with. What should you do if you do not approve of who they choose to be with? Not to worry, Cupid is here to help you learn to cope:

1. Do not take the relationship personally: Realize that your ex did not start this new relationship to hurt you. They are just trying to get on with their lives. By realizing this, your hostility towards the new relationship won't be as severe.

2. Do not jump into a new relationship: Do not get yourself into a new relationship before you're ready. If you jump into the next person's arms that comes along, you are likely to get hurt. If you get hurt in your new relationship, you will feel even more upset about your ex being in a new stable relationship.

3. Acceptance: Accept that your ex is in a new relationship and once it is serious, your kids will be getting to know your ex's new partner. Do not fight over your children, they still know who you are to them and they will still love you. Fighting over them will only cause them to feel depressed.

New Couple: Adam Brody and Leighton Meester Are Secretly Dating!

By Andrea Surujnauth

According to UsMagazine.com, Adam Brody and Leighton Meester have been secretly dating for weeks! Brody, who used to play Seth Cohen on WB's The O.C., costarred in The Oranges with Meester. A source told UsMagazine.com that the two were close and friendly while on set. The source went on to say that the pair have been hanging out quite a bit since then although they managed to stay out of the public eye. Apparently these love birds even went to Bangkok together. Meester, who is best known for portraying Blair Waldorf in Gossip Girl previously dated Aaron Himelstein but the two broke up during the holidays.

What are some reasons to keep your relationship out of the public eye?

Cupid's Advice:

When you're in a relationship you're so happy that you want to yell to everyone that your dating someone amazing. So why do some choose to keep their relationship under wraps? Cupid is here to tell you why staying on the down low may be a good choice...at least at first anyway:

1. Publicity adds pressure: When a relationship is new, it tends to be very delicate. Keeping your relationship under the radar will help avoid strain that being public may bring. Having your relationship out in public is having it open for people to judge every aspect of it. It might be better to make sure that the relationship is strong enough to handle these pressures before letting everyone in on your new found love.

2. Making sure that it will last: You don't want to tell everyone about your relationship and then have it end a month later. It can be very embarrassing and depressing when someone asks you about your relationship a few weeks after you make it public and you are forced to admit that it is over. Keeping things quiet about your relationship at first will give you time to make sure you and your new beau are compatible enough to maintain a long term relationship.

3. Jealousy: Keeping your new relationship under wraps can help avoid jealousy issues from exs or others. Waiting until you get to know your sweetheart better before opening your relationship up to the world will help to avoid issues from jealous outsiders.

How Celebrity Couples

Overcome Their Stressful Lives

By Whitney Baker

While it's tempting to think that celebrity couples never experience the ups-and-downs of real life, that's not always the case. Like everyone else, they must survive personal heartbreak, career letdowns and various forms of rejection – and they must do it all in the public eye. Of course, being a Tinseltown twosome means that they have money and means to overcome their stressful lives, perhaps by doing one of the activities below.

1. Learning something new: Although stars are often on set for long hours or traveling for various commitments, there is always downtime during their hectic schedules, giving them time to pick up a new hobby. For instance, Curtis Stone, who has a son with fiancée Lindsay Price, hopes that he and Price can learn how to speak Spanish and then teach their son the language.

2. Taking an extravagant vacation: Thanks to their hefty paychecks and flexible jobs, stars can jet off to Mexico or the Caribbean on a whim. Some of them even own their own private planes, making it extra easy to take a last-minute vacation. After co-hosting ABC's New Year's Rockin' Eve with Jenny McCarthy, Ryan Seacrest headed down to St. Barts for some fun in the sun with his long-time girlfriend Julianne Hough. This trip provided some much-needed R&R for the busy couple: Seacrest is gearing up for the twelfth season of American Idol, while Hough is promoting her upcoming movie Safe Haven. Likewise, Reese Witherspoon, Jim Toth and their three children spent the holidays in Hawaii.

3. Enjoying normal, domestic activities: Sometimes, just doing basic, everyday chores helps alleviate the pressure that comes with being rich and famous. When their schedules align and Carrie Underwood and husband Mike Fisher are both at their Nashville home, they like to keep things simple: they often spend time cooking and watching television together. Underwood likes to keep a similar routine when she's on tour, often doing her own laundry on her days off.

4. Donating to charities: While stardom certainly comes with stress, it also includes many wonderful perks. One way for stars to fully appreciate how blessed they are is by giving back – and no couple does this better than the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge. Kate Middleton is making sure her charitable donations reflect on her pregnancy; in January, she gave both a hamper of new baby products and a package of baby clothes to one of her favorite causes, East Anglia Children's Hospices.

5. Adopting a puppy: Similarly, many celebrities show their goodwill by rescuing dogs from local shelters. These furry creatures provide them with constant companions despite their busy schedules. At the start of the New Year, Miley Cyrus and Liam Hemsworth adopted a Chihuahua-mix puppy, Bean, who joins their family of four other rescued dogs. Likewise, Katherine Heigl – who even started her own animal companion charity – and husband Josh Kelley have a full house: they're raising their two daughters alongside seven rescued dogs.

Selena Gomez is 'Having a Good Time' Post-Split with Justin Bieber

By Meghan Fitzgerald

Unfortunately, Selena Gomez and Justin Bieber are still broken up. Even though the couple were loved by many, they are learning to deal in separate ways. Gomez has been completely content with their breakup. According to EOnline.com, she said, "I've been recording, having a lot of fun with my girlfriends, having a good time." Bieber on the other hand is not handling the breakup well, reports People. Gomez is even using her breakup to separate herself from her Disney image.

What are some ways to quickly get over a painful breakup?

Cupid's Advice:

Breakups suck. It's as simple as that. They are not easy and they are not something a person wishes for; however, they do happen and there are ways to cope with them. Every person reacts to breakups differently and there are certain ways to get over them. Cupid has some advice:

1. Rebound: Although this may not be the most mature decision, rebounds get your mind away from the situation that you're in.

You can simply delve into another person to forget about the person who just broke your heart. This will still hurt and it may not be easy for you to be intimate with someone else however, you will have fun and stop thinking about your ex.

2. Drink your pain away: Similar to the first scenario, drinking excessively may not be the best situation for you. Depending on how you live your life, drinking may not help you cope. However, for most women, a bottle of wine in, you will not remember the guy who broke your heart. All you will love is the bottle of Cabernet on your counter.

3. Talk to your parents: Who better to help you with your relationship problems than your mother or father? The most wise people on the planet are simply a phone call away. Even if your parents are not always the person you want to talk to, they have so much wisdom to spread. Also, you can cry to your parents and they won't judge you.

Have you got over a breakup quickly? Explain below!
